They have one daughter, Mrs. Fred Otto, Swanton, and three grandchildren.

Stanya-Price Wedding Held

Miss Hallie Jane Price of McKeesport, Pa., became the bride of George Michael Stanya on Saturday morning, August 28, at 11:45 o'clock in St. Peter's Catholic church in Oakland.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Price, 1525 Kansas Avenue, White Oak, McKeesport. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Stanya, route 2, Oakland.

Special music during the nuptial ceremony included "The Lord's Prayer", and "Ava Maria." A reception followed at Deep Creek Lodge, at McHenry.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Virginia Thayer, sister of the bride, and bridesmaids were Miss Carol Stanya, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Mary Ann Hunter, McKeesport; and Miss Brenda DelSignore, Oakland. Serving as best man was James Thayer, Oakland. Ushers were Nelson Swartzentruber, Joseph Germain and David Nordeck, Oakland. A niece of the bride, Lisa Thayer, and Virginia White, Washington, were flower girls.

The bride wore a long lace and peau de soie gown with fitted empire bodice, modified scoop neckline, edged in scalloped lace, elbow sleeves, and a bell skirt ending in a chapel sweep. Her Dior bow caught a three-tiered veil of illusion and she carried a colonial bouquet of white daisies, stephanotis and ivy. Attendants were attired in long yellow and white gowns with fitted bodices accented by embroidered flowers, elbow sleeves, long sheath skirt featuring flowing back panels and accents of green velvet ribbon on the sleeves and at the waistline. Their Dior hairbows caught blusher veils and they carried colonial bouquets of yellow daisies.

Flower girls wore long yellow dresses. The mother of the bride chose a beige lace over taffeta sheath with pale green accessories. The bridegroom's mother selected a beige and brown sheath dress with white accessories. They had corsages of pale green cymbidium orchids. After a wedding trip to Mont Chateau near Morgantown, Mr. and Mrs. Stanya are residing in Morgantown, where the bridegroom is a student in accounting at West Virginia university. The bride attended Robert Morris Junior college near Pittsburgh.

Welch, of Essex, former Oakland residents. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Reverend Edgar Hammersla in the Bel Air Methodist Church, Bel Air.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length empire gown of white organza over taffeta with embroidered roses and pearling throughout the gown and her detachable chapel train. Her veil of silk illusion fell from a crown of white seeded pearls. She also wore a cultured pearl necklace, a gift from the groom, and carried an old fashioned bouquet of white roses and carnations.

Miss Sharon Smith, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and wore a floor length empire waist gown of lemon yellow organdy over taffeta. She wore a matching headpiece and carried an old fashioned bouquet of yellow roses and white carnations.

Identical gowns in mint green were worn by the bridesmaids, Miss Betty Lynch and Mrs. Barbara Welch. They also wore matching headpieces in mint green and carried bouquets of mixed roses.

Thomas Garrett, Jr., served as best man, and the ushers were Ronald Pulignani and Jack Whitmer, all from the Baltimore area.

The traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Edwin Walker. The soloist, Miss Carol Miranda, sang, "O Perfect Love" and "The Wedding Prayer".

Mrs. Smith, mother of the bride, wore a sheath dress of blue lace over taffeta with matching jacket and accessories and wore a white orchid corsage.

The groom's mother wore a lace sheath dress in bone with matching jacket and accessories and also wore a white orchid corsage.

Urges Dynamic Thinking For GOP

Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton, Eastern Shore Rep. congressman, called for more dynamic thinking and action at the local level to prevent the federal government from superimposing its control, at a meeting of Republican policy makers in Baltimore last Saturday.

"We're not doing the job at the county or state level that we should", Morton said. "When you fail to come up with a dynamic program to meet the needs of people, you invite the federal government to come in".

Cities Anti-Poverty Plan

Morton said the federal anti-poverty program was a good example of this. He called it a "can of worms", to administer, but said this is because it is being done at the wrong level of government. "We failed to tackle this problem at the county level," Morton said.

"We have not had the imagination to stimulate thinking and action on this and other problems at the local level. We sit around and complain. Let's start doing something about it."

Morton called for the party to take strong stands in the 1966 elections on such matters as stopping pollution of the Chesapeake Bay, developing better rapid transit facilities, making it possible for all who want a college education to get one, and stimulating more economic development.

Morton called generally for a concerted attack on improving the environment Americans live in.

Morton was lead-off speaker at the first of two all-day meetings the Republican party is holding to develop a state-wide policy for the 1966 elections. After a meeting Sept. 25, the 40-member policy committee will meet with the GOP state central committee to formulate and adopt stands on six issues.

Four-H Week . . .

Whatever you are doing and wherever you live—during the week of September 25 through October 2—you should give your attention, interest and support to an observance that will take place. It is National 4-H Club Week.

It would be difficult to praise the 4-H movement too highly. Because of it, great numbers of boys and girls are helped to learn the fundamentals of farm activities—and farming, in these days, is a combination of business, art and craft. The ancient virtues that are an implicit element in land and nature are combined with the technology of today.

We live in an increasingly urbanized society. Inevitable as that may be, a very great deal of the strength and the character of this nation is found in the rural side of its life. The land, and those who work it, feed and clothe and sustain us. And there, away from the congested cities with all their problems, is the strongly beating heart of this nation.

There are no juvenile delinquents in the ranks of 4-H. They carry on those traditions—pride of purpose, fair dealing, independence, consideration for others—that are so vital to that heartbeat.

Murder Trial Is Set For Today

Will Be Conducted Before Full Bench, Three Associate Judges

Edwin Joe Abney, 31, of Poplar Bluff, Mo., is being tried in the Circuit court in Oakland on a charge of murder beginning this morning at 10 o'clock. The trial will be before three associate judges, Stuart F. Hamill, Harold E. Naughton and James Getty.

State's Attorney Fred A. Thayer, who is prosecuting the case, said he planned to call twelve witnesses. He is being assisted in the case by W. Dwight Stover.

Abney is being defended by William W. Grant, and assisting him will be Lewis R. Jones.

The man was formally charged on August 16, of killing Elmore Allen Templeton, 37, of Waterproof, La. and he had waived his right to indictment by the grand jury and had requested immediate trial.

The shooting on the streets of Friendsville on August 13 apparently stemmed from an argument among several men. Templeton had attempted to be the peacemaker. He was struck in the left side of his back and the .22 caliber revolver bullet penetrated his body and came to rest in the right chest cavity. Both men were working with a pipe line company which was installing a pipe line for the Texas Eastern corporation in the Accident area.

Report Awaited on Miller

The court is still waiting for a report from the Clifton T. Perkins hospital, on the mental condition of Gary Lee Miller, a youth charged with rape of a 23-year-old married woman of Salisbury.

Miller waived his right to indictment and had sought immediate trial, but he was ordered to be sent to the hospital for psychiatric examination. The date for trial will be set when the report is received from the hospital.

Comstock Speaks At Joint Dinner

James Comstock, editor of the West Virginia Hillbilly and the Nicholas News Leader, Richwood, addressed over one hundred persons last Thursday night at a joint dinner meeting of the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce and the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, at the Will o' the Wisp dining room.

Mr. Comstock told of his recent tour of northeastern states where he did a personal survey of tourism, and told of his apparent success in promoting tourism in his own state.

He gave two examples, the Cass railroad, which was about to be sold for junk, which is now a state owned tourist attraction; and the Pearl S. Buck birthplace at Hillsboro, which a state woman's organization has now agreed to accept the responsibility of purchasing the place after Comstock had put up his own money for it.

His contention of what is wrong with tourism is that too often people who can do something about it don't get out to see what is being done in other areas. His philosophy of tourism is that it is as much his job as the next fellow's and the next fellow must feel that way too.

There was a display of county photos taken by M. E. Warren, of Annapolis, which created much interest. The dinner was in the form of a buffet.

Davis-Stony River Dam Road Opened

The West Virginia State Roads commission has opened 13.723 miles of State route 93, in Tucker county which is designated as "Stony River Dam road". The opening was part of some mileage opened to emphasize "National Highway Week."

The route 93 project, started in May, 1964, provides a two-lane road through an area where there is no other highway. The construction cost was about $2.6 million, with financing under the federal aid "ABC" program, of 50 percent state and 50 percent federal funds.

Running from West Virginia 32 at Davis, northeastward, to W. Va. 42 near Bismarck, the completed section goes through the mountains to serve the Virginia Electric Power company project at the new Stony River dam in Grant county, near Mt. Storm, and to open an area for recreational development.

Tawes Will Call Special Session

Gov. Tawes announced yesterday he would call a special session of the Maryland Legislature for October 11 to enact reapportionment legislation.

He made the announcement after meeting with Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan and legislatives leaders to discuss their latest plan for redistributing voting strength in the General Assembly.

Finan had told the governor the plan, approved by the Legislative Council, probably would not meet the Supreme Court's "one-man, one-vote" requirement.

Senate President William S. James, said the council unit would meet in Annapolis September 28, in an attempt to amend the plan. Finan had suggested that, with modification of provisions affecting the Senate composition, that the plan would be constitutional.

The plan, approved last June, would expand the 29-member Senate to 45 members and would realign voting strength within the present 142-seat House.

Bow Season Begins

The bow and arrow season for deer, either male or female, began last Wednesday, September 15, and will continue until November 25. Another session will be given December 6 to 16, and also another one later in the year.

Thus far two hunters have reported successes to the Mt. Nebo station north of Oakland.

Directors To Meet

Directors of the Property Owners association, Inc., met last Friday evening at 8 o'clock, at which time Miss Ethel Grove was elected secretary-treasurer for the coming year. Miss Grove had been serving in that capacity since the death of the former officer, T. J. Stanton.

She said the group planned to continue to work on the sanitation problem at the Lake. Another directors meeting is planned for October.

P.-T. A. Committee Meets

The executive committee of the Crellin Parent-Teachers association met Monday night at the school. Several recommendations were made which will be presented to the PTA at its first meeting of the school year on Tuesday, September 28, at 7:30 o'clock. There will be a guest speaker.

New Regulations Governing Junk Yards Approved

Commissioners Conduct Public Hearing On Tuesday

Rules and regulations governing junkyards in the county were approved at a public hearing before the county commissioners in the court house in Oakland on Tuesday afternoon.

A notice of the hearing had been published for the past several weeks. All who attended the hearing were favorable to the action taken by the Commissioners, and the notice is appearing in this week's issue in the form of a legal advertisement, as required by law. The action followed a reading of the proposed regulations by Lewis R. Jones, attorney to the Commissioners.

The rules apply to junk yards, public or private dumps, auto junk yards or outdoor places where old motor vehicles are stored in quantity or dismantled.

It will be required for an operator of such a place to secure a license after proper application. The cost of licenses granted runs from $75 to $10 per year. The regulation takes effect October 1.

The action came after numerous complaints had been received by the Commissioners from many areas during recent years. The rules and regulations follow along the general lines of those in other counties. The new rules stipulate that any junk yard must be 500 feet from a public highway, at least 1,000 feet from a public park, public beach or other public recreational area, and at least 1,000 feet from a residence or business establishment or any other site determined to be detrimental to the public interest by the commissioners.

The regulation also provides for maintenance, for an inspection twice annually by health department officials and a report made to the commissioners. Junk yards are to be screened from public view.

A violation is termed a misdemeanor and those convicted of failing to obey the regulations must pay $25 with each day on which a violation continues being a separate offense.

Purpose of the regulations is to protect residents from unpleasant and unwholesome conditions, to preserve beauty and to safeguard the public health.

County To Have New Mfg. Process

A plant which will introduce a new manufacturing process to this area is to open soon on the Red Run road, about one half mile north of U. S. route 40, at the Robison restaurant, east of Grantsville.

The plant will be an outlet of Lusterrock International, a Houston, Texas, corporation which has patents on a method of encasing marble and stone in a polyester resin. The product is usable as interior and exterior wall panels, as table and vanity tops, for kitchen work surfaces and can be fused with some types of home furniture.

Walter Michael is the manager. He completed a period of training in Houston. Mr. Michael said slices and chips of marble, granite, mother of pearl, quartz and other varieties of stone are used in the process. Raw materials for the product are to be shipped from Houston. The finished product will be marketed for area distributors and dealers.

The process was developed several years ago by a Cleveland chemist, according to Mr. Michael. At present Mr. Michael is the only one employed at the plant, but expansion is probable.

Amish Story Features Yoder Family In "Sun"

A story of Western Maryland's Amish will appear in the Sunday Magazine section of The Sun this Sunday, September 26.

The story is by J. D. Dilts, with photos by A. Aubrey Bodine, and concerns the Lloyd E. Yoder family at their home in Casselman Valley near Grantsville, and others in the Amish-Mennonite group.

County To Return To Standard Time

Garrett county towns, all but one or two, will return to standard time on Sunday morning, September 26, at 2 o'clock.

At the same time Garrett county schools, except Bloomington, will revert to standard time.

The county officially will make no move, since it made no official move this spring. However, hours of business in various offices corresponded to daylight time. They will return to standard time Sunday morning.

This still will not end the confusion completely since some eastern states are remaining on daylight time until the last Sunday in October. This includes the rest of Maryland. As a result at least two state agencies in the county will continue to operate on daylight time. They are the Department of Employment Security and the State Roads commission office.

Schools will return to standard time Monday morning, September 27, despire the inconvenience of some students catching Allegany county buses for transportation to Allegany county schools. Bloomington school will be the only school to remain on fast time because of transportation problems with Allegany county.

West Virginia officially returns to standard time Sunday morning. The legislature of West Virginia decreed fast time from the fourth Sunday in April to the fourth Sunday in September.

No changes are anticipated in the schedule of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad until sometime in October.

Last year the town of Grantsville decided to remain on fast time until the latter part of October, to coincide with Somerset county, Pa., and Allegany county, Md., which are remaining on fast time until that date. It was expected the same procedure would be carried out this year.

One Man Served Fourteen Warrants For Check Writing

A Kitzmiller man was out on $1,000 cash bond Tuesday after being apprehended on fourteen warrants, two for forgery, and twelve for false pretense.

He was listed on the docket of Trial Magistrate Robert M. Maroney as John Richard Michaels, 26.

The fourteen checks totaled $260, and were cashed in various places of business in Oakland and vicinity. All were written on the First National Bank. Four were cashed at Proudfoot's Oakland Pharmacy for $10, $10, $20 and $20; at H. P. Store for $20 and $25; at Loch Lynn Service station, for $20; at Miller Market for $20 and $20; Englander Pharmacy for $20 and $25; A. and P. store for $30 and $10; and Thomas Big Key market, for $20.

There were three charges concerning violations at Deep Creek Lake, also on the magistrate's docket. Regis Kerins, Oakland, pleaded guilty to towing a skier without an observer and paid $10 and costs. Francis Lull and E. E. Lull, both Washington, D. C., were charged with fishing with improper licenses. Both paid $20 and costs.

Ski Club Plans Picnic

The Western Maryland Ski club will have its initial meeting for the coming season in the form of a picnic lunch on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Ski area on Marsh Mountain, McHenry, it was announced by Harvey W. Winters, Jr., president.

He said all interested persons, regardless of whether or not they are club members, are invited.

Mr. Winters said he would mention at Sunday's meeting of a "no profit" charter flight to Vail, Colorado, west of Denver, for Christmas week, being planned by the Blue Ridge Ski council.

First Day of Fall

Today is the first day of autumn but weather-wise the people of the mountain top are unaware of any change.

Early mornings have remained cool, but during the day the temperature has gone up in the 80s, reaching 89 in Oakland yesterday.

The official readings at the Weber greenhouse, however, have reached 86 on the three previous days, with 80-degree readings for the entire week. There was some cloud cover on Saturday and on other days, but predicted thunder showers did not materialize and the days have been mostly clear and hot. There was an 86-degree reading last Friday, 85 on Saturday, in the 80's on Sunday, 88 on Monday, 84 on Tuesday and 89 yesterday. The Thermometer hit 94 in Baltimore one day this week, the highest there since the gay 90's

Mine Workers Seek to Organize Mine at Bayard

The United Mine Workers of America announced yesterday it would file an application with the National Labor Relations Board for a representation election for employes of the Alpine Coal company at Bayard.

Cecil J. Urbaniak, president of district 31, UMWA, Fairmont said the move for a vote at the Alpine mine will be made within a week.

He said following a mass meeting in the Sutton theatre at Thomas Sunday that the union could claim from 90 to 95 percent of the workers at the mine.

Employes of the Alpine and North Branch Coal companies, both subsidiaries of the Maust Coal and Coke corporation of New York City, attended the session.

The Mine Workers reported that a work stoppage occurred at the Alpine mine one day this week, on second shift, but company officials said operations were back to normal Tuesday and coal was being shipped.

Numerous Cases Listed On Sept. Court Docket

Petit Jurors Will Report Sept. 27; Criminal Docket Light

A few appeal cases are listed for the September term of court which begins Monday morning but the criminal docket is comparatively light, according to information released by Fred A. Thayer, state's attorney. Petit jurors are to report for duty Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

There were just six indictments returned by the September grand jury which met for two days September 14 and 15. All indictments were for fraud. The name of one of the persons against whom an indictment was issued, was not released by Richard L. Davis, clerk of the Circuit court, because she had not yet been apprehended.

The names of the five who were indicted for fraud in regard to welfare cases, included Laura Michaels, Mary Jane Solomon, Paul T. Crowl, Hubert Spiker and Dorsey Wilson. All have filed bond in the amount of $500 for their appearance in court when called.

Also scheduled for trial by jury is a case against Lawrence Riley, of Mt. Lake Park. This was a case transferred from the office of Trial Magistrate Robert M. Maroney and was asked by State's Attorney Fred A. Thayer. It is a case of non-support.

There are seven appeal cases. One is an appeal by Hazel Friend, from the office of Magistrate Maroney. In magistrate's court she was found guilty of assault and sentenced to six months in the House of Correction. She entered a plea of "not guilty by reason of insanity", which was filed in the circuit court on March 22. The court ordered that she be examined at Springfield State hospital. The case is now ready for trial.

Hobart Harvey appealed a conviction by Magistrate Maroney on a charge of wilfull destruction of property, property of Oliver Niner. Magistrate Maroney found him guilty, fined him $50 and costs and suspended $25 of the fine.

Tourist Project In Cannan Valley Slated To Begin

West Virginia's 6,000 acre Canaan Valley State Park will have a variety of tourist facilities in the $9,470,000 project.

This new resort complex will be 12 miles from Blackwater Falls State Park near Davis and each facility is expected to complement the other.

The state already owns 3,100 acres in the Valley but much of the area is unsuited for park facilities and the Department of Natural Resources is in the process of acquiring additional land needed. Construction schedule is expected to take two years.

Under the state's $24,000,000 A-RA-State Park building program, the state borrowed $6,625,000 and the federal government made a grant of $2,845,000 to build the Canaan Valley facility. The average elevation will be 3,500 feet.

Features of the new park will be an 18-hole golf course with white sand bunkers; ski slope, ski lodge and snow-making equipment; a 90-room lodge and 45 cabins; heated swimming pool, trailer and campsites, a "country" store and riding stable. The planners also expect to expand and stock existing trout streams in the park area.

3rd Autumn Glory Train To Be Run

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad announced this morning in response to public demand, it would operate a third Autumn Glory Festival excursion for fall foliage sightseers to Oakland on Saturday, October 9.

The railroad, in cooperation with the local Promotion council, had previously scheduled two Autumn Glory trips for Sundays, October 3 and 10. Both of these special trains have been completely sold out.

Special reduced-fare tickets are now on sale for the October 9 trip. This is the 14th consecutive year for Autumn Glory excusions, which have proven popular among nature lovers. The same scheduled tour will be carried for all three excusions, a trip to Deep Creek Lake and the Swallow Falls State forest.

Motion for New Trial Is Denied

Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill, at a hearing in the Circuit Court yesterday on a motion for a new trial, denied the motion. The hearing concerned an appeal in the court from Edgar Louis Powell, of Riverdale, on a conviction from Trial Magistrate Robert M. Maroney.

Powell had been found guilty of driving under the influence of alcohol and reckless driving. His appeal was heard by a jury in the Circuit court in March and the verdict was guilty as found by the Magistrate.

He filed a motion for a new trial through his attorney Clarence Penman, and the hearing on the motion was held yesterday afternoon.

Sewage System At Lake Park Under Scrutiny

Forestry Officials Declare No Contamination; Improvements Planned

There was some heated reaction over the week-end to an article appearing in daily newspapers concerning a "serious sewage problem found at Deep Creek", and following a meeting Tuesday morning with health department officials and members of the Forests and Parks, it was declared that there was no contamination at the lake and that the forestry department was taking steps to assure that there would be none.

State Health Department officials created a stir last week when Charley B. Miller, chief resident sanitarian in this county, announced through daily newspapers, he had notified the Commission of Forests and Parks that the sewage field for the 100 camp sites beside the lake had become saturated and "the effluent is continuing to work its way . . . to the water in the lake." Forestry officials said Tuesday this was the first intimation they had from the health department, and that there should have been no reason to spread any such information through daily newspapers.

The group which met Tuesday morning included A. J. Pickall, assistant superintendent of state parks; Dr. Arthur Jones, county health officer; Charley Miller, sanitarian; W. A. C. Irwin, district director of Forests and Parks; Ray DeGrafft, engineer with the Department of Public Improvement; and Ralph Peace, district park supervisor.

They looked at the disposal system at the lake and forestry officials said no contamination was found, that there had been none to date. They said the disposal system does show signs of being overtaxed, but that modification of present facilities and

Governor Tawes Authorizes West Maryland Program

Gov. J. Millard Tawes authorized the Maryland Department of Economic Development to accept $38,941.49 in Federal funds to help launch a regional economic development program for Western Maryland.

The governor's action made Maryland the first state among the eleven in the Appalachian Region to take advantage of the local development section of the Appalachian Regional Development Act of 1965 under which Congress has appropriated $1.1 billion to alleviate economic distress in the area.

George W. Hubley, Jr., director of the Maryland Department of Economic Development, was informed by the governor that the state share of the $52,000 total needed for this program nas been assured.

The money will be used during the balance of the 1966 fiscal year to establish, staff and operate a regional economic development office for Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties, only three counties in Maryland eligible for assistance under the new Federal-State Appalachian regional development program. The main function of the office, Hubley said, will be to "insure that Western Maryland and its communities are given every opportunity to participate fully in the new program."

Initial tasks in launching the Maryland program will be to "assess economic potentials of the three counties, consult with Western Maryland leaders to obtain their ideas for strengthening the area's economy, and enlist broad-based public support and cooperation," Hubley said.

Maryland will also receive several million dollars in Federal funds, to be supplemented by state funds, to make the historic National Pike—Route 40—a high speed, modern highway and a gateway to the Ohio Valley.

Daniel J. Rohrer, Jr., of Hagerstown, will be appointed the director of the Western Maryland Regional Development Office.

A bill designating Assateague Island at National Seashore was was passed.

Annual Buckwheat Festival On Tap

Many workers put the finishing touches on preparations for the 24th annual Preston County Buckwheat Festival, which takes place in Kingwood September 23 to 26.

The "mother" batter for making thousands of buckwheat cakes has been mixed, huge quantities of whole hog sausage and other ingredients for the buckwheat dinners have been prepared. Queen Ceres and the girls in her court have completed their gowns.

The curtain-raiser of the festival, the annual firemen's ball, was held last night in the Community building, featuring Russ Romero and his orchestra, Pittsburgh.

Highlight of Firemen's day, today, is the parade of bands and firefighting equipment this evening from the tri-state area. King fireman, Robert Brown, will be crowned. There is judging of exhibits at the Community building.

A parade of high school bands and a variety of floats including those carrying Queen Ceres and her court will feature the second day. Following the parade Miss Diana Parker, senior of Rowlesburg High, will be crowned Queen Ceres XXIV by Governor Hulett Smith.

The opening session of the horse show also will be held Friday. Agriculture's role in progress will be the theme for Farmers' Day on Saturday. Champion buckwheat grower of Preston will be crowned King Buckwheat. Coronation will take place after the Farmers' Day parade at 1 p. m. There will be a baby beef sale at 8:30 p. m. with the horse show continuing.

The festival will close with the observance of Senior Citizens' Day on Sunday along with the antique car show and parade and final sessions of the horse show.

NOTICE OF FACTS CONCERNING SEWAGE TREATMENT FOR OAKLAND, MT. LAKE PARK & LOCH LYNN

As a result of information contained in articles appearing in The Republican, the Garrett County Sanitary Commission, at a special meeting held Monday, September 20, 1965, resolved to provide some accurate information to be published by way of explanation and extension of information published at the end of these articles.

The Garrett County Sanitary Commission was created pursuant to statutory authority nearly five years ago. During this time, the Commission has struggled to develop the sanitary treatment facilities which it is charged to do as the primary reason for its existence. The principal hurdle for the first three years was the lack of sufficient operating capital to be provided by the Garrett County Commissioners. In January, 1964, a commitment was procurec from the Board of County Commissioners, advancing the statutory $5,000.00. This money is in the nature of a loan only, and is to be repaid from the first bond issue.

With operating capital available, the Sanitary Commission then proceeded to interview a number of Sanitary engineering concerns, and ultimately employed Chester Engineers of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, to provide the Commission with a feasibility report. This report was completed early in the fall of 1964 at a cost of $1,700.00. After a considerable amount of difficulty in resolving the position of the Sterling Processing Company, the final revised feasibility report was completed in January of 1965. This report was then made available and the Sanitary Commission concurred in the recommendation of Chester Engineers that a treatment plant be provided for Loch Lynn, Mt. Lake Park, and Oakland, as the solution for the sewage waste problem which has existed for some time in the Little Youghiogheny River.

Additional pressure was brought to bear on the Sanitary Commission by a letter from the State Health Department to the three municipalities of Loch Lynn, Mt. Lake Park, and Oakland, dated October 17, 1963, directing that no additional sewage be allowed to flow into the Little Youghiogheny River. This restriction has never been removed, and in fact, it has been supplemented by a recent letter of September 8, 1965, wherein the State Health Department indicates it will, by formal order, absolutely allow no further increment of sewage to be passed into the Youghiogheny River. This formal order prohibits any further sewer taps. This restriction is delaying many thousands of dollars in improvements in new buildings and developments in the area affected.

After public notice of the feasibility report was made, a series of public hearings was held with the ultimate result that the scientific study provided by the Chester Engineers and the recommendation of the Sanitary Commission was tabled, and no further action has been taken due to the pending decision of the County Commissioners relative to the appeal taken on July 20, 1965. At the special meeting held Monday, the Commission observed that your article contained a notation to the effect that there was an extension of time granted to the County Commissioners to try to find out the possible cost of a lagoon system for all three towns. This is completely erroneous, there being no state agency, or individual with authority to grant extension of time, and there is reason to believe from the timing of the Health Department's letter of September 8, 1965, that pressure is being exerted in order to persuade the County Commissioners to take action in order to provide the Mt. Lake Park, Loch Lynn, and Oakland Community with the much needed sewage treatment facility. It was also observed by the Commission that the special meeting that the economic development of the community is being thwarted by blind opposition of uninformed individuals, particularly by one member of the County Commissioners, who has obviously displayed a total lack of accurate information as to required sewage treatment facilities for the community.

It is with a profound feeling of futility that the Commission has resorted to this outlet for their frustration. They have expended a great deal of time and effort with no compensation in the belief they were performing a much needed public service, and feel particularly the public should be informed a delay is costing the users of the sewage treatment facilities which must be provided an average of five percent (5%) increase on construction cost each year. It is emphatically and categorically denied that members of the Sanitary Commission are drawing salaries, and not one penny has been drawn by any member for service. It was further observed that because of the delay caused by the inactivity on the part of the County Commissioners, many sources of federal and state funds may be lost.

If this disclosure of facts has made any impression upon the reader, please contact any member of the Commission, more desirable, a member of the County Commissioners, and inform them of your reaction.

Very truly yours,

Game Commission Arranges Hearing

A public hearing in the assembly room of the state office building room in Annapolis, by the Game and Inland Fish commission, will be held Saturday, October 9, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m.

The hearing will be for a discussion of proposed regulations submitted for consideration by the commission concerning open seasons, size, creel limits and methods of taking fresh water fish in non-tidal waters for 1966.

The commission is considering amending the regulation on trout streams which would delete the Potomac river from the mouth of Kempton, Laurel run to the West Virginia state line on account of acid mine pollution. Trout streams now designated as such include Youghiogheny river, main stem above highway bridge on Maryland route 42 at Friendsville; Bear Creek, Salt Block run, Mill run, Little Youghiogheny river, Muddy Creek and Buffalo run watersheds.

Concerning fishing through the ice the commission would amend the present regulation to read: not more than two hooks per line.

The antlerless deer season is set for December 17 and 18. The commission will consider elimination of permits in certain counties, retention and numbers of permits in certain counties where needed to adequately control the harvest.

There are several roposals also concerning regulated shooting areas, and a proposal to reinstate the open season for penreared wild turkey from November 16 to December 31, sunrise to sunset, excluding Sundays.

Labor Department said nonagricultural payroll employment hit a record high of 61 million in August.

ASK YOUR PHARMACIST

Question

How long has it been since penicillin first came into general use?

Answer

The years 1944 and 1945 were the first in which the general public became aware of penicillin. Penicillin was first identified back in 1929 by Sir Alexander Fleming. It then took another 15 years before careful research and experimentation allowed it to be called a drug . . . and the pharmaceutical industry's research discovered the method which allowed mass production in its now familiar form.

Sewage System

the planning of new facilities to be placed by next season would take care of the situation for years to come.

The system is being rearranged so that the two wash houses would go into separate septic tanks and that when the new system was completed the bathhouses on the beach would empty in another septic tank area.

Forestry officials said they had put a dye in the drainage system to show where drainage went and that absolutely none had shown up in the lake.

When Miller put out his warning notice he indicated that closing the state park would be a blow to the thousands of vacationers who visit the camp sites and bathing beach each year, and that it could affect the multi-million dollar tourist industry that has grown up around the lake. That is what roused the ire of many business people in the area over the week-end, who indicated the problem could have been settled satisfactorily at the conference table, without any unfavorable publicity that apparently was unfounded.

Total attendance in the fiscal year that ended June 30 was 106,231 vacationers, including 20,632 swimmers at the bathing beach on one corner of the lake shore.

Miller had indicated two ways of solving the problem, one to lay down a large sand bed to run the sewage through, and the other, to build a sewage treatment plant.

CORN SILK!!!

The first really new face powder in 2,000 years—a Shulton exclusive!! Yes, it's Corn Silk Face Powder—made from the rich inner layer of the lowly corncob. An amazing story behind the discovery and development of a light, airy "no-color" powder. This is a powder made for skin care as well as skin flattery. We first learned all about "Corn Silk" Micron Powder last spring—and now after months of testing by Shulton our Cosmetics Dept. is able to bring it to you.

Where To Draw The Line??

Q. We're having an argument among the girls in our office. Several claim that eye lines on the lower lid makes the eyes look larger. Some of us say it makes them look smaller. Who's right??

A. The girls who claim that eye lines on the lower lid make the eyes look larger are correct.

Apply your lines in two lines if you like—one just above the base of the upper lash and another just below the base of lower lashes. On the outside corner of your eye finish with a short uptilted lash. This creates a kind of "false eye"—larger all

THURS., SEPTEMBER 23, 1965

Concerning Facts...

Last week The Republican carried a news story saying that the County Commissioners had sought additional time to study the lagoon system for the three communities, Mt. Lake Park, Loch Lynn and Oakland.

We quoted H. D. Swartzentruber as saying there was no choice of a lagoon offered in the Chester Engineer feasibility report and that the commissioners had agreed to find out what would be the projected cost of the lagoon system.

We also quoted Mr. Swartzentruber as saying he had talked to Thomas Shives, representing the state health department in Baltimore, and received an agreement of additional time of several months if necessary to obtain this information.

The Sanitary commission has inserted an advertisement in today's issue giving "notice of facts concerning sewage treatment." A lot of the remarks are merely a review of what has gone on, but one or two paragraphs struck a sour note, when it said the statement that the commissioners had been granted an extension of time was erroneous; that no agency or individual had authority to grant extension of time.

So that there would be no mistake, Mr. Swartzentruber made his telephone call last Tuesday afternoon from the Health Department office and on an extension phone at the time were Charley Miller, sanitarian, and Dr. Arthur F. Jones, county health officer. They heard Mr. Shives, representing the state health department, state that no definite date had been set when the sewage problem here must be taken care of, and that he could take a few months to find out about the lagoon system. We confirmed this last night with Mr. Miller. So whom do we believe? The Sanitary commission? Mr. Swartzentruber? "Hub" originally made the statement and confirmed it this week. We confirmed it, too. Until we hear otherwise, we see no reason to disbelieve him.

We take issue with one other brief statement the commission, makes: "That economic development of the community is being thwarted by blind opposition of uninformed individuals, particularly by one member of the County Commissioners, who has obviously displayed a total lack of accurate information."

Russell Smith, member of the commission, took a stand for a sewage treatment plant at the very outset, and didn't even look into the possibility of a lagoon for all three towns. Why? Mr. Swartzentruber isn't opposed to the best answer to the problem, but when over $750,000 is involved, doesn't he have a right to be sure? Is Mr. Smith sure of the most economical and most efficient answer? All the opposition from citizens of Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn, think the lagoon system is the most economical and will Mr. Smith dare to give them cooperation in finding out?

So while the commission claims to be providing some accurate information, let us be sure that such information, is, in truth, accurate and not biased.

Most Unfortunate...

It was most unfortunate that a story hit the daily newspapers last Friday morning that intimated but didn't actually say there was pollution in the lake. But the news of possible pollution spread like wildfire, and the damage has been done that may take years to overcome.

Charley B. Miller, sanitarian here, recently notified the Department of Forests and Parks that the sewage field for the 100 camp sites beside Deep Creek lake had become saturated and "the effluent is continuing to work its way . . . to the water in the lake." He also spread the word to daily newspapers.

Tuesday the Forestry department and health department visited the park and conducted an investigation. The investigation disclosed no contamination had reached the lake from sewage facilities of the state park.

We feel the county would have been better served if Mr. Miller had informed the forestry department without going through the daily press. This is not to advocate suppression of real news, but this was a problem that could have been worked out satisfactorily without damaging publicity. In fact plans are already on the boards to correct what could have become a dangerous situation.

The annual report of the Promotion council indicated that the total inquiries at the Information booth had increased from 11,112 to 22,793 in five years, with information on camping sites high on the list. We wonder what it will be next year if any more unnecessary, unfavorable publicity continues to be spread around by unthinking officials.

We want to encourage tourism to the Mt. Top, not discourage it. We hope everybody else does too.

Listen, Americans!

By DR. GEORGE S. BENSON
President—National Education Program
Searcy, Arkansas

This is the time of year for reports on the federal government's excess of outgo over intake, as the tallies at the end of the fiscal year are announced. The overall deficit is being estimated as in excess of $3.5 billions. This amount at least can be added (the treasury says it's twice that) to our accumulation of national debt of more than $300 billions. This growing burden also is ceremonialized each summer when Congress pushes the debt limit a bit higher. Congress seems no more worried about the billions required to service the debt than about the billions it votes to give away.

The read-'em-and-weep report of federal finances does nothing to cool the long, hot summer. As politicians, however, our leaders must touch up the public "images" they seek to maintain. President Johnson, that White House light-bill saver, has recently called in his department heads and fiscal officers to say that he intends to spend whatever is necessary to fight the war in Vietnam and pay for all the new and "necessary" programs, but not a penny more. Bravo, except it is a matter of opinion which federal programs adopted and proposed are really essential.

With shrewd insight and some irony, Mr. Johnson also remarked that when it came to proposing new programs, he found little want of imagination. He must be commended for adding this advice to his top officials: "I would urge you to be equally ingenious in looking for areas of savings and examining alternative least-cost ways to achieve your agencies' objectives." He went on to explain that budget planning for next year would be increasingly difficult because of new spending programs and increased defense requirements.

These things are being said largely for public consumption. They are good, as far as they go, but they do not reflect the whole reality. The President and his financial advisors know well enough, even if they do not say so, how their huge spending programs are going to be paid for in the face of tax cuts that were supposed to be so beneficial in fueling the boom. The deficit will be covered, as it has been for a quarter of a century, by inflating the nation's money and taking purchasing power away from the citizens. Those fiscal wizards are only foolish who think this a painless way of exploiting sources of revenue.

Such sources as these are, of course, wage earners and fixed-income persons who never are able to take effective measures to defend themselves soon enough. The government may think to give labor a hand with its "guideline" increases. But only a few will prosper from inflation, and the prime victims will be the majority of our citizens whose incomes are relatively fixed. The chief profiteer from this highway robbery scheme is the perpetrator: the federal government itself. Nobody presumes that its purchasing power will be reduced just because it spends more than it takes in. It won't. But yours and mine will be decreased.

The tax cut that the nation was supposed to enjoy was itself an inflationary device simply because the treasury cannot possibly allow its outgo of money to be more than it takes in and must borrow, or create, what it requires.

Better Liaison Urged To Boost Tourist Trade

Members of a special Legislative Council committee complained Tuesday that a lack of effective liaison and cooperation between state agencies is hindering tourist promotion in Maryland.

Steps to improve the condition are expected to be recommended by the committee. George W. Hubley, Jr., director of the State Department of Economic Development, which promotes tourism acknowledged that the gap exists.

He said he will support a recommendation that information be made more readily available to his agency from such others as the State Roads commission, the Departments of Forests and Parks, Game and Inland Fish, and Chesapeake Bay Affairs.

A liaison man in the Department of Economic Development with open entrance to the other departments was suggested. One man observed there was "a wealth of information going downstream and not being fished out and used for the good of the state" in trying to attract visitors from out of state.

It was pointed out some state parks faced the threat of being overrun without trying to lure more tourists. A problem at Deep Creek Park was being studied. Gene Cheers, planning director for the Department of Forests and Parks, told Earl Zepp, a committee member from the county, that every effort would be made to solve the problem, even if it meant requesting emergency funds for a sewage treatment plant.

Dr. Albert Schweitzer, 90, humanitarian, died Sept. 4 at his jungle hospital in Lambarene, Gabon.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

We have newer and finer schools than ever before. This is one of the marks of progress.

But another is that we have more and faster automobiles than ever before.

So we guard each "school zone" with signs and safety patrols and policemen and volunteers. We do this to protect our children from the dangers of progress, while they are enjoying the fruits of progress.

The dangers of progress are not always physical. Many are moral. They threaten the character and faith of a rising generation, caught in the erratic tempo of modern life.

Happily, in every community of our land, PARENTS and CHURCHES are joining hands to promote the spiritual development of youth ... to protect the souls of our children.

Love the Link

Lesson for September 26, 1965

Background Scripture: I John 4:7-21.
Devotional Reading: Ephesians 3:14-21.

"Love," said St. Paul once, "is the link of the perfect life." (Colossians 3:14 Moffat.) In his time there were no buttons nor button-holes. Safety pins had been invented, but few common people owned them. What held a man's flowing garments up and held them together was the girdle or sash. With this large "cummerbund" as we would call such a thing today, a man could be neatly dressed. Without it, he rapidly became undressed, a mess of flapping robe and tunic and what not. We can put on all the virtues, but unless we put love on also, the virtues we have will be blown away. Love unites all the virtues, love fulfills all the commandments. Paul and our Lord alike emphasized the fact that the "great Commandment" is not any of the famous ten. They are each one a different way of expressing the great commandment of Love.

Dr. Foreman

How can we love God?

"Thou shalt love thy God" is glibly said in Sunday school by children who are memorizing passages in the Bible. But when we grow old enough to think about such things, this seems like an impossible commandment to obey. For one thing, is love something that can be turned on or off at will? Can even God say to us, at the count of three, start loving — one, two, three, LOVE! Well, of course if we really thought that this is what God means, we should be thinking him a fool. What is meant by "Thou shalt' is more like "This is the way God wants us to think about him." But then another difficulty rises to the mind. Can we love God as we love a human being? The answer is No, it goes without saying. We have to use the same word for it whether we are thinking of loving God or men. Still it is not meaningless to speak of loving God. It is the opposite of hating him. To love is to draw closer; to hate is to withdraw, to avoid. To love is to unburden the heart; to hate is to bar the heart's door tight. To love is to share, to hate is refusing to share. A man in love with a girl — or the other way around — wants to do what the beloved wants done. So with the lover of God. One way to love Him is to become absorbed in his service, to love what he loves and hate what he hates. In today's jargon, by identifying with God's purposes we come to love Him.

If we love another . . .

Another way to arrive at the joyful state of love to God (which is more than believing or merely obeying or praising or "explaining") is to love our fellow-human beings. The "second great commandment" (not the second-greatest) is Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. The Apostle John speaks not of neighbor but of brother. Evidently he has learned (from God, we may believe) that neighbor means brother. Begin to think of your neighbor as your brother, and you are on the road to loving God. If we love one another, John says, God lives in us and his love (our love of him and his love of us) is made perfect in us. We are not good enough to love God, to tell the truth; that we can love at all—God or man—is made possible by God's grace. Our love does not waken God; his love wakens us to love him and to love the "brother" whoever he may be.

Casting out fear

Man as he is, man-on-the-hoof, man as sinner, is more afraid of God than in love with him. Contracts sometimes make reference to "acts of God" meaning disasters of great magnitude. But sunshine and spring flowers and autumn colors are just as much acts of God as are fires and earthquakes. Loving God is not going to cast out respect and reverence and thanksgiving; loving God is not destructive of God's dignity. But it does cast out fear.

How To Hints

When sanding wood, always sand with the grain. Sanding across the wood will cause scratches that are difficult to remove. Sand with progressively finer grits, finishing off with extra fine sand paper.

Painting over wallpaper? If wallpaper is in good condition and adheres tightly to your wall, apply Latex Flat Wall Paint as directed on the label. Wallpaper which has come loose should be repasted to wall before painting. Do this by applying a coat of our Latex to the back of loose paper and press paper firmly to wall.

Ceilings should be painted before other surfaces in your rooms. Here's how: paint a strip 2 or 3 feet wide completely across the room, coming back to point of origin to start a new strip. Succeeding strips should be brushed into previously painted areas. Take care to feather-edge each strip and brush into previously painted areas with a light stroke. This will minimize the danger of lap marks.

Our paint, as it comes from the factory, is free from dirt and foreign matter. Before opening, dust lid carefully to keep dirt from entering can. If liquid has separated from paste, pour it off into a clean container. With a stiff paddle, mix paste thoroughly. Pour back liquid a little at a time, stirring well after each addition. When completely re-mixed, pour your paint from one container to another several times. It is now ready for use. Stir frequently while using to keep uniform during application.

ALL MEDICINES MUST BE POTENTLY FRESH

You know what happens to a delicious custard if you permit it to be exposed for some time in a warm place. It can turn into a dangerous killer. Therefore you refrigerate custards to prevent this. Many medicines must be protected against a similar change or they too can be harmful.

Pharmacists are taught at college how to store all medicines and to date those which lose potency after a certain time. Some of them must be kept away from heat or light. Others we keep refrigerated until ready for use. When dispensing such medicines which are subject to change we will always inform you if there are any precautions you must observe.

Northern High School's Huskies extended their two-year winning streak to eleven games by defeating Terra Alta High school last Friday night at Terra Alta by the score of 12 to 7.

Terra Alta took a 7-6 lead at half-time but Coach Jack Lear's eleven came back to score the winning touchdown in the third period.

A 55-yard pass play executed by Taylor and Kelley produced Terra Alta's six-pointer and Kelly converted the extra point on a run.

Both of Northern's scores were the result of passes from George Edwards to Barry Beal. The first was good for 27 yards and the second for 25 yards. The attempts to convert the extra point touchdown failed.

The Huskies had a big edge in first downs, getting 11 by rushing and two by passing, compared to three and two by Terra Alta. The Northern eleven gained a total yardage of 259 compared to 141 for Terra Alta.

The Huskies have an afternoon game with Kingwood on the Northern Field on Friday afternoon, starting at 1 o'clock, and will have their homecoming the following week, October 1, with Southern at 7:30 p. m.

Plans For County Freeway Revealed

A long range program for "The National Freeway", from Baltimore west through the Appalachian mountains into West Virginia, was revealed last Friday by John B. Funk, chairman-director of the Maryland State Roads commission.

In outlining the plan for construction, Mr. Funk noted that the Roads commission already had endorsed a proposal for building a dual lane facility all the way through this county toward Morgantown.

"The Commission has passed a resolution that emphasis should be put first on that portion of the highway west of Cumberland. It will be built as an expressway, with some grade intersections, under the Appalachian program," Mr. Funk said. The highway would be brought up to freeway standards when funds become available. In the meantime improvement of route 40 between Cumberland and Hancock is to continue at the present rate.

Mr. Funk stated that the concept of a high-speed, controlled access dual highway through Garrett county had been accepted for many months. He added that he had participated in every meeting which had been held by the Appalachian Regional commission and had urged that the highway from Hancock through this county should consist entirely of a highspeed dual lane highway.

The expressway link from Cumberland to the West Virginia line runs for 42.45 miles and will cost approximately $80 million. Complete dualization from Hancock to Cumberland will eventually cost $60 million, under present and future programs, for a distance of 35.89 miles.

Two drunken driving charges were among fourteen cases listed this week on the docket of Trial Magistrate Robert M. Maroney, Liberty street, Oakland.

Thirteen Killed On State Highways

Thirteen persons were killed on Maryland highways last week, according to the weekly survey published by the Maryland State Police. Seven of those killed were drivers; three were passengers; and three were pedestrians. Alcohol was a contributing factor in nine of the deaths; speed in six; and "driver error" was present in eleven of the fatalities.

Alcohol was a contributing factor in two out of three pedestrian deaths; it was a contributing factor in two out of three passenger deaths; and it was a contributing factor in the death of five of the eight operators who lost their lives. Of the total of thirteen highway deaths last week, alcohol was a contributing factor in nine of them.

"Last week's highway toll," said Colonel Carey Jarman, Superintendent of the Maryland State Police, "vividly reminds us again of the influence of alcohol on the highway safety problem, and of the necessity of developing a program that will lessen the impact caused by the drinking driver".

Three more States during the current year have enacted laws which provide mandatory tests for operators suspected of driving under the influence of alcohol, bringing the total number of States having such "implied consent" provisions to sixteen. In the last two sessions of the Maryland Legislature, "implied consent" proposals failed.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

September 14, 1965

Dear Editor:

There seems to be much confusion and misunderstanding in our community regarding the blood program of the American Red Cross and its relationship to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

First let me say that no patient has ever been charged for blood at our hospital. Whenever a transfusion is ordered for a patient there are several laboratory tests which must be performed on the blood of the patient and also on the blood which the patient is to receive. Both must be typed. Then they must be mixed in a test tube in a special way, to be certain that there is nothing in the blood of the donor which would be harmful to the patient. This procedure is called a cross-match. I am sure that no person would like to receive blood which had not been properly cross-matched. This is a rather time-consuming and very important procedure. There are, of course, laboratory charges for these tests. In hospitals which are not affiliated with the Red Cross Blood Program and which must maintain their own blood bank, a patient is charged for these laboratory tests, and then must either pay $25.00 or more for each pint of blood or must replace it with one or more donors per pint.

Our hospital has the privilege of being affiliated with the American Red Cross Regional Blood Center in Johnstown, Pa. This affilation enables us to maintain, at our hospital, enough blood to meet all our needs. This means that if you, as a patient, should come in for surgery, or for any reason are in need of blood transfusions, you need not worry about the availability of blood.

The Johnstown Center normally supplies us with about 500 pints of blood a year of which we use about 200. The other 300 are returned to them while still relatively fresh and they are redistributed in the Johnstown area to larger hospitals where they can be used immediately.

Our only obligation to the Red Cross Blood Program is a moral one. After a patient who has received blood goes home from the hospital, he will receive a letter from our local Red Cross Chapter telling him how many pints of blood he has received and asking him to ask friends or relatives to go to the Red Cross Blood Mobile, which comes to the Oakland Fire Hall every 3 months, and donate a pint of blood in the patient's name. This, along with the regular volunteer donors, is the manner in which the Red Cross maintains its ready and adequate supply of blood.

No one is under any financial obligation for blood received, nor will any pressure be put upon anyone if the blood is not replaced. It is simply a matter of conscience.

I wish to say this to all Garrett Countians:

Someone, somewhere, gave his blood for you.
We know that you appreciate this and will want to see that blood is available for your fellowman when he needs it.

Sincerely,
Charlotte S. Callis
Laboratory Technologist

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 89. OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., SEPTEMBER 30, 1965 PER COPY 10c NUMBER 31.

Everybody Loses . . .

Republican Senator Thruston R. Morton of Kentucky has charged that the Johnson Administration through its actions over the past few months "has demonstrated a fiscal irresponsibility which threatens not only to nullify all of the promised benefits of the 'Great Society' but also to wipe out gains resulting from years of patient work", and he really has a point there, that should be of intense interest of every person.

His statement in part: "Inflation has begun to roll. It already is seen in rising living costs which shrink wages, pensions. Retired persons dependent upon their Social Security benefits have seen the recent increases in their pensions wiped out before the bill granting them was signed. Tax cuts designed to help the middle and lower income brackets have been swallowed and bigger tax burdens are on the way. The Great Society has degenerated into a sleight-of-hand shell game in which everybody loses.

"The Johnson Administration reduced taxes at the same time it was committing the country to a domestic program with a cumulative cost of more than 60 billion dollars. It has undertaken a poverty program which by mismanagement or design appears to be exploiting the poor rather than helping them. The poor get poorer

Work Underway On Compressor For Gas Field

Work is underway on the multi-million dollar natural gas compressor station in the Accident area which will be used to compress and inject the gas into depleted gas wells in the area. The Texas Eastern Transmission corporation has contracted for the project.

The compressor station will be powered with a 4,500 horsepower reciprocating unit which includes a dehydrating system. Storage capacity is listed at 9.4 billion cubic feet in the Accident project.

Compressors, such as the one to be located near Accident, inject gas into the depleted sands during the summer and withdraw it during the winter to meet the increased demand. Such storage facilities allow pipeline companies to make full use of their transmission systems on a year-round basis and

Blossoms, Apples At the Same Time

It isn't often that one sees mature apples on a tree along with fresh blossoms, but this was the case last week for Bruce Smouse, at McHenry.

This could have been the result of unusually hot weather during the past three weeks, or it could have been for some other reason.

A part of the limb of the three which produced both the blossoms and the apples was brought to The Republican office last Thursday about noon, and has been on display during the present week. "That means something but I don't know what", said Mr. Smouse.

There are old-timers who say it means that the tree is about to die and it is making one last try to produce fruit before the end of its existence. There may be other meanings that we don't know anything about.

1st Autumn Glory Train Due Sunday

Some 750 to 800 persons will be on the first of three Autumn Glory excursion trains, running from Baltimore, Silver Spring and Washington on Sunday, October 3, it was learned yesterday.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad, due to popular demand, has scheduled three autumn glory trains this year, the second one to run on Saturday, October 9, and the third on Sunday, October 10.

The trains will arrive at 11:55, standard time and will be met by twenty school buses for a tour through the area which this year is to include Pleasant Valley. The first area to be visited is Swallow Falls, set for 1:30, at which time the county 4-H club members will serve refreshments including turkey sandwiches, hot dogs, homemade cookies, etc.

New this year is a concert to be presented by a group of fiddlers providing mountain folk music. Playing for the excursionists will be Gertrude Dean, Oakland, fiddle; Bushrod Hardesty, Backbone mountain, fiddle; Howard Roth, Deer Park, guitar; Nellie DeWitt, Sang Run, guitar; Stephen DeWitt, Sang Run, banjo; William Katic, Deep Creek Lake, bass fiddle; and Milton DeWitt, Sang Run, fiddle. DeWitt took third prize at the recent fiddlers' contest in Friendsville. Mrs. Dean and ensemble will sing and play special music composed especially for the Autumn Glory.

The busses will leave Swallow Falls, return by the breast of the dam road to Glendale road, proceed down the Harvey peninsula to Kurt's corner and visit Leo Custer's turkey farm. They will return to Oakland via state route 135. The train will leave for the return trip at 4:30 standard time.

The same schedule will be carried out on the 9th and 10th.

Highlanders To Meet Huskies Friday Evening

Contest To Be Played Under Lights At Northern High Gridiron

The annual football game between the Southern High Highlanders and the Northern High Huskies will take place this Friday evening, October 1, under the lights of the Northern High field near Accident. Game time is 7:30.

This will be the sixth time for the game under lights with Southern, with five of them being played on the Southern gridiron through special hosting arrangements. This will be the first game under the lights for the two teams on the Northern High field. The Huskies obtained their lights this fall.

Pre-game celebrations are planned for both schools.

Southern High school has won four of five games thus far under the lights, the Huskies winning last year 33 to 6. Southern won other events 21 to 9, 7 to 6, 22 to 13, 26 to 13.

The teams met on four other occasions with Southern winning twice and Northern winning twice. The Highlanders won over the Huskies in 1958 and 1959 by scores of 12 to 0 and 40 to 13. The Huskies won over Southern in 1946 and 1957 by scores of 21 to 18 and 32 to 0. In the first year of competition for Northern the Huskies beat a "B" team of Southern 39 to 0. Northern has a 12-game winning streak going, having been undefeated last year and having won three games this season.

Coach for the Highlanders this year is Leroy Bolding. Coach for the Huskies is Jack Lear.

Man Found Dead At Avilton Home

James Franklin Green, Jr., 39, of the Avilton area, was found dead yesterday afternoon in the basement of his home.

According to police he was found hanging from a beam in the basement. They said he had been in ill health and was depressed.

The father of six children reportedly told his eldest daughter who is 19, that he intended to take his life.

About 2:30 p. m., the daughter heard him in the basement. She called state police who sent Tfc. Lloyd E. Dunton to the Green home. The trooper found the man hanging from a rope which had been placed around a beam.

Dr. James H. Feaster, Jr., deputy medical examiner, Oakland, was notified also.

The body was removed to the Durst Funeral home in Frostburg.

Mercury Drops To 29 Sunday Morn

The thermometer dropped to 29 degrees Sunday morning which meant a real freeze in parts of the county, where there was no fog. Heavy fog in other parts lightened the damage to practically nothing.

The rest of the week has been a series of cool mornings in the low 40s, and warm days, with temperatures in the 60s and 70s.

The change in the weather was triggered by a heavy thunder storm Thursday evening, with rain continuing on Friday. The temperature dropped rapidly about noon Friday, from 64 to 52, but rose again after a heavy electrical storm.

Park Bill Signed

A bill making the 100,000-acre Spruce Knob-Seneca Rocks section in Hardy and Pendleton counties, a national recreation area, was signed Tuesday night by President Johnson.

The area will undergo a $19 million development program over the next 10 years.

Conservation and recreation leaders are planning a "show me" hike and encampment in the area October 9 and 10.

Plans for scenic parkways and highways are now in the development stage as well as possible water impoundment projects.

Legislative Group Approves Plan of Reapportionment

Maryland's Legislative Council voted overwhelmingly Tuesday for a reapportionment plan embodying a dramatic new concept for representation in the State Senate.

Senators would represent vast geographic areas instead of counties.

Under the plan approved 18-2 the Maryland Legislature will be asked at its special session beginning October 11, to assign Senate seats from congressional districts. Each of the eight districts, approximately equal in population, would elect six senators. Boundaries would be taken from a congressional redistricting bill which was passed by the 1965 Legislature but later suspended for referendum through voter petitions.

House membership would be based almost strictly on population, but by counties, with each county given at least one delegate in the 142-member house, regardless of its population.

This means that Western Maryland senators would run in an area stretching from Garrett county to the shores of Chesapeake Bay.

Here is the way legislators would be elected under the plan:

Senate (48 members)

First district—6 elected at large from Worcester, Somerset, Wicomico, Dorchester, Talbot, Caroline, Queen Anne's, Kent, Cecil and Harford counties and election districts 6, 7 and 10, of Baltimore county, population 387,586.

Second district—6 from Baltimore county election districts 1, 3, 9, 15, population 443,331.

Third district—6 from Baltimore city wards 1, 3, 5-10, 12, 26 and precincts 1-77 of Ward 27, population 434,977.

Fourth district —6 from Prince Georges county, population 357,395.

Fifth district—6 at large from Anne Arundel, Calvert, Charles, Howard, St. Marys counties and Ward 25 of Baltimore city, population 393,680.

Sixth district—6 from Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick and Carroll counties and election districts 4, 5 and 8, of Baltimore county, population 360,086.

Seventh district—6 from Baltimore city wards 4, 11, 13-24, 28 and precincts 78-105 of Ward 27, population 440,466.

Eighth district—6 from Montgomery county, population 340,928.

House (142 Members)

Allegany, 4 delegates, loss of 2; Anne Arundel, 9 delegates, gain of 2; Baltimore city, 43, gain of 4; Baltimore county, 22, gain of 9; Calvert, 1 delegate, loss of 1; Caroline, 1, loss of 1; Carroll, 2, loss of 2; Cecil, 2, loss of 1; Charles, 2, no change; Dorchester, 1, loss of 3; Frederick, 3, loss of 3; Garrett, 1 delegate, loss of 2; Harford 4, no change; Howard, 2, no change; Kent, 1, loss of 1; Montgomery, 16, gain of 6; Prince Georges, 16, gain of 6; Queen Annes, 1, loss of 1; St. Marys, 2 loss of 2; Somerset, 1, loss of 2; Talbot, 1, loss of 2; Washington, 4, loss of 2; Wicomico, 2, loss of 2; Worcester, 1, loss of 2.

Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan said he had no doubt he could successfully defend the new plan.

Driver in Fatal Crash Acquitted

Elizabeth Ellen Staggers, 16, of near Keyser, Tuesday night was found not guilty of a charge of failing to yield right of way, at a hearing in Westernport.

Miss Staggers, daughter of U. S. Rep. and Mrs. Harley O. Staggers, was charged following a highway accident July 6 in which Dennis Michael Warnick, 20, of Bloomington, was killed. He died several days after the crash at the university medical center in Morgantown.

Magistrate Russell R. McRobey tried the case. Tfc. Richard Graham of the Maryland State police testified the two-vehicle accident occurred along U. S. route 220, about one mile north of McCoole. He testified that Miss Staggers, who was driving a station wagon northbound on the highway, was attempting to make a left turn when Warnick, driving a motorcycle south bound, collided with the station wagon.

Some Appeal Cases Also Heard This Week

Convictions of guilty in four cases, and pleas of guilty in two other cases, all for indictments for fraud, concluded the week's work in the Circuit court in Oakland on Wednesday afternoon, after having been in session almost three days.

All the fraud cases were the result of activities of six persons receiving public welfare, who failed to live up to the department's regulations. All cases were heard by Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill.

Laura Michaels, charged with fraud, entered a plea of not guilty but was found guilty by Judge Hamill and sentenced to the Maryland Institute for Women. She is making resitution of funds at the rate of $5 per month until the $40.30 is made, and was placed under supervision of the Parole department.

Linda May Wiley, charged with fraud, pleaded not guilty but the court found her guilty and sentenced her to one year in the Maryland Institution for Women for one year or until such time as restitution was made.

Health Dept. Puts Damper on Permits For Construction

The State Department of Health, at a meeting on September 24, issued an order that no additional connections or extensions be made to the existing sewers within the corporate limits of Oakland, Mt. Lake Park or Loch Lynn Heights.

The ruling was to continue until complete engineering plans and specifications for providing adequate sewage treatment facilities had been submitted to, and approved by the Health Department.

The letter to the three communities was signed by Aaron Deitz, chairman of the State Board of Health and Mental Hygiene.

The letter declared that the unregulated connection of additional properties to existing sewers, currently discharging raw sewage into the Little Youghiogheny river, constituted a menace to the health and comfort of the public.

Delbert Bittinger, chairman of the county's sanitary commission, in an advertisement in this week's issue, declared it was obvious from the wording of the order that any new buildings of any sort would be seriously curtailed and quite likely to be completely stopped.

Britain's pharmacists have begun a battle to prevent supermarkets from selling medicines alongside household goods.

Ed Abney, 31, Scheduled To Be Sentenced Tomorrow

Edwin Joe Abney, 31, of Poplar Bluff, Mo., last Friday afternoon was found guilty of second degree murder, in the shooting of Elmore A. Templeton, 37, Waterproof, La., on the night of August 13, on the streets of Friendsville.

Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill, who presided along with Associate Judges Harold E. Naughton and James S. Getty, announced the verdict after half an hour's deliberation following completion of the case in the Circuit court in Oakland. Hamill said the verdict was unanimous.

Judge Hamill announced that Abney, father of five children, would be sentenced on Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

The traverser on Monday, through his attorneys filed a motion for a new trial, and a hearing on it is also set for Friday.

Carries Prison Term

Second degree murder carries a penalty of from five to 18 years in prison.

The trial was completed after two days of testimony. Abney testified Friday morning and was on the witness stand for about one and one-half hours. He related events leading up to the fatal shooting and said he meant only to fire the gun in the air to break up a fight between Richard A. Rhodes and Curtis Owens.

Abney said he had finished work for the day and rode to a cabin in Pennsylvania where he, Curtis, Norris, Rhodes and another man drank some homemade whisky.

Later the men drove to Friendsville in Rhodes' pickup truck and entered Ken Friend's tavern by the rear entrance. While in the tavern Abney said he drank from four to six cans of beer.

One of the two shots fired from a .22 calibre pistol held by Abney fatally wounded

Unusual Fossil Root Discovered At Swallow Falls

A well-preserved impression has been discovered of the root of a giant clubmoss tree which stood at the edge of a waterfall in Swallow Falls State Forest, an estimated 290 million years ago.

The find was made by Theodore W. Johnson, Jr., of Annapolis, during a recent visit to the area.

Mr. Johnson obtained a plaster cast of the impression, which he forwarded to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D. C., for identification.

According to Mr. Francis M. Hueber, curator of the museum's Division of Paleobotany, the cast represented an impression of the plant species Stigmaria ficoides Brongniart, which is the underground, root-bearing portion of either Lepidodendron (the scale tree), or Sigillaria (the seal tree).

Both of these genera are referred to commonly as "giant clubmosses", and occurred in greatest abundance during the Pennsylvania Period some 280 to 290 million years ago.

Bayard Jail Question Clarified By Opinion

Assistant Attorney General, George H. C. Hess of West Virginia in an opinion at Charleston, declared Grant county could not authorize work done on the Bayard municipal jail, which it was contemplatng.

Mr. Hess said West Virginia law does not confer upon county courts the power to enter into contracts to construct, reconstruct or renovate any jail facility owned or maintained by a municipality.

The law provides counties with a population of 200,000 or less to establish a single county jail at the county seat.

Questions by You and Your Friends

Answers From Clinton W. Englander

Question

Is it true that some drug manufacturers produce drugs for which there is little chance of selling enough to make a good profit?

Answer

Many people are honestly surprised to find that pharmaceutical manufacturers, as a matter of general practice, produce many drugs which have an extremely small potential where sales are concerned. The real question, in cases like this, is the purely humanitarian one of the need of the drug where cure or prevention is possible. And, it's interesting to note that all drugs have to "prove their worth" whether they be for common or rarely-heard-of conditions or diseases.

Gas Field

assure consumers of an ample supply of gas.

Reconditioning Due

In addition to constructing a compressor station, conversion and development of the Accident field will require reconditioning 18 existing wells and drilling 22 new wells, constructing 23 miles of field headers and well lines, and constructing the necessary metering and control facilities.

This work, most of which is to be completed this year, will cost an estimated $18 million. Of this, approximately $4 million will be spent in construction of the compressor station. Also 29 miles of 30-inch pipeline must be constructed to join the Accident field with Texas Eastern's existing pipeline system at its compressor station near Connellsville, Pa.

Development of the Accident field as an underground natural gas storage reservoir is a part of Texas Eastern's current $195 million expansion of its natural gas system. Initially approved in December, 1963, this four-year expansion will add more than 400 million cubic feet to the daily delivery capacity of the system.

The Federal Power commission recently approved the corporation's application to enlarge the program from the 400 million cubic feet a day to 552 million cubic feet a day at an estimated increase in cost of $41 million over the approved expansion program.

This proposed enlargement of the program provides for drilling an additional 13 wells and another 6.5 miles of well lines in the Accident field. If approved these facilities would be constructed in 1966 at an estimated cost of $4.3 million.

Texas Eastern also has another application before the Federal Power commission to further expand its system capacity by 150 million cubic feet a day. This pending motion, if approved, would cost an estimated $31 million and provides for drilling 30 more wells, constructing 22 more miles of well lines and enlarging the compressor station at Accident by another 5,500 horsepower.

These additional facilities to be constructed in the Accident field, scheduled during 1967, 1968 and 1969 are estimated to cost $11.5 million of which approximately $3.2 million will be spent on the compressor station addition.

Committee To Meet

Members of the Executive Committee of the Garrett County Teachers' association will meet at the Accident School on Thursday, October 7, at 7:30 p. m., it was announced by Paul Ewing, president.

Plans for the year will be discussed and dates for meetings set.

as the politicians controlling the programs get stronger.

"It has started a seven billion dollar housing program over a four-year period which puts the government in the business of subsidizing the rents of even some of our well-to-do. . . . The administration is moving step by step into an expanding war without providing for its financing.

"People are told they need fear for none of the promises of the Great Society. They can have those and the expanding costs of an expanding war at the same time. The results of this unfolding experiment in government are as certain as they are disastrous. When money is sought to finance this rolling juggernaut called the Great Society, which appears to have no responsible hand at the controls, deficit financing will be the only answer.

"And the Siamese twin of huge deficit financng is inflation. You can't have one without the other."

Unusual Fossil

Mr. Hueber said that although the Stigmaria is a rather common fossil, "it does reveal a bit of interesting, very ancient history of the area".

Clubmoss trees, which often grew in swamps that later became beds of coal between layers of stone, measured approximately four feet in diameter and attained heights in excess of 130 feet.

Though now extinct, a similar conifer exists today in the form of the ginko tree.

Mr. Johnson points out that when this particular clubmoss was alive at the foot of Swallow Falls, it stood in a swampy area at the edge of the great sea which extended all the way to the Pacific Ocean.

The tree, he theorizes, was subsequently covered by mud and sand washing down from the high ground to the East, which filled what is now the Atlantic Ocean.

Swallow Falls State Forest is one of the first State-owned woodland tracts in the United States, and is the cradle of scientific forestry in Maryland.

It probably received its name in pioneer days, when the area was noted for the numerous cliff swallows to be found there.

The land area of Swallow Falls Park totals 9,237 acres and includes a receation section featuring 125 camp sites, three modern washhouses, sanitary facilities, and ten miles of hiking trails.

Miller Clears Up Pollution Hassle

Information was made available this week indicating that the news stories which appeared in daily newspapers ten days ago concerning the over-taxing of the sewage disposal system at the Deep Creek State Park, did not emanate from Charley B. Miller, the county sanitarian, nor from the Board of Forests and Parks, directly.

The information apparently was picked up by daily news reporters who were present at a meeting of the Board of Forests and Parks when a letter from Mr. Miller to Elbert Buckel, member of the board, was read in the session.

Mr. Miller remarked this week that he did the very thing which a last week's editorial had recommended—that he contacted a member of the park board and told him of conditions at the Park and the need for some additional sewage facilities. The Parks board member asked Mr. Miller to write a letter to the board, relating the conditions, so that he would have something definite to present to the board. This was done.

The fact that Mr. Miller was quoted extensively in the news steries, had given many persons the impression that it was he who had contacted newspapers. This was not the case.

The Republican is glad to clear up this matter for Mr. Miller, but the fact remains that the occurence itself was unfortunate. Once a story is told of lake poliution, or even possible lake pollution, the story that such is not the case at present never gets spread around like the original story. It is difficult to say just how many prospective campers were scared off by the report.

Mr. Miller also stated that it was he who had put the dye into the water to trace how far the drainage was going, and not the forestry officials.

New facilities are to be ready for next season to take care of the situation for many years, forestry officials had stated last week.

In his letter to Mr. Buckel, Mr. Miller had said, "I am sure you will be concerned and agree with me that no one can afford to let the lake become contaminated. Some other means of sewage disposal will need to be worked out by another camping season". The Health department is anxious and ready to work with the State Forests and Parks department on working out a solution to the problem."

Rev. Godwin

Special recognition that has come his way includes selection in 1951 as recipient of the preaching prize at Garrett; the young-man-of-the-year distinguished service award by the Clarksburg Junior Chamber of Commerce in 1954; The Odd Fellows award for service to youth in 1957; selection to attend the National Council of Churches in San Francisco in 1960, and election to the General Conference of the Methodist Church and to the jurisdictional conference last year.

In addition to his studies at Wesleyan and Garrett, the native of Elkins did a year of graduate study at West Virginia University.

He and Mrs. Godwin, the former Wilda Ruth Moore of Elkins, are the parents of six children.

Six Fraud Cases

and she also was placed on parole. She made resititution of $210.50.

The woman acknowledged she had received excessive payments in aid for dependent children from the Welfare department.

Dorsey Wilson, charged with fraud, entered a plea of guilty. He was sentenced to the House of Correction for one year.

An appeal case was heard by a jury. Two appeals, one on a conviction for driving under the influence of liquor, and one on a conviction for reckless driving, were consolidated in one and at the conclusion of the case a motion was made by the traverser for a directed verdict of acquittal. The motion was granted by Judge Hamill. The appeals were the result of convictions in Robert M. Maroney's Trial Magistrate court against Russell Raymond Stevens. Stevens was refunded $133 which had been paid into court.

Hobart Harvey appealed a conviction by Magistrate Maroney on a charge of wilfull destruction of property of Oliver Niner, by removing fence posts. This case was ordered stetted by the State's Attorney and given a refund of $25 which had been paid for the fine.

Sentence Is Raised

In one case a conviction was upheld and the sentence was tripled. George Washington Teets had appealed a conviction of Mr. Maroney on a charge of assault and battery upon his son for which he was sentenced to serve six months in the House of Correction. Judge Hamill upheld the decision of the magistrate and sentenced him to eighteen months in the House of Correction.

After this sentence Hazel Friend withdrew her appeal. She had been found guilty of assault and sentenced to six months in the Institution for Women. She had entered a plea of "not guilty by reason of insanity", as a result of which she underwent an examination at the Springfield State hospital.

Several additional appeal cases are yet to be heard.

Leon Carter Faidley, appeal from Magistrate Edward Crowe, Grantsville, who convicted him of intentionally spinning or skidding the wheels of his automobile for which he was fined $100 and costs. This case is set for trial by jury on October 4.

Wilda I. Stockslager appealed a stop sign conviction by Magistrate Maroney. This case is set for October 9 before the court.

Scheduled for trial by jury is a non-support case against Lawrence Riley, of Mt. Lake Park. This was a case transferred from Magistrate Maroney's office and was sought by State's Attorney Fred A. Thayer. No trial date has been set.

The case against John R. Michaels, of Kitzmiller, on fourteen charges, two for forgery and twelve for false pretense, will also be held, but no date was set. Clarence Penman was court appointed attorney for Michaels.

Is Manufacturing Eectric Wall Board

A story of half a page or more in the Wheeling News-Register of Sunday morning, September 19, concerned George P. Deacon and the manufacture of Rayboard, for modern, convenient and economical electric heating. Mr. Deacon is a summer resident of Mt. Lake Park and has owned a home there for many years.

Rayboard uses concealed electric wires in a non-cracking fireproof gypsum board to supply low temperature radiant heat. Deacon has three basic patents on the method of manufacturing the board, and still another patent is pending.

Rayboard is decorated, the same as regular drywall, with paint, with paper or other finishes.

PUBLIC NOTICE!

FACTS BEGET REALITIES

Supplemental Notice Of Facts by the Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc.

In the September 23 edition of The Republican, The Garrett County Sanitary District caused certain facts to be published relative to the status of the sewage treatment project planned for the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park-Loch Lynn area. In this notice, it was indicated the State Health Department would, by formal order, prohibit the further increment of sewage to be passed into the Youghiogheny River. The following order was received by Oakland, Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn municipal officials September 25, it is set out verbatim as follows:

"TO THE MAYOR AND COUNCIL

Oakland, Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn, Garrett County, Maryland

"It is this 24th day of September, 1965, ordered by the State Board of Health and Mental Hygiene, by virtue of the authority conferred upon it by the General Assembly of Maryland, that no additional connections or extensions be made to the existing sewers within the corporate limits of the towns until complete engineering plans and specifications for providing adequate sewage treatment facilities have been submitted to, and approved by the State Board of Health and Mental Hygiene.

"The unregulated connection of additional properties to the existing sewers, currently discharging raw sewage into the Little Youghiogheny River, constitutes a menace to the health and comfort of the public.

"Witness the hand of the Chairman of the State Board of Health and Mental Hygiene and the affixing of its seal the day and year first above written.

Aaron Deitz, Chairman
State Board of Health and Mental Hygiene"

It is obvious from the wording of this order that any new buildings of any sort will be seriously curtailed and quite likely be completely stopped. It was also pointed out in the notice in last week's paper that the economic development of the community is being thwarted by the delay of this project, and the State Health Department has now effectively provided the means of maturing this fact into uncomfortable reality.

The Sanitary Commission again respectfully solicits any constructive criticism or impressions of the project at large, and more particularly from the persons directly affected in the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park-Loch Lynn Area.

Templeton, entering the left side of the victim's back and coming to rest in the right chest cavity.

Abney said he obtained the gun from Rhodes and that his only intention was to break up the fight by firing the weapon into the air. He said he cocked the gun toward the ground and when he released the hammer it fired, which he found "almost unbelievable." He again cocked the pistol and was raising the weapon to fire it into the air when it again discharged, the bullet entering the left side of the victim.

Abney testified he didn't see Templeton until the man had been shot.

The defendant said he remarked, "A man is shot, please get a doctor." He testified that he was "terrified" after seeing the wounded man sit down on the ground.

The defense attorney told the court his client had a physical disability and had taken pills and tranquilizers on the day of the shooting and that he had very little to eat.

The state had completed its testimony in the case Thursday afternoon with most of Friday taken by defense witnesses. Two defense witnesses had testified late Thursday.

Among those testifying for the state were the victim's widow and one of his two sons, Ronnie, 16. He told the court that on the night of the shooting Abney stuck the gun in his dad's back and shot him.

Just before the shooting young Ronnie said he heard Abney remark, "Nobody is going to break up the fight," involving the boy's uncle, Curtis Owens and Richard A. Rhodes.

Abney was standing off to the side of the street from the fight, according to testimony. Ronnie recounted events leading up to the shooting and said he had been watching television. He told his mother her brother seemed to be involved in a fight outside.

He said his mother and father got out of bed, dressed and went to the scene of the fight. Mrs. Templeton walked up the street and was followed by her husband who was standing near Abney while the fight was going on. She said she started across the street where her brother was fighting and her husband said, "Opal, come back." About that time Mrs. Templeton heard Abney say, "And you're not to break it up either."

She said she heard a shot and when she turned around to her husband she saw Abney fire a second shot. He had one hand on the barrel and the other on the trigger.

Mrs. Templeton said the firing was at close range and her husband fell face first onto the ground.

David Friend, 15, of Friendsville, pointed to Abney in the court room and said he was the man who fired the gun. He also related that just before the shooting Abney had said, "I'm going to shoot anyone who tries to break up this fight."

Sgt. John S. Sawa, firearms instructor for the state police, identified the gun and said he found no malfunction of the weapon, but admitted the trigger action was "sensitive."

Others who testified for the state were Sgt. Charles DeWitt, who was present when the defendant was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Wayne Wilt, Oakland; Dr. James H. Feaster, Jr., deputy county medical examiner, who examined the dead man at the Garrett County Memorial hospital; and Barbara Artice, 17, senior at Northern High, who was in company with the men involved in the fight. The autopsy report by Dr. Benedict Skitarelic, Cumberland, was read to the court by State's Attorney Fred A. Thayer.

Also testifying for the state was Raymond Schlossnagle, constable of Friendsville, who said he was warned by Sonny Norris, pipeline employe, at the scene, to stay away because "it's going to be a fair fight."

The two defense witnesses Thursday were Norris and Richard A. Rhodes, who gave an account of events leading up to the fight.

In closing arguments Friday W. Dwight Stover, who assisted State's Attorney Thayer, said Abney had the gun out and pointed at close range, had indicated he was going to shoot someone and that he fired the shots intentionally.

William Grant, defense attorney, said the state was trying to elevate a case of accidental homicide to first degree murder and that the bullet could have struck anyone in the crowd. He said Dr. Skitarelic indicated that Abney's physical disability could have impaired his capabilities. The attorney said it appeared that when Abney cocked the gun for the second time to fire into the air the disability "undid him".

Lewis Jones, who assisted Mr. Grant, argued that the medicine had an effect on Abney so that he was not fully responsible and that the defendant's motive in the shooting was to break up the fight.

State's Attorney Thayer said it was fortunate there wasn't a double murder.

Literary Review

By Kenneth Legge Hardesty

Stuart Cloete, a South African rancher, served with the Coldstream Guards in World War I. While ranching in Africa, he lived among the Boers. He knew General Smuts, Hertzog, and Brink; he visited many of the battlefields, and cemeteries. It has taken Cloete ten years to write this book. In the 1930's he wrote hhis first novel, "The Turning Wheels", and such nonfiction books as "The African Giant", and "Against These Three."

Rags of Glory, by Stuart Cloete.

The Boer War combined some features of both the American Revolution and the Civil War. It was a war of cultures. The Boer War (1899-1902) has been called the last gentlemen's war. The reader goes into action with both Briton and Boer. The daredevil feats of the elusive Boer commando, De Wet, are relived. Farms and homes are burned in a scorched earth policy that failed to end the war

The immense canvas of the African veld is shown the reader where incident is piled on incident. A boy, Boetie Van der Berg, is forced into manhood by the war. Families die of disease, and starvation in English interment camps. Here are the English leaders, Lord Roberts, Cecil Rhodes, Kitchener; and their opponents, De Wet, Kruger, Le Rey, and Smuts. There are glimpses of Winston Churchill, as a war correspondent, his interment as a prisoner of the Boers, and of Rudyard Kipling visiting the wounded.

This book is available at the Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland. A note concerning our Oakland library. The citizens of Garrett County should be, and no doubt are, proud of their library. The books available are comparable to many small college libraries. Local students are making full use of these advantages, and are grateful for the kind and courteous service offered by Miss Efith Brock, librarian.

How the U.S. Royal Tiger Paw earned its name.

It had to pass some pretty grueling tests for safety and durability. Tests that only a beast of a tire could pass.

The Tiger Paw™ had to prove that it combined the high-speed and handling characteristics of a sports car tire with the smooth, comfortable ride and the wear of a passenger tire.

And it proved it, alright. Beyond a shadow of a doubt.

Tiger Paws have been tested at 125 miles an hour, sustained speed.

They respond quickly and eagerly, rain or shine. And they have so much guts, you can go over some of the meanest ground without worrying.

On sharp curves and when you're passing, Tiger Paws give you a feel of the road that you just can't get with most tires. They corner beautifully. With virtually no squeal at all (unless you're a dynamiter).

They give you that real sports car feel. You know. As if the car is a part of you.

In case you didn't know, the Tiger Paw is that tire with the red stripe you've been hearing so much about. If you want a set for your car, you can pick them up right here. We're an official U.S. Royal Tiger Paw store.

Southern Speaks

By Brad Stewart

Parade Re-Scheduled

The Homecoming parade, which was postponed last week, will be held at 6:00 p. m. this evening. The theme of the parade was changed, "The South Shall Rise Again", so as to be in tune with the Northern-Southern game to be played Friday evening at Accident.

In addition, immediately following the parade, a pep rally and bon-fire will be conducted near the Little League field behind the high school.

The route of the parade will pass through the business district of Oakland. It will feature decorated floats, the junior and senior bands of Southern, and an assortment of cars. The homecoming queen and king were selected last Friday, however. They were Diane Morrow and Bill Mattingly.

Senior Proofs Arrive

The seniors of Southern received their proofs for the pictures taken last week. The students have their choice of four different combinations of photos which include 5 x 7's, and one 8 x 10. Also, wallet size photos in quantities of 50, 100, 150, and 200 pictures can be purchased. Representatives from Rosenbaum's in Cumberland will return on October 7 and 8 to take orders. At this time all picture orders must be paid for or charged, if the person has a charge account.

Rally To Boost Spirit

The first pep rally of the school year will be held this Friday during the first and second periods, for the junior high and the fifth and sixth periods for the senior high.

This assembly will be shared with the magazine campaign which is sponsored by the school each year. This year, the sales company was changed so better prizes, and magazine selection could be obtained.

Addition Nears Completion

The ten-room addition to Southern is coming close to being finished. The majority of the rooms have had the tile flooring put in place, and ceilings installed. Making up the new classrooms, are 3 science rooms, one for chemistry, another for earth science and the other for biology, a girls' gymnasium, and a modern French laboratory.

Erhard won the German election over West Berlin's Willy Brandt.

To Offer Course

The American Red Cross will offer a standard first aid course for persons fifteen years of age and over, it was announced this week.

The first session will be held Monday, October 4, at Southern High school, beginning at 7:30. Mason Callis is chairman of Water Safety and First Aid for the Red Cross.

Natural Gas stays on the job

When hurricanes batter our coastal states they leave a terrible harvest of flooded homes, fallen trees, broken power lines, and wide-spread destruction throughout the area.

The darkness of night brings even a greater sense of desolation. But here and there, as this photograph shows, the soft glow of a Gas lamp is a welcome sight in the gloomy and cheerless night.

This Gas lamp symbolizes the dependability of natural Gas. Natural Gas was on the job . . . a reliable friend in a hurricane, providing heat for cooking, boiling water, and other household uses.

Natural Gas is your most reliable, and most economical, source of fuel and energy—every day of the year.

RED HOUSE

HOMEOWNERS' HELPFUL HARDWARE HINTS

by BEN SHAFFER, Manager

Let's Paint The House

SAVE TIME and take down shutters, screens, storm windows. Check for clean brushes in good condition. Always cover shrubbery in the area you are painting using an old sheet or dropcloth. HAVE YOU READ THE PAINT LABEL?

Wise folks remove loose paint from wood surfaces before they paint. Use a scraper. Remove chalk from masonry with a wire brush or a portable power sander. A wire brush removes rust from metal surfaces. Remember...brush dust off before you prime these areas.

Always remove loose caulking from joints, cracks and prime these areas. When primer is dry, recaulk with our Heritage Caulking Compound, using a pressure gun or knife. Fill all cracks and joints thoroughly.

Before you spot-prime bare wood, remove loose cracked putty from window sash. Replace missing glazier points. After prime paint is dry re-putty with Heritage Glazing Compound.

Here's where to begin your house painting: start at the top and work your way completely across given areas in even, horizontal strips, painting the eaves as you go.

Painting windows can be fun when you start with the narrow pane dividers, then paint the sash and trim. Stop window sticking by moving sash slightly before it's dry.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Once this vine was just a seedling, struggling to survive. Now look at it! Each year it grows stronger and yields a greater harvest.

The Christian faith has grown and flourished like the vine. From the seeds of the early church, Christianity continues to spread its joyful message to people everywhere.

World-wide Communion Sunday is a day for Christians of every creed to meet in spirit at the Lord's Table. This annual event makes us deeply aware of our brotherhood within the Church whose truths we share.

Come and take part in this special service. Your prayers, and those of all Christians, will combine to strengthen the roots of God's vine throughout the world.

Man for the Time

Lesson for October 3, 1965

Background Scripture: Genesis 30:24; 37:1-28, 39 through 50.
Devotional Reading: Proverbs 4:10-18.

He was a man long associated with big government. His friends were among the aristocracy of the world's greatest empire of the time. He lived centuries ago, and yet he is so modern that he could soon fit into any executive position you care to name. He lived in a time and place when people easily believed in miracles, yet no miracles were ever attached to his name or story. His name was Joseph, and if he had not lived and done what he did, the history of the world would have been quite different. What became of the welter of half barbaric little tribes that swarmed along the Mediterranean Sea in those times? Gone with the wind; and the little family of sheepherders headed by Jacob would have vanished too if it had not been for Joseph. No Joseph, no Moses. No Moses, no Jesus. No Jesus . . . !

Dr. Foreman

Turning points

We can pick out three crises in the life of Joseph after he found himself in Egypt, though we know of others and can guess at still more. One was the time when the wife of his master (for Joseph was a slave, though in a very important position), begged him: "Lie with me!" Joseph said No, and she took her revenge by accusing him of attempted rape, a capital crime then and in many places still. Notable is Joseph's reply to Potiphar's wife: "How can I do this and sin against God?" Joseph knew (where had he learned it?) that sin is not only against others and against one's own true self, but most deeply against God. Living by this assurance, Joseph took the right turning even though the wrong road looked beautiful.

Incident in prison

Potiphar, Joseph's master, evidently did not believe his wife, or he would have killed his slave outright. Instead, he put Joseph into a prison used mostly for political prisoners. Here Joseph rose to the top. The warden took an extended holiday and Joseph was virtually warden himself. The story is too long to tell again here. But the next turning point in the young man's life came with a message from the palace. It is interesting to see what Joseph did when the messenger came. The story says simply: "and he shaved . . ." He did not debate whether he should go. Joseph's praying was done. He had known for two years what he would do if and when he got this chance. So when the moment came, without warning, he just shaved, and went.

He could read men

A third turning point came at a time when he must have been weighing in his mind whether or not to invite all the Jacob-clan down to Egypt. Yes, they were his brothers . . . but no, what brothers?! They had sold him—sold rather than killed him only because they stood to make a little money on the deal, while murder would not get them anything. Now they stood before him in his own great house, not suspecting for a moment that he was anything but an Egyptian official of high rank. He had just threatened to keep as a slave their brother Benjamin, and Judah, who once had taken the lead in selling Joseph, now made a plea for Benjamin that brought Joseph to uncontrollable tears. Was Judah sincere? He had been a liar, once. Was he lying now? Joseph could read men; he read Judah, and knew that this was a changed man. It was after this that Joseph gave his invitation to the whole clan to come live in Egypt. It was one of the turning points of history — and it hinged on a man's belief in a brother's sincerity.

Drive it now! Chrysler's all-new economy car—Simca 1000 with the 5-year/50,000-mile engine and drive train warranty*

It covers parts that could turn other cars with shorter warranties into expensive propositions: vital drive train parts, vital engine parts. And it pays for both replacement parts and labor.

No other economy import's warranty on these parts lasts even half as long as the warranty on Simca 1000.

What kind of car rates this protection? A family car with sports car features: Porsche synchronizers; 4 forward speeds; 4-wheel independent suspension; a 50-hp rear engine. And more.

Test drive one at your Simca dealer's. Only $1,595.

*HERE ARE THE FACTS: Chrysler Motors Corporation warrants all of the following vital parts of the Simca 1000 for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, during which time any such parts that prove defective in material or workmanship will be replaced or repaired at an Authorized Simca Dealer's place of business without charge for such parts or labor: engine block, head and internal parts, water pump, intake manifold, Trans-Axle parts and rear wheel bearings.

HERE'S ALL YOU MUST DO: Give your car this normal care—change engine oil and retorque the cylinder head at first 600 miles, and thereafter change engine oil every 3 months or every 4,000 miles, whichever comes first; clean oil separator every 6 months (spring and fall); clean carburetor air filter every 6 months and replace it every 2 years; and clean the crankcase ventilator valve oil filler cap and change Trans-Axle lubricant every 6 months, or 8,000 miles, whichever comes first; AND every 6 months furnish evidence of this required service to an Authorized Simca Dealer or other Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer and request him to certify receipt of such evidence and your car's mileage. Simple enough for such important protection.

CAPITOL COMMENT

by Charles "Mac" Mathias
Congressman, 6th District, Maryland

A New Aid For Business

A few days ago I was invited by President Johnson to come down to the White House to attend the ceremony at which the President signed into law the State Technical Service Act. This bill, which I co-sponsored in the House of Representatives, received relatively little attention from the public when it was first introduced, and when it was debated and passed by the House. But it is a bill which can be of great value to all of the people of the United States.

An Extension Service

This Act authorizes a three-year program of Federal and state cooperative efforts to disseminate the findings of science and technology throughout American business, commerce and industry. It is analogous to a program with which most of use have been familiar for many years, the Agricultural Extension Service, which makes available to all the farmers of America the benefits of new methods and new thinking in agriculture. The State Technical Services Act is, in effect, an extension service for business, intended to speed the industrial growth of localities, the states and the entire nation through the application of improved technical and scientific knowledge.

This Act has three objectives. First, it is intended to strengthen the economy of the United States by enabling industries to upgrade their own processes by utilizing the advanced technology now available in some areas and some industries, but not in all. By making this information widely available, the Act should help many businesses to become stronger and more vital parts of the American economy.

Second, I hope that this bill well help to attack the problem of unemployment by strengthening businesses and helping them to expand, thus creating new jobs. This is an objective of the State Technical Services Act which should be particularly important to us in the Sixth Congressional district, where unhappily we have had bitter experiences with unemployment over the years. Now industries whose employment has been fluctuating or seasonal will have available to them the experience and the knowledge derived from research in their particular field of endeavor, so that they can fill in the low spots in their business cycle and keep full employment going all the time.

Third, in a world which is increasingly competitive, we have to think about the position of the United States in world markets. Many nations of the world have made tremendous advances in industrial production and commercial operations. One of the paradoxical results of World War II, in fact, was the complete revitalization of European industry, which was rebuilt literally from the ground up and has become in many ways more modern than our own. The State Technical Services Act will help to bring American industry and business to the foremost position in the world, by making our methods, products and services even more competitive in world markets.

Local Initiative

One important aspect of this program is that it is not a centralized Federal program, but a cooperative venture involving the States, business groups and local organizations. Committees within each state will draw up a plan for the dissemination of the particular information needed by business within that state, and the program will be administered on the local level with the aid of colleges, universities and technical institutions. The bill is based on the theory that local institutions and groups, knowing local needs, will be able to identify problems and provide information most effectively.

I am proud to have a co-sponsor of the State Technical Services Act, just signed into law by the President. I think the Act can make great contributions to the economic growth of many areas and our entire nation.

Huskies Score 12th Straight Win, 24-6

Sparked by Quarterback George Edwards, who accounted for the first two touchdowns and passed for another, and Mike Sines, 150-lb. fullback, who gained 108 yards overland and scored the third TD, Northern High school's Huskies chalked up their third victory of the football season and extended their two-year win skein to 12 games by trimming Kingwood High school Stags last Friday afternoon at Accident, 24 to 6.

Coach Jack Lear's gridders yielded a touchdown in the opening period on a 15-yard pass from George Hartman to Danny Watkins but thereafter the Stags failed to threaten.

The Huskies scored touchdowns in every period but failed to convert in four tries. Two of Hinebaugh's kicks for the extra point were blocked, one was wide and the other was nullified because of illegal procedure.

Edwards scored in the first period on a 15-yard run and tallied again in the second period on an option play that netted 23 yards. Sines set up the third score with a 25-yard run and tallied again in the second period on an option play that netted 23 yards. Sines set up the third score with a 25-yard run and plunged over from the one-yard line.

In the final period a 15-yard pass from Edwards to Hinebaugh produced Northern's final tally. Northern completed five of seven passes, the longest being a 49-yarder from Edwards to Barry Beal. The Huskies reeled off nine first downs, seven coming on rushing plays, piled up 260 yards on running plays, 89 yards through the air, and were set back 50 yards on penalties.

Edwards ran for 83 yards, Yommer had 54 and Beal 18. Northern's defensive standouts were Leroy Butler, Earl Savage, Sines and Leo Beitzel.

The contest was played in a drizzling rain.

The RED ARROW points to the convenience of equal monthly payments

PUTS YOUR GAS SERVICE COSTS ON A FIXED MONTHLY BASIS

Many thousands of gas heating customers enjoy the convenience of your gas company's Budget Payment Plan. They pay equal amounts each month for gas heat, as with rent, car or mortgage payments.

The RED ARROW on your gas bill points to the amount you will pay each month when you use this plan. It was determined from your past 12 months gas use. You pay that amount each month for 11 months. Any difference between your total annual bill and the payments made is adjusted in the 12th month.

The new Budget Plan cycle starts with bills having a payment date in late September and October. If you want to take advantage of this convenient plan, just pay the budget amount the RED ARROW points to.

Watch for the RED ARROW and join your friends now using the Budget Payment Plan. Spread your gas costs evenly over the year.

$100 Fines Given To Two Drivers

One hundred dollar fines to two persons for violations of the motor vehicle regulations were among the twenty-one listed this week in the office of Robert M. Maroney, trial magistrate, Liberty street, Oakland.

The $100 fines were assessed against Robert Dalton Sims, Oakland, and Larry Fredlock Schenk, Deer Park.

Sims forfeited collateral of $100 and costs for the charge of operating a motor vehicle while his license was revoked. He also was fined $10 and costs for operating a motor vehicle without registration.

He was found guilty, however, by Magistrate Maroney and paid $100 and costs on the first charge. He was fined $25 and costs on the second charge but the fine and costs were suspended.

William Henry Thomas, Jr., Sang Run, pleaded not guilty to a charge of operating at a speed too great for conditions but was found guilty and fined $25 and costs.

One person was exonerated and charges dismissed. He was Huey Edward Rodeheaver, Friendsville, who was charged with failing to grant right of way, pleaded not guilty and was found not guilty by the magistrate.

In all other cases the parties forfeited collateral and costs. They included:

Otha Wilbert Evans, Kitzmiller, improper passing $10; Robert Edwin Skipper, Deer Park, exceeding 50 miles per hour, $17; James William Fike, Jacksonville, Fla., speed too great for road conditions, $10.

SWANTON

The Swanton Youth Fellowship spent Friday and Saturday making apple butter, which is an annual event to raise funds for various camping activities during the year. After the apples were picked Friday evening they were cut into schnitz. The outdoor fire was built early Saturday morning and the large copper kettle was placed over it to begin the cooking, with each member taking his turn stirring the apple butter until late in the evening when it was ready to be put into jars. Several people visited during the day including two exchange students from Pakistan and Switzerland. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rhodes, at whose home the event was held, were in charge of the making with assistance from a number of adults from the church.

Grantsville News

Silo Collapses

There was plenty of excitement at the Milton E. Bender farm, last Thursday afternoon, when a silo tumbled. Workers had just filled the silo, which was built in 1918 at the Bender farm two miles north of Grantsville on the Springs road at the Pennsylvania line. The workers had just left the farm about a half hour when the silo collapsed. Mrs. Bender was home at the time and her husband was sick in bed. Had Mr. Bender not been ill he probably would have been in the silo at the time. Workmen returned that evening and some worked until 2 a. m., putting the silage in a trench silo. By Saturday evening everything was all cleaned up.

He has served as moderator of the Western Maryland district and other district and national offices. The services will close Sunday evening, October 10, with the Love Feast and Communion. The pastor, K. Dean Huntley, extended an invitation for all to attend.

The community of Grantsville congratulated Mrs. Barbara Younkin, Saturday, on her birthday. She was 95 years of age. She attends church regularly and enjoys her kitchen chores, cooking meals, and still enjoys canning.

Piedmont Man Seeks Judgment Of $32,200

A Peidmont W. Va., man last Thursday filed suit in Allegany county Circuit Court to obtain a judgment of $34,200 which had been affirmed by the Maryland Court of Appeals in a case involving a dispute against an administrator of an estate.

E. Earl Reece filed the suit against Robert M. Reece, administrator of the estate of Ida M. Rhoads, and the Hartford Accident and Indemnity company.

Mr. Reece originally filed a suit of $52,000 against Robert M. Reece in Allegany county circuit court on grounds that the administrator prematurely closed the estate of Ida M. Rhoads before the legal limit provided by law.

The suit was removed to Garrett County Circuit court and on June 24, 1964, Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill issued a verdict of $34,200 for the plaintiff. The case was appealed and the Maryland Court of Appeals re-affirmed the award.

Last Thursday's declaration claims the defendant has refused to respect the judgment of the Court of Appeals and that the insurance company failed to guarantee the legal performance of Robert M. Reece's bond. Damages of $10,000 are being sought from the bonding company.

It's 1966. Rise up with Dodge. Get with the swinging cars of the year!
JOIN THE DODGE REBELLION
Why wait, when your year is here? The year to snap tired old ties, to break old buying habits. The year to really express yourself . . . with the '66 swingers from Dodge. Different, exciting cars for people with different, exciting tastes. Rally 'round Dodge for '66. Dart, Coronet, Polara, Monaco . . . cars made to help you kick the dull driving habit. There are lots of Dodges for you to hang your personal rebellion on. Every one backed by a 5-year or 50,000-mile warranty.* Every one with these features that used to cost extra but now come standard: Outside mirror. Padded dash. Variable-speed electric windshield wipers and washers. Backup lights. Turn signals. Seat belts, two front and two rear. And lots more with Dodge . . . the beautiful Rebellion on wheels. Stir up your spirit and march to headquarters.
'66 Dodge Dart Still talking about squeezed-up compacts, when you'd rather do something about them? Put your money where Dart is! Unexpectedly big inside, long outside. Six or V8 power. Rise up with Dart! Be expansive without being expensive Stamp out cramped compacts; get with man-sized Dart.

'66 Dodge Coronet Here comes Coronet . . . sharp, smart, sassy, the greatest thing from Dodge since Year One. Loaded with luxury the higher-priced cars haven't caught onto yet. With a choice of five engines, designed to make the walls of Dullsville come tumbling down. Get away from look-alike, first-cousin cars with Coronet.
Dullsville falls, Coronet rises in '66

'66 Dodge Polara Snap, crackle, pop, go the ties that bind. You're up and out of the rut with Polara. More "big." More "hot." A lot of standard extras (like a 383 cubic inch V8) at no extra cost. See it now. And if you're carrying a big torch for a car that'll really move you, bring the torch along.
Demand more "big" in your big car; insist on Dodge-sized Polara.

FAMILY BANQUET—Here are a father and son team who arranged the program for the recent family banquet sponsored by the Green Mountain 4-H club. On the right is Harold Gnegy, Sr., local leader of the club, who led the program, while his son, Larry Gnegy, left, served as toastmaster. Larry also is treasurer of the club.

Green Mt. 4-H'ers Hold Family Dinner

The Bittinger Community Building was the setting for the recent family banquet sponsored by the Green Mountain 4-H Club. Some 58 persons were served at 7:00, September 23. Harold Gnegy, Sr., led the program which followed the banquet. Larry Gnegy served as toastmaster. Talks on 4-H Club Work were given by two members, Bobby Custer and Dale Wagner. Members of the Green Mt. 4-H Club also presented a skit entitled "Laying Hen".

Honored during the banquet were six boys from the club who had reached their goals in 4-H. They were Harold Gnegy, Jr., Robert Gnegy, Larry Wagner, Carroll Thomas, Ronald Beitzel, Charles O'Brien. James Simms, Extension Agent, 4-H and Youth, gave comments on leadership of 4-H. The club has been in existence for eight years with Harold Gnegy, Sr., as local leader since its beginning.

Officers for the new 4-H year include Larry Schenk, president; Dale Wagner, vice-president; Bobby Custer, secretary; Larry Gnegy, treasurer; Bobby Custer, reporter.

4-H Clubs Join For Special Week

Garrett county's approximately 4,000 4-H Club members are joining in observance this week of National 4-H Club week, and are planning a number of special activities.

More than 2,190,700 boys and girls belong to 94,800 4-H clubs in the United States. Five basic purposes have been enumerated for National 4-H club week. These are to influence more young people to join or form 4-H clubs, to acquaint more parents with 4-H and seek their cooperation, to encourage a large number of capable men and women to become volunteer 4-H leaders, to increase public understanding of 4-H aims and methods and expand support for activities throughout the year, and to recognize the important part played by friends of 4-H locally and nationally and express appreciation to them.

Garrett county club members will place window displays throughout the county. Five 4-H members will serve as disc jockeys during the teen-age disc jockey show on radio from 4:30 to 5 o'clock every evening. The County council plans to place seven booths in areas where clubs are needed. They will sponsor an advertisement in this week's issue of The Republican. The County Council also announced it would award a $25 prize to the 4-H club showing the largest percentage increase in enrollment during 4-H week.

Senate voted $46.7 billion for defense in August 25 action.

Highlanders Win From Trojans 19-6

Southern High school made its 1965 home debut with a 19-6 victory over St. Francis High of Morgantown, last Friday night at Oakland. It was homecoming game for the Highlanders.

The Highlanders scored two touchdowns in the opening period and added a third in the final quarter. John Minnick scored twice for the Southern gridders, running 20 yards for the initial TD and plunging from the two for the other six-pointer. A 30-yard end run by Jerry Fike produced another touchdown for the local team.

Rob Sharps passed to Minnick for the one extra point.

St. Francis is winless in its first three contests. The Trojans scored their only touchdown in the fourth quarter on a 55-yard run from scrimmage by halfback Marty Wade. A placement kick for the extra point was no good. Fullback Dean Hammond set up the score with a pass interception return of 20 yards. The Trojans then drove 70 yards for the score, mostly on rushing plays, to make the score 13-6 at that time, with about eight minutes remaining.

Southern came back to score its final TD on Fike's run. Penalties marred the game and Southern held a slight edge in first downs.

The victory was the second in a row for Southern, the Highlanders having defeated Valley of Lonaconing 25 to 18 the previous Saturday night at Frostburg. The Highlanders lost their first game 13 to 12 to the Romney School for the Deaf.

Thirteen Killed On State Highways

In serious highway accidents investigated by the State Police last week, nine persons were killed and forty-nine were injured. In the forty-two instances where seat belts were not available, use of the life-saving device would have prevented three of the deaths and would have reduced the seriousness of injury in thirty-two cases.

Sixteen persons had seat belts available, but in only four cases were they in use. State Police are of the opinion that three of these four persons sustained injuries that were much less serious because the seat belts were being used. If the remaining twelve had used seat belts, one death would have been prevented and nine would have suffered less extensive injuries.

"Each week, in State Police investigated accidents alone, the evidence supporting the safety value of seat belts continues to mount", commented Colonel Carey Jarman, Superintendent of the Maryland State Police, "and every motorist would certainly do well, for insurance reasons, to take full advantage of this device which can so easily be installed and used."

According to the weekly review of the State Police a total of 13 persons were killed on Maryland highways last week. Five of those killed were drivers; six were passengers; and two were pedestrians. Alcohol was a contributing factor in one death; speed in six; and "driver error" was present in all of the fatalities.

A newspaper executive, speaking at Ocean City, said today's newspaper must appeal to and attract young readers.

Church Women Plan Program

United Church Women of the Oakland area council planned the year's activities at a meeting of the Board on September 17, at St. John's Lutheran church at Meadow Mountain. Eleven attended from five churches, representing three denominations.

Mrs. R. S. Fazenbaker, president, presided. The nominating committee announced selections of Mrs. Kenneth Martin for vice-president; Mrs. Audra Callis, treasurer.

A calendar of events to be observed by the United Church Women was prepared and is to be included in the annual report to the churches.

The UNICEF "Trick or Treat" drive for coins to aid the world's needy children was set for October 27, 6:30 to 8:30 p. m., with collection to be made by youth organizations of various churches, under adult supervision. Each youth group is to collect in a designation area.

World Community Day will be observed Friday, November 5, beginning at 1:30 p. m. at White Methodist church, Ryan's Glade with Mrs. Allan Gamblin in charge of the program. Literature concerning the different projects is being sent to churches. Refreshments were served by the host church.

WHY SHOULD YOU CONSULT A PHYSICIAN?

Because you know a physician has to spend so many years at a medical school and internship in a hospital that he has knowledge about diseases and their treatment that you could not know. Because, when everyone but a physician selects a medicine to take, they usually do not treat the cause of the trouble but only try to stop the pain or discomfort.

Similar symptoms are often present in differing medical problems. A physician, aided by new diagnostic techniques, x-rays, urinalysis, etc., can find out what is causing your trouoble and prescribe the one particular medicine he decides is best for you. That is why, if self-treatments do not help immediately, it is wise to go to a physician before a possible serious disease can develop.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. A great many people entrust with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

To America with love... The 1966 Chrysler

Could be we're getting too emotional. But it isn't very often you get a chance to follow an all-time sales record year with a new Chrysler like this one.

Sure, our '65 was great. But the '66 is even better.

It looks better. Moves quicker. It's got a beautiful new front end and a very dramatic new rear.

It's got a bigger and more zesty group of V-8 engines. From a 383 cubic incher to a 440 TNT with twin exhausts and twin snorkels. (A "snorkel" is an air intake horn for the carburetor — does great things for performance.)

The interiors, all up and down the line, are more luxurious and comforting. Take our new shell bucket seats, for example. It's almost as if they had been custom-fitted for you.

One thing we didn't even think about changing. It has to do with money. Five of our Newport models (real Chryslers — not junior editions) are priced just a few dollars a month more than the most popular smaller cars with the same equipment. This includes features like power steering, power brakes, a 383 cubic inch V-8, automatic transmission, radio and many standard items like safety door handles and seat belts.

Move up to Chrysler . . . it's getting easier by the minute.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 89. OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., OCTOBER 7, 1965 PER COPY 10c NUMBER 32.

Newspaper Week . . .

Long before the spark for freedom was ignited at Concord and Lexington the unique role of the press in maintaining and protecting the freedoms Americans now enjoy, was effectively demonstrated.

History relates, the first licensed newspaper appeared in 1704, but was heavily censored. A turning point in the fight for a free press in America came thirty years later with the famous trial of John Peter Zenger, publisher of the New York Weekly Journal, who was jailed for calling the colonial governor dishonest and oppressive. He was freed by a jury when he proved his accusations to be true, therefore not libelous.

Bit by bit the right of the press to report and comment on public affairs was established and this principle was embodied in the First Amendment of the Federal Constitution.

Today newspapers remain constantly on the alert to protect the public's right to know—in police stations, in court rooms, legislative bodies, city halls and executive mansions. Newspapers inform the community on the local, civic, social, fraternal, spiritual activities and strive for community betterment.

It was demonstrated just this past week that dictatorships can't tolerate freedom of the press. The Soviet government ordered the correspondent of the American Broadcasting company stationed in Moscow to be expelled because it disliked a broadcast over the ABC network by a member of the latter's staff in Washington. Such suppression must never be allowed in this country.

During National Newspaper Week, October 10-16, newspaper people throughout the land, including those in Garrett County, rededicate their efforts toward greater community progress and understanding through sound reporting and objective editorial interpretation.

Achievement Day Of Homemakers Scheduled Oct. 14

Homemakers' Clubs of the County will have their Achievement Day October 14, 10:00-3:00 p. m. with registration beginning at 10:00 a. m., it was announced by Miss Ethel Grove, Extension Agent. The Oakland Homemakers Club will be hostess at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren. Achievement Day is a meeting where the County Council of Homemakers conducts its business and project chairmen report of activities during the past year, Miss Grove explained.

Community Development will be featured this year. The Homemaker Club members have visited five nursing homes in their areas. They have sent birthday cards to patients and individually visited patients in the homes. Mrs. H. G. Gartner is president of the Oakland Club and chairman of the Community Development project.

Dr. Arthur Jones, the County Health Officer, will speak. Others on the program will be: Mrs. Danton Ensor, State Council Community Development Chairman who who will speak on the state project; Mrs. Fred Ernst, State Vice President will have remarks on the state and national program; Mrs. Ray Smith, District 1 Director, who will have remarks of area im-

Seating Plan State Senate Appears Dead

The Legislative Council proposal that Maryland State senators be elected at large within congressional districts appears to be dead before it can get to the starting gate.

A survey showed at least 16 senators were firmly opposed to the plan and will vote to amend it substantially or kill it at the specal session starting next Monday, October 11.

Only 10 expressed any favor of the plan and some of those said they would prefer smaller senatorial districts.

Chief objecton to the council bill is the large size of the district which senators would represent—six to be elected at large in each of the eight districts. An alternate plan is being drafted by some opponents to provide for smaller districts of approxmately equal size, each of which would have its own senator.

"It would cut Garrett County completely out of any representation in the Senate, said Spencer W. Graham, Oakland.

Another senator said that senators would be too remote from the people they are supposed to represent. All six would probably be from one populous area, it was pointed out.

Home Destroyed Along Route 219

A frame dwelling occupied by Douglas Rausch, located along U. S. route 219, about one mile north of Sand Flat, was completely destroyed by fire of undetermined origin last night around 8 o'clock.

The Oakland fire department was called at 8:05 but the flames had gained headway before the alarm was sounded, and the entire structure was ablaze by the time the fire truck had traversed the seven miles.

Firemen listed the loss at $1,000 on the building and $200 on the contents. The building was owned by a Mr. Alden of Pittsburgh. Firemen sent a tank truck to the scene later to wet down the premises.

Occupying the home were Mr. and Mrs. Rausch and their five children. There was no insurance and persons were able to save only the refrigerator and stove. The family is in need of clothing and furniture. Any contributions may be left at Deep Creek Esso station. The fire supposedly occurred from defective wiring.

There were two other alarms during the week, with one being answered by the department. This was a woods fire around 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, caused by brush burning along the Baltimore and Ohio right of way west of 88 bridge, and on the land of Jack R. Turney.

An electric wire was ablaze on west Liberty street Sunday afternoon which caused another alarm, but the firemen did not leave the fire hall. The blaze was extinguished before the truck left the building.

Woman Is Missing Since Sunday Morn

County authorities and other persons have been searching for Mrs. Lena Beitzel, of near McHenry, who has been missing from her home since Sunday morning.

Mrs. Beitzel is 44 years of age and is the wife of Ernest Beitzel. They and their eight children who are still at home, reside near the county airport, not far from the Bumble Bee road.

Sheriff James E. Frantz was told that Mrs. Beitzel remained at home while other members of the family attended a church service. When they returned home Mrs. Beitzel was not there and has not been seen since that time. Authorities have a feeling that she is visiting relatives in a nearby area, but Mr. Beitzel is of the opinion that she may be somewhere in the surrounding forest.

Deputy Sheriff Wayne Wilt announced this morning that if she is not found today or tomorrow that an official search party will be organized Saturday morning, forming at the Beitzel farm around 9 a. m., and that a thorough inspection of the area will be made Saturday and Sunday.

The Beitzels have three other children who are not at home.

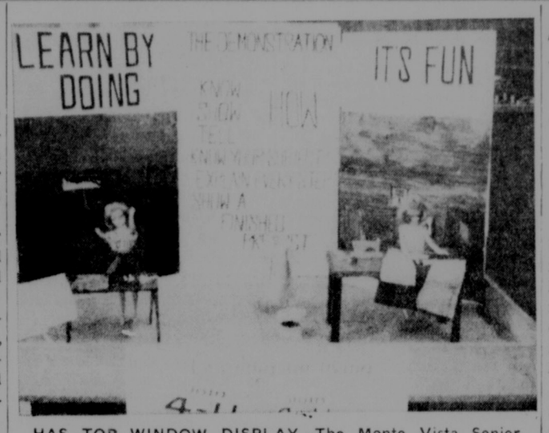
"Go Ahead" Sign Given To Complete Church Renovation

The Vestry of St. Matthew's Episcopal church gave the "go-ahead" signal for completing the remodeling of the church edifice, corner of Second and Liberty streets, at a meeting in the office of the Rev. W. Shelby Walthall, rector, last evening.

The job of completing the work was given to Milo Brewer, of Bittinger, who has already completed all the exterior work on the building.

Yet to be done is the concrete floor, new plastering, insulation, all the electrical work, new doors, dark oak paneling, and furnishing an entrance on the west side which will tie in with the future parish house, to be erected on the former Bell property, adjacent to the structure.

The work is expected to start somewhere around the 10th of November, and will be completed within two and one-half to three months. Although no cost figure was given, it was estimated that the entire cost, including all exterior work, would add up in the neighborhood of $35,000. Furnishings are extra, with a price of $7,600 already set up for this with a North Carolina firm. The heating unit is being supplied by Peters Fuel corporation.



The rector also announced that at the Vestry meeting, Edward Smouse had been elected a new vestryman to fill the unexpired term of Robert Wooters, who moved to Johnstown recently. Mrs. Joseph Browning was named on the building committee to fill the vacancy of Mrs. Wooters.

In another appeal case scheduled for trial on October 6, this did not come to a trial as Wilda I. Stockslager withdrew her appeal on a stop sign conviction by Trial Magistrate Robert M. Maroney.

Magistrate Hears 4 Assault Cases

Four assault and battery cases were heard in the court of Trial Magistrate Robert M. Maroney this week, with two of the cases involving cross charges.

Jack Hinebaugh was charged by George Hardesty with assault and battery on October 2, at Bobs' and Madelyns' tavern near Deer Park, while Hardesty was charged by Jack Hinebaugh with a similar offense at the same place.

Hinebaugh entered a plea of not guilty but Magistrate Maroney found him guilty on Monday, October 4, and fined him $25 and costs. Following a hearing on the same charge against Hardesty the Magistrate found him not guilty. Maroney said Hinebaugh had apparently been the aggressor. His head was bandaged as result of a cut from a beer bottle.

The two other assault cases were against Park Tressler and Paul Tressler, with the case against Paul Tressler being not guilty.

The charges against both men were brought by Edward D. Harper, of Elkins, W. Va., and trouble had stemmed over a transaction for a back hoe. Park Tressler entered a plea of not guilty but was found guilty and sentenced by Magistrate Maroney to ten days in the county jail. The sentence was suspended upon condition he remain of good behavior. Paul Tressler entered a plea of not guilty and Magistrate Maroney found him not guilty. These hearings were on September 29.

To Make Effort To Get Voters Back on Books

A concerted effort is to be made by political groups to get back on the voting books, the names of 519 citizens, that were removed from the registry books in the office of the Supervisors of Elections for not voting for the five-year period 1960-1965.

Mrs. Margaret S. DeWitt, Democrat registrar, said she had sent a list of 235 names of Democratic voters to George M. Browning, chairman of the Democratic State Central committee and the Federation of Democratic Women's clubs.

At the same time a list of two hundred eight-four names of Republican voters was sent to Harry Collier, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee and the Republican Women's club.

Efforts will be made by the committees and the women's clubs to contact the voters whose names were removed, and encourage them to re-register, in order for them to be eligible to vote in the 1966 elections.

Mrs. DeWitt said a voter whose registration has been cancelled, may not thereafter be eligible to vote except by registering again, according to the election laws of Maryland, Article 33, section 45.

Mrs. DeWitt said the board of supervisor of elections had made an effort to obtain addresses of voters whose cancellation notices had been returned and marked "Moved, left no forwarding address." These voters, if they can meet the voter requirements, may register and vote where they now reside, it was said.

The supervisors' office, basement of the county court house, Oakland, is open daily 9 a. m. to 4 p. m., Monday through Friday, and Saturday, from 9 a. m. until noon, for registration of qualified voters or other business.

Killing Frost In Area Wednesday

There was no room for doubt Wednesday morning. There was a killing frost, with a temperature of 18 degrees recorded in the Oakland area. It was not quite so cold at Accident, just 23 degrees, but it was also effective there too.

The temperature had dipped to an official of 30 degrees the morning before but a prevailing wind had kept frost from settling. The ground was white, however, Wednesday morning.

Farmers and vegetable growers were prepared for the event, as the season was far advanced, and about the only items remaining were the flowers.

During the week there had been some rain last Thursday night with precipitation continuing Friday with temperature 69 degrees. The mercury dropped during the day however and there was a 40 degree reading Saturday morning. The day continued clear but cold. Sunday also was clear and cold but windy. There was 32-degree reading on Monday but there was cloud cover and still some wind.

Snowflakes were seen in the air Sunday night in some parts of the county.

The sky was hazy last evening and rain began to fall during the night. The precipitation continued this morning with the temperature in the mid-forties..

Abney Draws 15 Yrs. For Murder

Was Convicted By Three Judges The Previous Friday

Three associate judges last Friday sentenced to 15 years in the Maryland penitentiary, Edwin Joe Abney, 31, father of five young children, who was convicted the previous Friday in the circuit court here of killing a fellow worker.

The man had been found guilty of murder in the second degree by the three judges, Stuart F. Hamill, Oakland; Harold E. Naughton and James S. Getty, of Cumberland.

The man, of Popular Bluff, Mo., a pipeline worker at Accident, had been charged with shooting Elmore A. Templeton, 37, of Waterproof, La., on the night of August 13, in Friendsville. The men had been living in that area while working on the compressor and pipeline project of the Texas Eastern Transmission corporation in the Accident gas field.

Abney, whose wife was in court last Friday, made a personal plea to the judges after a motion for a new trial, argued by his attorneys, William W. Grant, and Lewis R. Jones, had been denied. Abney displayed a show of emotion as the sentence was announced. His wife sobbed.

The Maryland law calls for sentences of from five to 18 years for second degree murder.

During the two-day trial last week Abney contended both in direct testimony and through arguments of his attorneys that he fired the .22 caliber pistol only to break up a fight between Richard Rhodes and Curtis Owens on a Friendsville street.

One of two shots fired from the pistol held by Abney fatally injured Templeton, with the bullet entering the left side of the victim's back and coming to rest in the right chest cavity.

State's Attorney Fred ... Thayer declared during the trial that it was fortunate there were not two persons killed when Abney fired the shots. He argued that the discharge of the gun was an unlawful act and that the defendant was not trying to defend himself.

According to testimony Abney, Rhodes and another equipment operator drank four to six cans of beer plus some home-made whiskey during the hours between quitting work and the shooting.

State's Attorney was assisted in the prosecution by W. Dwight Stover. State's Attorney Thayer revealed that the evening before the time for sentencing, he had received a telephone call from some woman, who told him he would be shot. The identity of the woman was not established. Sheriff James E. Frantz was notified, but nothing suspicious developed.

Dabney was taken to the penitentary yesterday by Sheriff James Frantz.

CAPITOL COMMENT

by Charles "Mac" Mathias
Congressman, 6th District, Maryland

A New Look At Government

The Congress now faces an unprecedented challenge; the challenge of channeling and containing our own government, to insure that its operations are always in the public interest. As the executive branch has grown in size, complexity, and momentum, full Congressional oversight of the bureaucracy has become more difficult. It is impossible for the 535 Members and approximately 12,000 employees of the Congress to keep up with all the activities of about 2 and one-half million civil servants. Yet we must keep up with them, if we are to enforce economy, efficiency, and accountability on all those entrusted with the conduct of the public business.

The two Hoover Commissions of 1947--9 and 1953-5 demonstrated the tremendous contributions to the reform and improvement of public administration which could be made by a blue-ribbon commission with a broad congressional mandate and wide public support. I believe that the time has come for another comprehensive, systematic review of all executive operations by an ad hoc agency of Congress, and I am pleased that 24 of my colleagues in the House joined me this week in introducing legislation to establish a Commission on the Organization of the Executive Branch.

The Need For Reform

The need for an overall look at our government is clear. First, waste, duplication, inefficiency and poor public service should be constantly attacked, and procedures should be continually revised to reflect the changing emphases of public policy. Second, we should take a long look at the many programs which have been initiated within the last decade, and whose administration has never been studied by Congress from a broad perspective.

Perhaps most important, it is time to reassert a strong Congressional voice in reform. The executive branch has been consolidating and rearranging its operations, and Congress should review what has been done, and what new processes are being used. We should study, now, such questions at the influence of the Bureau of the Budget. We should identify and evaluate the criteria on which management decisions are really based. We should determine how, and whether, dollars-and-cents cost accounting can measure the real effectiveness of programs designed not to build machines but to help people. A Commission could help Congress gather the information with which to tackle these problems, and to attack the massive question of the extent to which government by computer is compatible with self-government.

The New Commission

The Commission on the Organization of the Executive Branch which I and my colleagues have proposed would be composed of two Senators, two Congressmen, two Governors, two members from the executive branch, and six members from outside government. It would be authorized to enlist the most qualified citizens of the nation for studies of particular problems, and would report to Congress the results of its two-year examination of our government.

The task of the Commission would be to locate inefficiency and waste; to examine jurisdictional conflicts and inconsistencies; to recommend ways to coordinate programs in areas such as urban affairs, natural resources, and transportation; to study the problems of communication among governmental units; and to redefine the responsibilities of officials and departments.

The two Hoover Commissions showed what can be done. Now it is time to do the job again, and I hope that the Congress will consider this measure promptly when the second session of the 89th Congress convenes in January.

An Excess Of Virtue

Many years ago, when it was the fashion to debate metaphysics with your friends, one of the questions often discussed was whether there could be an excess of virtue. I believe that during the past week, the House of Representatives has answered that question in the affirmative.

On September 20, the House adopted by a vote of 312-52 a resolution expressing the sense of the House that the President should take either unilateral or collective action against Communist forces which might threaten this hemisphere. The resolution further stated what is already perfectly obvious to everyone, that the nations of the Western Hemisphere have the right of self-defense when faced by threats from Communist forces or influences.

I feel that this resolution represents an excess of virtue because, while its intent is clearly to prove that we are militantly anti-Communist, its effect may well be so dismay and drive away our friends within this hemisphere, thus actually increasing the dangers of Communist agression or subversion. I felt that this could be a termunist aggression or subversion. so I voted against the resolution.

The effect of this resolution could be extremely serious among those nations of Latin America whose social and economic problems are so great that they are natural targets for Communism. What we are really saying by this resolution is that the United States may disregard our very firm and solemn obligations under the Charter of the Organization of American States, a treaty which commits us to employ collective action whenever one of the American sister republics is threatened by Communism or any other external force. The Charter represents one of the great forward steps in international peacekeeping which has been achieved in recent years, and yet this resolution would take us back to the old system, where the "big stick" was our major weapon and unilateral action was the narm. I think that this is a regressive step, one which will not necessarily serve the cause of preserving this hemisphere from Communist influence.

As long as our sister republics had the confidence that the United States was working with them through the Organization of American States, and we supported collective action to repel outside aggressors, they had a sense of security, based on their own dignity and independence as well as on the presence of the United States as a strong and stable ally. On the other hand, when the United States Congress idicates that it is willing to scrap these solemn obligations in favor of unilateral action, this sense of security is undermined. The result may well be distress, unrest, and loss of confidence among the republics of this hemisphere.

Of course there is some feeling that the passage of this resolution is a sort of retroactive confirmation of the American action in the Dominican crisis. I don't think this is so. Whatever may be the facts revealed by history in that crisis, we know that the President acted because he felt that Communist influence was a clear and immediate danger. On the basis of the information which the President had and the facts he has personally related to me, I certainly support his position. But I don't think we have to establish unilateral action as a policy, much less as a principle for our future relations with the other nations of our hemisphere.

Kick the dull driving habit. Step out in a lively Dodge Coronet.
Isn't it time you joined the Dodge Rebellion?

Forget all you've seen and heard about '66 cars. Because Coronet is here . . . sharp, smart and sassy, the greatest thing from Dodge since Year One. Loaded with luxury the higher-priced cars haven't caught onto yet.
With a choice of five engines, Slant Six or V8, each one designed to make the walls of Dullsville come tumbling down.
And with a whole slew of standard equipment that used to cost extra. Like an outside rear view mirror. A padded dash for extra safety. Variable-speed electric windshield wipers and washers. Backup lights. Turn signals. Seat belts, two front and two rear.
Enough said to get you really tempted? Now let's get away from the look-alike, drive-alike, first-cousin cars with Coronet for 1966, a car with a lively personality all its own. The Dodge Rebellion wants you!

The fifth consecutive kindergarten session privately operated by Penn Alps for Grantsville and surrounding communities will open in the near future at the Educational Center (Casselmead) near Penn Alps headquarters.

Enrollment is limited almost entirely to five-year-olds at this time. It has not yet been determined whether a nursery school can run concurrently, but parents may register any requests for such a school.

Reservations for the limited space available will be taken by phone. Applicants should give names of both parents and child, age of child, and telephone number. A parents' meeting will be held in the near future.

Questions by You and Your Friends Answers From Clinton W. Englander

Question

We hear a lot about vitamin C. What is its real importance?

Answer

Vitamin C is necessary in the forming of the intercellular, cement-like substances which hold the body surface cells together. It keeps your bones in a healthy condition, as well as keeping your teeth and gums in their best working order. Another function of vitamin C, which normally has little attention paid to it, is its definite aid in the healing of wounds.

The Poverty Political Patronage Pork-Barrel

By Thurman Sensing
executive vice president
Southern States Industrial Council

In its relatively short life, the administration's War on Poverty has rapidly developed into nothing more nor less than a political patronage pork-barrel. It is on the verge of becoming a national scandal.

It is a travesty that the agency set up to run the War on Poverty is called the Office of Economic Opportunity. It offers opportunity all right—not for the poor, whom it is supposed to help, but for the politicians and their friends for whom they secure high-paying jobs. It has now developed that the larger part of the Poverty funds are going to pay the salaries of those who run the various projects conceived to fight poverty—and they are many and varied.

The agency is also headed up by a man, Sargent Shriver, who doesn't know the meaning of a dollar; a man who likes the ratio by which the Federal Government supplies 90 per cent of the funds and the communities only 10 per cent; a man who does not like criticism by Congressional committees, and in effect tells them, "I know best."

It is amazing how many ways the Office of Economic Opportunity can think up to fight poverty. One gets the impression they are mainly looking for ways to spend money. If it were not such a serious matter to waste billions of dollars of the taxpayers' money and add to the deficit in the national budget some of the things now being done in this country under the name of anti-poverty would be ludicrous.

For instance, $91,300.00 was appropriated to teach 60 women in Gibson County, in West Tennessee, how to cook. It was not announced how large a staff would be needed to train these women, or where they would be obtained, or how much they would be paid—but it would be a safe bet that any one of the 60 women already knows how to cook better than the entire staff of instructors put together! All they need is something to cook —not to be trained how to cook something they haven't got.

One of the favorite projects of the War on Poverty has been the Neighborhood Youth Corps. One of these projects was started in Oklahoma City on May 5th, with 300 youths employed at $1.25 per hour working for the city and the school system. The $91,080.00 appropriated for the project ran out about July 1st, the project went broke, and the 300 youths lost their jobs—no better equipped to get a job than they were when the project started.

Another favorite project has been to start schools for the high-school dropouts in various communities. One such school was started in one of our Southern cities last spring with a sizable enrollment, but within three months 30 per cent of these had dropped out. It is now rumored they are going to start another school to take care of the drop-outs who have dropped out of the drop-out school. And so ad infinitum.

The first of these centers established was located in what was formerly St. Petersburg, Florida's Huntington Hotel, with an enrollment of 258 girls. It is reported that this center has been operating at a cost of $6,000 to $7,000 per girl per year—more than twice what is costs to send a girl to college. On June 23rd, the Pinellas County School Board voted unanimously to end its contract with the Women's Job Corps, citing as one of its main reasons the ridiculous waste of operating expense. It has a staff of 130 personnel, one staff member to each two girls. The swimming instructor is paid an annual salary of $8,160.00.

These illustrations and many others could be multiplied thousands of times in communities all over the United States.

The people who conceived the Office of Economic Opportunity, the members of Congress, and the people of the United States should be reminded that this nation of ours has been fighting the greatest war on poverty for the last 189 years that this world has ever known. They should also be reminded that this nation has been more successful than any nation in history—and that this success came in the only way it can ever come—by the government giving free rein to the initiative and incentive of the individual citizen under the free enterprise system. Success is achieved from within; it is not conferred from without. Charity is another matter.

Listen, Americans!

By DR. GEORGE S. BENSON
Searcy, Arkansas

Fast moving events on the domestic and foreign scenes have tended somewhat to overshadow the conflict being waged in America against Communist and the consequent reaction from several sources that intends to destroy or limit any efforts to oppose the Red international conspiracy for world conquest. In other words, the effort to destroy anti-Communist movements, although not so much in the news, is continuing anabated as a prime strand in the Communist line. The battle continues to rage.

Whether some future conference of international Communist Parties in years to come will have to renew the call sent out by the 81-party conference of 1960 when it attempted to sign and seal the death warrant of all anti-Communism, depends on what we do about it. For some years the line, spelled out in the Red press, has considered anti-Communism "the enemy of mankind" and "a crime against the people". The World Marxist Review has pointed out that because America is the main obstacle to world Communist victory and since anti-Communism is our chief weapon against them, the battle must proceed.

Dr. James D. Bales, in Americanism Under Fire (published privately by Bales Bookstore, Searcy, Ark., $2) has quoted a Communist writing in World Marxist Review not quite three years ago: "There is no doubt that the anti-Communist offensive in all its many-sided ramifications has been one of the main causes, if not the main one, of the difficulties of the Communist movement, particularly in North America, as it has been a major obstacle to the development of the mass work of our parties. It indicates the necessity of a more intensive, systematic and sharper struggle against anti-Communism in all its manifestations...."

Using many of their own words, Dr. Bales has revealed the plans and intentions of both the socialists and the communists in the U. S., who after all are not so far apart in their basic assumptions and ultimate objectives. To other non-Communist groups which eagerly joined this drive against opposition to Communists, however, he assigns no motives. He is content only to relate what they have done or have placed on record in books and articles, leaving any explanation of motives to the groups themselves or others.

Just why the order from Moscow to attack was so dutifully undertaken by other than Communists and their sympathizers, however, does need continued study and observation. This was a time, apparently, when both known and undercover members of the apparatus thought they could get away with it.

Americanism Under Fire deals effectively (but with calmness, fairness and dignity) with those smears, innuendoes, and misrepresentations which have been directed toward the National Education Program and others in several recent books. Dr. Bales, who is Professor of Christian Doctrine at Harding College, undertakes to defend only those institutions with which he is familiar and about which he is thoroughly informed. Nevertheless, the book amounts to a considerably broad expose of the illogic and unreasonableness of the general attacks on the American heritage on most fronts today.

City Council In Routine Session

The Mayor and city council of Oakland were in a mostly routine business session for their October meeting Monday evening.

The audit report was accepted, the low bidder was awarded a contract for a pick-up truck and the clerk collector, Mrs. Gladys Nordeck, reported on receipts and expenditures.

There were four bids on a pick-up truck in exchange for a 1965 truck. Shaffer Ford Sales, Inc., was low bidder with a total outlay of $231.76. Three other firms bid $287.85, $298.85, and $261. Retail prices were listed at $2,216.39, $2,270.15, $2,238.61 and $2,383.75.

Receipts were reported at $3,601.35 with expenditures of $9,991.16, leaving a balance of $16,214.61 in the treasury. Among the expenditures were $1,011.70 for police; $1,221.69 for street labor; $1,705.88 for street supplies; $549.52 for street lights; $1,377.93 for water supplies; $283.65 for water department labor; $446.26 for electricity at the filtration plant; and $400 for garbage removal.

Rural Delivery Is 69 Years of Age

Rural delivery mail service was 69 year old last Friday.

The Post Office Department reported the service provided over 1,890,953 miles daily, an increase of more than 50,000 miles during the past two years.

In the 1965 fiscal year, 9,823,256 families were served compared with 9,551,915 during the 1963 fiscal year.

Rural delivery was established October 1, 1896 out of three post offices in West Virginia—Charles Town, Halltown and Uvilla—by Postmaster General John Wanamaker.

The bicycle was his original rural carrier vehicle.

Five rural routes started on October 1, 1896, including three in Charles Town, but there were 82 routes in the first year of operation.

The service reached its peak in number of rural routes in 1925, with 45,189 but only about 1,225,000 miles were served.

Rural carriers today not only serve mail to boxes in front of the homes, but they provide numerous basic postal services. They will accept parcel post, sell money orders, handle registered letters and sell stamps.

JUNIOR FIRE MARSHAL

Johnny Hartford says

EVERY YEAR MORE THAN 6,000 PEOPLE DIE IN HOME FIRES

If a fire should break out, do you know all the vital rules about smoke, and smoke inhalation? Such rules could save you and your family from asphyxiation. (See if you can pick out the most important points to bear in mind:)

1 Because heat and toxic fire gases rise, crawl or crouch to avoid smoke inhalation.

2 Take short breaths, breathing through your nose. Avoid gulping large lungfuls of smoke.

3 Cover your face with a damp cloth to help filter out smoke.

4 Wrap babies in wool — it helps protect skin from heat.

5 Don't open doors if they feel hot. If trapped, seal up cracks around doors with whatever's handy. This can prevent smoke from coming through for some time.

At old Cunningham barn, near Accident, (barn over 80 years old.) Shown are T. A. and Perry Kimmell, securing material for violin making.

The Story Of Some Violins

We are indebted to Mr. Perry L. Kimmell, of Menasha, Wisconsin, son of Mrs. Lambert L. Kimmell of Casey, Illinois and the late Mr. Kimmell, for the following article which was published several years ago in a Pennsylvania newspaper. Mr. T. A. Kimmell, of Mountain Lake Park, uncle of our correspondent, recalls the old barn very well, and says the floor boards were 3 inches thick and up to 22 inches wide. He was told by a neighbor that the huge barn was built for the unbelievably small sum of three hundred dollars—but this, gentle reader, was more than a century ago.

The article is as follows:-

"Several years ago two men traveled by automobile to Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland. There after interviewing pioneer residents of the town and the territory surrounding, the two men proceeded to a point about fifteen miles northeast of the little town.

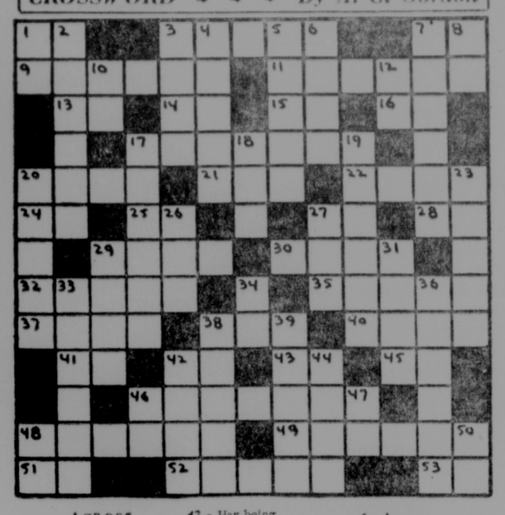
They had learned from the interviews that back in the days of slavery there had been erected a barn, one hundred and ten feet long and sixty feet wide, on a plantation that was located in the mountainous region, the elevation of which was approximately thirty-five hundred feet. Now it was not the plantation that held chief interest for these two men, nor was it the once ruggedness of the country wherein it was located.

What did interest them, however, was the barn on the plantation and, more so, the lumber that had been used in the construction of the barn. The lumber with which the barn was built was all of native spruce—spruce that passing generations had seasoned. The lumber, too, from the largest barn-width sills supporting the main floor to the two-by-four-inch studding, was all hand-hewn.

The barn, or rather the lumber in it, was of a kind that the two men had long searched for diligently. They bought the structure and had it razed and then, carefully supervising the work, had the lumber sawed to 'violin-size.'

"Then the lumber was brought to Jefferson County (Pennsylvania) and part of it was taken to the home of one of the men, L. L. Kimmell, who lives along the Brookville-Brockway Highway, and the other part brought to the home of the other of the two men, David H. Young, who lives here in Reynoldsville.

Mr. Young is a violinist of no little note. Not only does he understand music, but he also understands violins and, most important from the standpoint of this tale, he knows how to build them.



But spruce is used by Mr. Young only for the tops of the 'fiddles' he builds. The remainder of the instruments are made from soft, 'curly' maple secured in this immediate locality—maple which is not less than a quarter of a century old—'the older the better,' says Mr. Young, 'because the tone of a violin is dependent, firstly, on the age of the wood of which it is constructed, and, secondly and lastly, the playing of the 'fiddle' as time passes by.

"The maple used in the violins built by Mr. Young comes from various sources. Some of it was sawed by the late Levi Schuckers, of near town, more than a half century ago; some of it was taken from a work bench built many years ago by the late Priester Brothers of Reynoldsville, early cabinetmakers who, later, combined this business with that of dealing in furniture and undertaking.

Since the trip to Maryland he has built about twenty 'fiddles', some of which he has sold at prices ranging from two to three hundred dollars. Other violins, with prices in several instances much higher, are now

To make a violin requires how long?

Four hundred hours at the least, Mr. Young will tell you, in the process of construction. Mr. Young's personal violin came from Germany and, experts declare, is between one hundred and fifty and two hundred years old, at the least.

Time will pass on. And time, with its passing, may eventually bring the value of violins constructed by Mr. Young to many thousands of dollars each. This, to many, may seem beyond the scope of a logical deduction. But not so much so when it is remembered that the world's foremost builder of violins, Antonius Stradivarius, once sent twenty of his instruments to a dealer in London and asked that they be sold for four pounds each, or the equivalent of about twenty dollars in American currency. Months passed. Then one day the dealer wrote Stradivarius and asked that he come and get his violins because, at the price of four pounds each that was asked, there were no buyers. Today, an instrument bearing the authentic signature of the Italian master sells for thousands of dollars—dollars equal to a fair-sized fortune.

"A slight curvature on a piece of wood here; there the delicate working with a miniature plane. Now a symmetry of design that fascinates. Finally, a finished product—a violin with a tone as soft as the far-away pealing of chimes, or a tone with such intensity that it resounds through a large auditorium.

That is the kind of violins that David H. Young of Reynoldsville is building".

Oren Bender was second with 33 registered and grade Holsteins producing an average of 1222 pounds of milk and 46.6 pounds of fat. Simon J. Tank Battalion Future at Stake

Members of the First Tank Battalion, Western Maryland's National Guard unit which includes the Oakland company, must wait for several days to find out the unit's future..

Two brigades are to be formed out of the Maryland National Guard and one of them will be part of a select force brought to immediate combat readiness under a reorganization plan announced last Thursday.

There was some speculation about the future of the Western Maryland Guard as it is the only tank outfit in Maryland and could very well be slated for the crack brigade. It was also learned that one of the two brigades to remain in Maryland would be part of the 29th division.

The super-ready force will be composed of 145,000 men, mostly from National Guard units. A brigade from Maryland will be included to make up the 28th division. Other units in the division will come from Pennsylvania and Ohio.

The new Maryland brigade will be composed of approximately 3,000 men by combining existing units from the 29th division.

Pictured above are Mrs. Afseri Khan, Fullbright exchange teacher from New Delhi, India, and W. Kenneth Johns, principal. Mrs. Khan is teaching biology and earth science at Southern.

'Namaste' to Southern

By Jeff Sincell

"Namaste" to Southern.

So says Mrs. Afseri Khan, science teacher from New Delhi, India. She is here on a Fullbright exchange teacher program, teaching biology and earth science at Southern.

She and fourteen other people out of 120 applicants from India were accepted by the United States Educational Foundation in India and brought to America. She arrived last August seventh and is staying at the home of Mrs. Britten Martin in Mt. Lake Park.

Mrs. Kahn, who taught in New Delhi, has three children in school. The two girls, Nazoora, 10, and Zeeba, 8, and her son, Suhaib, 7, enjoy the letters their mother writes in the Urdu (or Hindi) language, the language of her religion.

Mrs. Khan says that "all Americans look alike but they're all very friendly and helpful and willing to make my stay in America more pleasant." She prefers her six yard Indian saris to American clothes but says that the dress of American men is the same as in her country.

Mrs. Khan enjoys our food, especially the fruit. This is because of the high cost of it in her country. An Indian pound of apples is priced at about five rupees, or $1.25. She is accustomed to eating breakfast at eight, lunch no earlier than one, and supper about nine. She would have tea at four thirty.

A member of the Moslem or Islam religion, Mrs. Khan considers Friday as her day of worship. However, only the men attend the Mosque, or church, for service. She observes two religious holidays, Eid-ul-Fitar and Eid-ul-Zuka, which fall on different dates each year because India uses the lunar calendar.

The Pakistani-India crisis is greatly affecting Mrs. Khan because she is Indian born but of the Molsem religion, the major religion of Pakistan.

Additional Information

While the cow is a sacred animal in India, when Mrs. Khan visited the dairy farm of Ross Crowe near Gortner one day at milking time she was amazed when a large Holstein cow filled nearly a five-gallon pail. Cows in India give only a fraction of that amount. The amount of food the country can produce is totally inadequate to sustain its 450 million people.

Like many American women Mrs. Khan is finding that American food is fattening. She is basically a vegetarian but will eat certain meat dishes, if prepared in accordance with the dictates of her religious doctrine.

Mrs. Khan is interested in learning how to drive an automobile and has started taking driving lessons. She is amazed at the number of cars in America and at the number of individual people who own them. Cars are scarce in India and are owned by only a few.

Mrs. Khan finds her days at Southern busy ones. She is speaking to groups on a number of occasions.

Bids Due Oct. 1 For Forestry Camp

Bids are due Tuesday, October 19, for the proposed new camp on Backbone mountain in this county for the Boys' Forestry department, it was announced following a meeting of the Advisory Board for the camps last Thursday at Green Ridge.

Bids are to be received by the State Department of Public Improvement. The new camp is to be constructed for occupancy this year: There are camps at present at Green Ridge, Allegany County; one at Lonaconing, but in Garrett county, and one at Meadow Mountain. .

Money has been appropriated for a fifth camp but no site has been selected. The board was informed a new rumpus room would be built at Green Ridge camp in the spring, along with an addition to the shop at Meadow Mountain, and an addition to the warehouse at Green Ridge.

A budget of $500,000 is to be requested for 1967. Associate Judge S. T. Hamill, chairman, was among the board members attending.

Present population of the camps is 132 boys. New staff employes includes Ray Johnson, as assistant supervisor at the Lonaconing camp.

Tunis Lyon, district forester, reported on work accomplishments of the boys' camps for the period July 1 through September 15. The Lonaconing camp was credited with 965 boy days of work. They clear cut 30 acres of land.

On Meadow Mountain 822 boy days were worked, 20 acres of land cleared and two miles of road brushed out. Mr. Lyon said the work performance at the camps had been very satisfactory.

The House killed the D. C. Home Rule bil by 283-117 vote.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear son, William Emerson Thomas, Jr., who passed away October 6, 1947.

The years pass swiftly, life goes on and the memory of the one we loved becomes more precious with each new dawn. Time has not healed the heartache or filled the empty place, but God has helped us with his divine grace.

We always think of you dear loved one and say a silent prayer that God will make our family circle complete again in heaven above

Double Wedding Unites Sisters In Matrimony

Mr. and Mrs. William W. Engle

Mr. and Mrs. James E. McKenzie

Two sisters, Doris Marie and Gloria Mae Bittinger, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Russell S. Bittinger of Grantsville, were the brides in a double wedding Saturday, Sept. 4, at 2 o'clock in Zion Lutheran Church, Meyersdale, Pa.

Doris Marie, given in marriage by her father, became the bride of William W. Engle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Engle, Meyersdale.

Gloria Mae, escored by her brother, Willard Bittinger, took the wedding vows with James Ernest McKenzie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McKenzie, Meyersdale.

Double Ring

The Rev. Joseph Chukla performed the double ring ceremony for each couple. Miss Paula Werner as organist played traditional wedding music. Donald Yoder, soloist sang several numbers. Palms, ferns, bouquets of gladioli and lighted candelabra formed the decorative background.

The brides wore identical wedding gowns of white lace over taffeta made with ballerina length skirts and with bodices decorated with sequins and pearls. Their fingertip veils were held by headpieces of small flowers outlined in pearls.

Matron of honor for Doris was Mrs. Ray Hare, and her bridesmaid was Miss Wilda Bittinger. Gloria had as her matron of honor Mrs. Robert Friend, and bridesmaid, Miss Ruby Bittinger. The matrons of honor and bridesmaids made a striking appearance in short velveteen and taffeta dresses in peacock blue and Riviera pink.

Mr. Engle's best man was his brother, Irvin W. Engle Jr. His ushers were John F. Long and Eugene O'Neil. Mr. McKenzie was attended by Robert Dively, with John Werner and William McKenzie as ushers.

Reception Held

Following the ceremony a reception was held in Amity Hall of Amity United Church of Christ, with approximately 150 guests attending from Washington, D. C., Cumberland, Frostburg, Grantsville, Somerset and Meyersdale.

Both couples toured in Virginia for their wedding trips. For going away Gloria wore a cranberry red outfit with black accessories. Doris wore a brown knit suit and brown accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie will reside in Salisbury and Mr. and Mrs. Engle will make their home in Meyersdale.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our good friends and neighbors for their kindness and helpfulness during the illness and following the death of our beloved husband and father, Alvey B. Wilburn.

We are also grateful to our pastor, Rev. George Lovelace, and Donald Matthews, and to the Enlow girls, the Leighton-Durst Funeral home, and all who donated food, and all who gave flowers.

State GOP Takes Stand on 6 Issues

The Republican State Central Committee last Saturday adopted a statement of principles drawn up by its policy committee—a statement putting the governing body on record on six specific issues of the day, but in no way binding to the GOP candidates to be selected next year.

The product of two public hearings and much debate within the 40-member Policy Committee headed by Joseph M. Dukert, the statement covers the fields of education, transportation, economic development, natural resources, health and taxes and finance.

Keeps To Moderate Path

As approved by the full State Central Committee it keeps the GOP along the moderate path its leadership has stuck to during the last several years.

A preamble to the 14-page document commends the "ideas and principles" to the attention of "public officials and private citizens alike...not as a platform for the campaign of 1966, but in the hope that they may provide the basis for fuller discussion and action during the coming months".

J. Fike Symington, former treasurer of the State GOP who is still a member of the party's executive committee, issued a statement declaring in effect that it is not palaver that is needed by a party at low ebb, but grass roots organizational work.

The need, he said, is for a drive to organize "each and every precinct in the State".

Sixteen Are Killed On State Highways

Speed was a contributing factor in all but three of the fatalities on Maryland highways last week according to the weekly review of the State Police. This hazardous driver error also resulted in twenty serious injuries in accidents investigated by the State Police.

"Every operator must be sure that his vehicle is under control at all times", commented Colonel Carey Jarman, Superintendent of the Maryland State Police, "and the high number of fatalities and serious injuries last week in which speed was a factor is substantial evidence supporting the difficulty of keeping a speeding vehicle under control. When the element of alcohol is added to that of speed, the chances for survival decrease considerably".. .

The Superintendent continued: "The problem of highway safety is of vital concern to each one of us. No one can shift the responsibility from his own shoulders to those of someone else, and we will see no significant improvement in the problem until maximum interest and effort are displayed by everyone. The individual operator can best initiate his own all-out effort by driving at safe speeds, by obeying other basic rules of the road, and by never driving while he is under the influence of alcohol".

A total of sixteen persons were killed on Maryland highways last week. Eight of those killed were drivers; four were passengers; and four were pedestrians. Alcohol was a contributing factor in six of the deaths; speed in thirteen; and "driver error" was present in fourteen of the fatalities.

Gilt-Edge Poverty Programs...

Well-to-do Americans who send their sons to Yale and other costly universities in the Northeast may think that they are buying their youngsters the most expensive education provided in the United States. But they are wrong. Uncle Sam could send the unemployed to Yale, Princeton or other Ivy League colleges for less than what is being spent in anti-poverty training programs.

Evidence of this fact was turned up recently by Senator A. Willis Robertson of Virginia, who did some investigating on the costs of projects in Virginia conducted under the Manpower Development and Training Act.

Senator Robertson reported to Virginians on five projects under way in the Old Dominion. One of them was a 12-week program for training 36 unemployed kitchen helpers. He found that the cost of this program in Abington, Va., was $33,601. Another one of the five programs was at Crewe, Va., where 18 unemployed workers were learning to be plumbers' apprentices at a total cost of $98,948.

In computing the overall costs of these programs in Virginia, Senator Robertson discovered that it cost the federal government $3,921 to train one bricklayer, $5,342 to train an auto mechanic, and $5,497 to train a plumber's helper.

That's pretty fancy education for the unemployed. As I said, it would be possible to send these unemployed to the most expensive colleges in the land and still save the taxpayers' money.

If this is a typical example of the Great Society at work—and it seems to be the case—then one may rightfully question how long the taxpayers will be able to afford this wonderland. And what is the ordinary citizen to think of the waste—the citizen who, over the years, has skimped and saved to send his son or daughter to college or to work his own way through college or night school classes?

Of course, the public wants unemployed to find employment. But it is incredible that a man or woman without a job has to receive such a gilt-edged training. It's just too much!

The truth is that the anti-poverty programs aren't using existing facilities to the fullest, but are bent on setting up separate training facilities and staffs. In state after state, school buildings are not being used but a few hours a day. They are empty in the evening hours and on week-ends, for instance. It would be possible to use such community facilities without establishing new centers for the unemployed.

It would be splendid if the Johnson administration were interested in finding modest, economical arrangements for helping with the training of the unemployed. But that isn't what the leaders of the Great Society have in mind. They want to Think Big, at the taxpayers' expense. They want costly programs, and the public may wonder why. It is not unfair to suspect that one reason the anti-poverty warriors want costly programs with high-paid staffs is that they aren't thinking simply of basic industrial training. Instead, they are mindful of the political opportunities of the anti-poverty effort—the chance to train people in political loyalty by giving them pulsh jobs and expensive hand-outs.

As a matter of fact, no reason exists for the federal government to be in the job training program at all. No one knows more about job training than American industry. Industry has the building, staffs, and the overall know-how. Ultimately, industry will be the employers of the people now receiving training.

It would be far more sensible for the White House to have proposed that industry be given suitable tax incentives to engage in wider training programs. Many companies already are training people on their own, taking the unskilled and giving them new skills with which to earn a good living.

The rational approach to the unemployment program would have given business a tax break, and let it handle a problem at which it is expert. But, again, the anti-poverty warriors would not have wanted that. Such training would not produce in the unemployed a feeling of dependency on government and a sense of political obligation. That is what the poverty fighters have in mind.

ASC Committee to Conduct Elections

Ballots will be mailed Friday to all known eligible voters, to give them an opportunity to vote for ASC Community Committeemen for 1966, according to Darrell Martin, Chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Any farmer who does not receive a ballot by mail, may secure one at the ASCS Office in Oakland on or before October 18. Ballots must be returned to the ASCS Office by October 18, if delivered in person, or must be post-marked by this date.

Three committeemen and two alternates will be elected in each of eight communities. Six or more candidates have been nominated for each community and the names of the candidates have been listed on the ballot in alphabetical order. The person who receives the highest number of votes will be elected chairman, the second highest will be vice-chairman, etc.

Ballots will be tabulated by the County Committee at the ASCS Office on October 21, beginning at 9:30 a. m. Any person desiring to do so, may witness the counting of the ballots. Questions on eligibility to vote and hold office will be settled by the County Committee, subject to appeal by the State Committee.

All Community Committeemen will be asked to attend a meeting to be held at the ASCS Office on October 29 for the purpose of electing a County ASC Committee for 1966. In previous years only the chairman attended this meeting.

Community Committeemen assist the County Committee in administering the Agricultural Conservation Program, Wool Program, Price Support Programs, Soil Bank Program, Wheat Stabilization Program and Feed Grain Program.

LITTLE BUSINESS MAN

Business hasn't been too good today. But in a minute someone will come along for a shine. Johnny will have a dime, bright and inviting, lying in his palm.

What's he going to do with that dime? As he sits in the sun, visions dance in his mind. He could buy candy, ice cream, a new magazine. He could even save it for Sunday School . . . but then what good could a dime do.

Suddenly Johnny remembered a Sunday School lesson. Jesus had told how precious was the penny offering of a poor widow.

Next Sunday Johnny proudly dropped his dime in the offering plate.

Johnny's gift wasn't very much. It won't do a great deal to help the Church meet its financial needs. The important thing is: It helped Johnny! Going to Sunday School has put him on the road to becoming a real Christian businessman.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Humbly Wise

Lesson for October 10, 1965

Background Scriptures: Exodus 2:16-22; 4:18-20; 18. Devotional Reading: Proverbs 22:17-23.

Some men are famous for great discoveries, others for genius in art, warfare, business or what not. Jethro (he had no second name but Reuel) is famous by being a father-in-law. Of course that is not the whole story. He is remembered not for having a son-in-law, but because that son-in-law was to become one of the greatest men of all time. His daughter Zipporah (Hebrew for Birdie) was the wife of the renowned Moses, the Moses everybody has heard about. The first time Moses saw his future wife was at a well in the wilderness, where Zipporah and her six sisters were trying to haul water for their sheep-herder father Jethro. Other shepherds were being rude to the girls and Moses drove them off. (A big man, he must been.) So Moses, then a fugitive from an Egyptian chain-gang or worse, first became a boarder in Jethro's tents, and then his son-in-law. Moses, we know, went on to high fame; Jethro stayed a sheep-herder to the end of his days.

Dr. Foreman

Obscure men

Zipporah so far as we know never did Moses any good, though she did bear him two sons who were never heard of again. But Jethro did Moses a lot of good with sensible advice at a critical time. Jethro is one of that large but never famous company of obscure men who have been close friends of others who were by far their superiors. Most presidents of the United States have had intimate friends who could never have been elected president, but who on occasion could offer humble advice which turned out to be good. (Sometimes the advice is bad, but that's another story.)

God guides . . . but how?

Christians talk a good deal about the guidance of God, about Providence and divine care and protection. How God guides men we do not always know; that he guides men we can be sure. We get a hint of the "how" in this story. How did Jethro and Moses get together? Neither of them planned it. Moses was just the only available man. If he hadn't married Zipporah, he would have married one of her sisters and in any case would have had Jethro for a father-in-law. Yet because of this close relationship, Jethro was able, in later years, to offer Moses advice which saved him, it would seem, from something like a nervous breakdown.

Old sheepherder's advice

What was this wonderful advice which the old sheep-herder offered Moses? Nothing very wonderful, actually. The point is, it was just common sense, only Moses, like some other great men, had a mind that moved in the stratosphere and ordinary down-to-earth matters did not always occur to him. He was trying (Jethro discovered) to decide all the arguments and quarrels of thousands of people all by himself, and he was of course in danger of becoming a nervous wreck. Jethro suggested that Moses set up a system of graded courts to hear cases of ordinary difficulty or importance and save himself to be a kind of Court of Appeals where cases of the greatest importance could be tried. A perfectly simple solution of the difficulty. Moses would preserve his strength (and he would need it for the long years ahead in the "great and terrible wilderness") and the people's needs for justice would be more promptly met. The plan worked, too, worked so well that more than thirty-five years later, as we read in Deut. 1, Moses failed to give Jethro the credit for it. To suggest wisdom to a man so painlessly that he thinks it his own idea is a kind of magic. Jethro had it.

Article Features Success of Mayo Sisler In Jersey

A lengthy feature article in the Sunday Home News newspaper of New Brunswick, N. J., of September 26, concerns Mayo S. Sisler, and his successful career in that town.

Mr. Sisler was a former coal miner in the area and a store operator at Loch Lynn Heights for several years prior to moving to New Brunswick with his wife and family, some fifteen years ago.

Sisler, who will be 43 this month, has built up a highly successful construction firm, become a bank president and successful realty investor, a dedicated outdoorsman and, for a while a political figure. Now he's making his mark in another field as owner and developer of one of the township's two rapidly growing industrial parks.

The feature story traces Sisler's history from the time he was born in a coal mining town in this county, across the Potomac from Wilson, W. Va., and following his father's footsteps as a miner for a time. During WWII he served in the infantry for about 3 and one-half years, meeting his wife, Veronica, who was serving with the women's arm of the Britain's Royal Air Force.

He returned to Maryland, returned to coal mining, and set up his own small coal business only to be wiped out by the prolonged miners' strike in 1949. Fire then gutted their home. Mr. and Mrs. Sisler and their three small children escaped but they did not salvage a thing.

He then borrowed $300 from his mother and moved with his family to New Brunswick where his brother, Don Sisler, already was established.

He landed a job as a carpenter with no previous carpentering experience. Then he turned to mason's work. The two then decided on contracting and formed Sisler Brothers Construction company. The first contract was a new and modern office and warehouse building for the Raritan Lumber company. Since then they have constructed industrial and school buildings and other structures.

His realty operations include a shopping center, an apartment building, office building and industrial structures at Deerwood, and the new township sewerage authority building. He was among those to whom the idea of a bank was proposed and his activity and leadership were awarded with the presidency of the institution. In the 2 and one-half years of its operations its assets total about $16 million.

His three children are Gary, 19, student at American university; Michael, senior at Bridgewater - Raritan High school; and Shirley, 16, a junior at the same school.

The article occupied two complete columns in the Sunday edition. His mother is Mrs. Stella Lowdermilk, Loch Lynn Heights. His father is the late Cleve Sisler who died when Mayo was very young.

Science Students Will Compete For Dec. Conference

Monongehela Power Company will sponsor three outstanding high school science students to the seventh National Youth Conference on the Atom this year, and all high schools in the area served by the electric company have been invited to nominate candidates.

The Conference will be held in Chicago December 9-11. Some 400 high school seniors and more than 200 science teachers will participate, the purpose of which is to present an authoritative and inspiring picture of the promise of the peaceful atom in its various applications and to help advance interest in the study of science.

Along with the three students, Monongahela Power will also send to the conference science teachers from the three high schools represented.

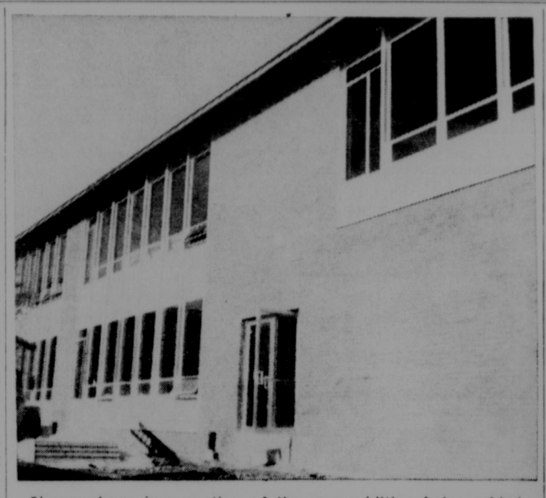
Nominees will go to three college testing centers for a battery of examinations and one winner will be named from each center. Those centers are West Virginia Universty, West Virginia Wesleyan College and Marietta (Ohio) College.

Taking the tests at West Virginia University on October 30 will be nominees from the counties of Marion, Monongalia, Preston, Taylor, Pendleton and Pocahontas and from Elk Garden, Bayard and Southern High at Oakland.

Each high school is entitled to one nominee. Those with an enrollment of more than 500 in the 10th, 11th and 12th grades may nominate two students and those with more than 1,000, three.

Fall Forest Fire Season In Effect

The fall forest fire season is in effect in the area, according to District Forester W. A. C. Irwin.



Two fires had occurred last Thursday in this county, the first to be reported since the season started September 15. One occurred at 88 bridge on the B. and O., west of Oakland and burned about two acres of brushland before being brought under control. The blaze originated along the railroad right of way and may have started by a spark from an engine.

The other fire occurred in the same general area and burned over about an acre..

Mr. Irvin said the spring forest fire season had been a good one, with only 53 fires being fought during the period March 1 to May 21. Those fires burned over about 89 and one-half acres. Rain during the early season kept fires at a minimum.

Regulations for the forest fire season applies to persons residing outside of corporate limits and burning is restricted to the hours between 4 p.m., and midnight, and then only if a 10-foot firebreak surrounds the fire. The person burning also must have sufficient equipment on hand to keep the fire from spreading and remain at the scene until the last spark dies out.

Northern High School's Huskies extended their two-year victory string to thirteen games by defeating their county rivals, Southern Highlanders of Oakland last Friday night at the Northern Field by the score of 19-6. The score did not indicate the great difference in statistics.

Northern showed a total of 12 first downs compared to 2 for the Highlanders and gained a total of 296 yards compared to 65 for Southern.

Coach Jack Lear's eleven scored touchdowns in the first, third and fourth quarters in reeling off its fourth consecutive win of the 1965 campaign. Northern scored its first touchdown early in the contest when quarterback George Edwards plunged into the end zone from the one yard line. The extra point attempt failed and that was the extent of scoring until after the second half got underway.

On the first play of the third quarter Barry Beal scored on an 80 yard run. Yommer added another touchdown tally later and Edwards completed the point after touchdown to give Northern 19 points.

Southern's score came in the closing minutes of the final period on a three-yard run by John Minnick. Southern had passed for a score just a few minutes before but it was called back because of a penalty infliction. A blocked punt gave the Highlanders another opportunity and this time a pass completion put the ball in scoring position for Minnick's five yard run. The try for the extra point failed.

It was the second loss of the season for Southern.

Both teams will continue their competition this Friday with games away from home. The Northern Huskies will travel to Davis, W. Va., for a game with Mountaineer high at 1 p. m. Southern Highlanders will travel to Parsons for a game there at night.

BALTIMORE

Cloture Vote . . . .

The measure that would have revoked the power of the states to ban the union shop has been shelved for this season, and millions of people will be thankful for the decision of Senate Majority Leader Mansfield. The bill should be shelved for all time and additional states should be encouraged to pass "right to work" laws.

Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act allows states to say that it isn't necessary to belong to the union to hold a job. The House of Representatives voted for repeal of this section by eighteen votes, a hairbreadth margin in the "Great Society's 89th Congress".

The vote on Monday was unsuccessful in the attempt to invoke cloture and shut off the debate which opponents of the bill had carried on for several days. Supporters of cutting off debate mustered only 45 senators, with 47 against. Maryland's Senator Tydings voted for cloture and Brewster was paired, and in favor of cloture but did not vote.

Should such a law ever be passed it would limit freedom of choice in employment and remove from the states the right to enact legislation on their own. There is no more basic liberty than the right to work and the right to join or not to join an organization.

It is impossible to have compulsory unionism or non-unionism without violating freedom of the individual.

With all this commotion about discrimination, it is hard to conceive of a president of the United States favoring the repeal of the Taft-Hartley section, or for that matter, any legislator who has a desire to uphold the constitution of the United States.

Polls show that the majority of voters do not like forced unionism. Congressional mail also shows this. The issue ought never to be brought before Congress again.

Carl Miller Barn Destroyed By Fire

A large barn on the farm of Carl Miller, of near Accident was completely destroyed by first last Thursday morning. The Accident fire department was called by the flames had gained too great headway and it was impossible to extinguish the blaze.

The barn had recently been filled with hay, which was destroyed. Three cows also were destroyed by the flames, along with all farm machinery which had just been stored, and 200 bushels of oats.

The barn was some 90 years old, and burned quickly. Rudy Enlow, a neighbor, first noticed the fire and gave the alarm, and attempted to get out some of the machinery. He did manage to get two calves out of the barn. The cause of the blaze was not determined. Mr. Miller had $4,000 insurance on the barn, but nothing on the machinery or the contents.

Fire At Friendsville

Accident firemen also were called that same afternoon as an assist call from Friendsville fire company. A fire was discovered in the small restaurant operated by Mrs. Betty Burroughs called the "Huskies' Den". There was considerable damage from smoke and water. The fire was thought to have been caused by an overheated stove and flue.

Accident firemen were called to protect other houses in the area.

Oakland Firemen Are Called Twice

Oakland firemen were called out twice within six hours, to travel in opposite directions to quell two blazes.

The first call at 9:45 p. m., was to a dwelling near the Weber greenhouse, south of town. The home was owned by James Sheehe but occupied by Leroy Guthrie. Damage to the dwelling was estimated by firemen at $50.

This morning at 4 o'clock the firemen were called to extinguish a blaze at the black top mixing plant, located near Vetter Brothers operation north of Sand Flat. The equipment was owned by the Phoenix Construction company and there was no estimate of damage because it was not known how seriously the machinery had been burned. The blaze was extinguished quickly.

County Man Hurt In Route 40 Crash

Mark Saltzer of McHenry, was painfully but not seriously injured last Thursday when the 1964 Corvair which he was driving collided with a tractor trailer on U. S. route 40, west of Keyser Ridge.

The man was brought to Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland where he was given emergency treatment and a number of X-rays. He sustained three cracked ribs and multiple bruises. He was taken to his home where he is recuperating.

Mr. Saltzer is employed by Southern Transfer, working out of Pittsburgh. He plans to return to his work in two or three weeks.

Garrett Allotted 2,000 Doe Permits

Allegany county will get the largest number of permits for killing female deer this season, the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission voted Saturday.

A total of 11,350 permits will be available in the state during the two-day antlerless deer season December 17 and 18. The commission voted to allow hunters to kill a female deer in Southern Maryland and on the Eastern Shore without a special permit.

Allegany will get 4,000 licenses for the two-day season. Washington county is allotted 2,500; Garrett, 2,000; and Frederick, 1,000. Five other counties get lesser amounts.

Hunters must still have a hunting license and a deer stamp, and can kill only one deer of any sex during the year.

The regular male deer season will last for nine days, beginning the day after Thanksgiving.

A state survey has shown that Maryland deer are continuing to increase and the antlerless season is designed by the game commission to control the size of the herd. Many sportsmen, however, are not in favor of the antlerless season and last year a number of hunters after obtaining a stamp to hunt doe tore them up.

There was a public hearing concerning the antlerless season but unlike last year, no one appeared to oppose the killing of female deer.

A hunter does not have to live in the county from which he gets a permit.

Scout Fund Drive Will Begin Soon

There are scout, cub or explorer organizations in Oakland, Loch Lynn, Mt. Lake Park, Friendsville, Accident, Grantsville and Swanton, with plans to organize additional units.

The drive will include a door to door solicitation, conducted by members of the Lions club in Oakland, the Methodist men in Mt. Lake Park, and by individuals. Letters also are being mailed to business men and professional persons.

Special Service Will Mark 175th Church Event

An anniversary service commemorating the 175th year of St. John's Lutheran congregation at Red House, will be conducted on Sunday morning, October 31, it was announced this week by the Rev. Vaughn Taylor, pastor. The service will begin at 11 o'clock.

Felix Robinson, Oakland, noted for his concern in the historical development of the county, will make a presentation on the role St. John's played in this development.

Pastor Taylor said "Much water has passed under the bridge in these past 175 years. Yet we cannot cut ourselves from our past and those individuals who laid the foundation for our present existence. It is our hope that we might be able to continue in the work which they began, with an equal amount of dedication and enthusiasm. It is difficult to measure the significance this church held and continues to hold in the life of this community. We can only hope that in the end it can be said that it has been a job well done".

St. John's first pastors were licensed and ordained by the Ministerium of Pennsylvania which was organized August 15, 1748. The congregation was second oldest in the old West Virginia Synod, St. Paul's of Aurora being the first. For more than a century these two congregations were of the same parish. St. John's had its beginning two miles north of the present site, in the home of George Reinhart; and the first church building was locally known as "Susan's", as a tribute to Mrs. Reinhart whose

Wastes No Time Following Parole

Last Thursday's daily newspapers carried the item that the State Parole Board had granted paroles to three men sentenced in Garrett Circuit court.

This week one of the men paroled, had eight charges pending against him, six for forgery, two for false pretense.

He was James A. Alexander, who had been sentenced in February, 1965 to 18 months for forgery.

On the books of the Trial Magistrate, Robert M. Maroney, were cases filed October 2, 4, 6, and 11, for check writing which totaled $280. On the alleged forged checks the name of Turner A. Beavers had been illegally written. On one of the checks the name of Vernon C. Friend had been used as maker, with the check being drawn on the Garrett National Bank.

Alexander at present is in custody in Winchester, Va., on attempting to pass bad checks, and as soon as Virginia authorities are through with him, he will be held for Garrett county authorities.

The check written on October 2, with the name of Vernon C. Friend, was for $30. The four written on October 4 were two for $50 each, and two for $25 each. Two more were written October 6, one for $30 and one for $40. The one written on October 11 was for $30.

Carroll E. Miller filed the charges in three instances, while the balance were filed by Wayne Wilt, deputy sheriff.

Freed On Parole

In addition to the name of James A. Alexander as being freed on parole were the following:

Robert A. Dye, sentenced in February, 1965, to 18 months for assault.

Ronald E. Everett, sentenced December, 1964, to two years for larceny and escape.

2,226 Persons On 3 Autumn Glories

The three Autumn Glory trains concluded their runs on Sunday, climaxing another most successful promotion by the local promotion council and the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

The weather for the two last Saturday and Sunday was anything but favorable with rain and cool temperatures prevailing, but in spite of mud and wet, there appeared to be no grumbling.

Many professed delight with the mountain music presented by the group from Oakland, Backbone mountain, Deer Park, Sang Run and Deep Creek Lake, who played at the Swallow Falls pavillon.

The breakdown showed 732 excursionists on October 3, 740 on October 9, and 754 on October 10. The three trains were met by the bands from Southern High school. County 4-H club members served refreshments, including turkey sandwiches, hot dogs, homemade cookies, cider, etc.

Missing Woman, Believed Lost, Found In South

Mrs. Lena Beitzel Located In Georgia Attending Religious Gathering

The 44-year-old McHenry woman, missing from her home for ten days, is missing no longer. The Sheriff's office reported yesterday morning about 10 o'clock that Mrs. Lena Beitzel, was located at Jackel Island, Ga., near the town of Brunswick, where she was attending a religious gathering.

Mrs. Beitzel had remained at her home on Sunday, October 3, while other members of the family had attended a church service. When they returned home Mrs. Beitzel was not there. Mrs. Beitzel had left a note for her husband which led him to believe that she might have disappeared in the nearby woods.

The note had declared that there was "nothing else to do since they had taken away my mail, my radio," and had "refused to let me go to church". She had written, "Maybe someday you will understand." She admonished the children to obey their father and declared "I love you all". She had also said she was "sorry to leave the house in such a mess, but there is nothing I can do about it".

Authorities who had studied the circumstances, indicated they had a feeling she might have gone on a journey with friends or relatives. County officials had said that in recent months she had become deeply interested in a church group which had one of its headquarters in Pittsburgh.

Last Saturday some 150 persons organibed a search party, combed the forested area around the airport near McHenry, and near where she resided just off the Bumble Bee road. The search included a look in the farm pond of the Wagner farm nearby.

Mrs. Beitzel is the wife of Ernest Beitzel. Eight of their eleven children are still at home.

The sheriff's office said yesterday that a warrant charging the woman with "neglect of her children", had been issued and that in all probability county officials would journey to Brunswick to bring her back to the county.

Bill To Erase T-H Section 14B Shelved By Senate

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Montana Democrat, on Tuesday shelved for this session the bill to revoke the power of the states to ban the union shop.

Mansfield told his colleagues that the unsuccessful attempt Monday to invoke cloture and shut off the debate had made it clear that he cannot get action on the bill at this time.

His action made it likely that Congress would be able to wind up the 1965 session shortly.

In Monday's vote, supporters of the bill mustered only 45 senators for cloture as compared with 47 against. Thus it did not even win a majority although two-thirds was needed.

The bill, passed the House, and urged by President Johnson would repeal section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act.

That section permits the states to outlaw union shop contracts under which workers are required to join a union.

Republican Senator Dirksen, leading the opposition to repeal, said he would keep his supporters geared to oppose the measure in the new session starting in January.

Let Right To Work Remain A Right...

(An editorial appearing in a recent issue of Life Magazine).

A spate of old fashioned rhetoric and oratory, it seems, is about to engulf a reluctant U. S. Senate. Before the current session ends, Minority Leader Everett Dirksen is determined to confront his colleagues on a matter of principle: whether or not to repeal section 14(b) of the Taft Hartley act, which now allows to states "right to work law", outlawing compulsory union-shop labor contracts.

Nineteen states have such laws on their books, a situation which the Labor Lords of the AFL-CIO treat as an affront to their dignity and a threat to their security.

The Democratic party, which knows about bloc votes, promised to repeal of 14(b) in its 1964 platform. Compliance seemed inevitable until Dirksen rose up to threaten "attenuated discussion" (for which read filibuster) to prevent the bill from reaching a vote.

Labor lobbyists pretend the compulsory union shop is a question of high philosophic principle, although if carried to its logical extreme the same principle could require all exservicemen to join the VFW or the American Legion, in order to deserve the fruits of veteran legislation. Actually what's involved from Labor's viewpoint is a matter of pure pragmatism: they want a nationwide, compulsory union shop for the added muscle it would give them. Some pro-labor Democrats genuinely believe they are entitled to such privileges.

The rest are stuck with supporting them simply as a price of labor's votes in 1964 and the future.

Dirksen challenges this expedience on two fundamental and logical grounds: do the states still have the right to enact legislation on their own, and does the individual's right of voluntary association still prevail in this country?

Three nationwide polls as well as the bulk of congressional mail, show clearly that the majority of voters find the idea of forced unionism repugnant. If the Democrats are forced to justify their pay off to the Lords of Labor in the glare of Dirksen's challenge, repeal of 14(b) may become the dead issue it deserves to be.

CAPITOL COMMENT

by Charles "Mac" Mathias
Congressman 6th District, Maryland

The Trouble With Subsidies

Those of you who have followed this report from Washington over the years will recall the discussions we have had in the past with respect to the control of agricultural production and price levels through the payment of subsidies. This form of governmental regulation has produced many problems, and I have been reminded again this week of just how complicated and far-reaching those problems can be.

Two Cases Of Surplus

The wheat subsidy program is a good example of the way subsidies can multiply. Since this nation produces more wheat than it consumes, we seek to sell American wheat in foreign markets. Now, the American wheat farmer receives an artificially elevated price for wheat sold domestically. In order to compete in world markets, it is necessary to bring that price back down to world market prices, and the difference is made up through the paymment of export subsidies at the port of export.

The case of cotton is more complicated. We have artificially raised the price of cotton in order to give the American cotton farmer more income. In so doing, we have priced American cotton out of world markets, so we find it necessary to pay a second subsidy to lower the price of cotton at the port of export. This, in turn, puts American industrialists at a disadvantage, so we have added another payment—a subsidy on a subsidy on a subsidy—to equalize the position of the American textile manufacturer in world competition.

A Case of Scarcity

Congress then is presented with an unusual situation in the Sugar Act, which will be debated very soon in the House. Unlike cotton and wheat, sugar is one product in which our demand exceeds the domestic supply, and we have to buy sugar from other nations. You might say that under these conditions we would face no danger of falling prices, and would not have to pay subsidies. But the notion of control has become so deeply ingrained that, in spite of the fact that we import sugar, we still pay a subsidy to the American sugar farmers, to elevate the domestic price of sugar over the world price.

This has had very peculiar effects. It has made the privilege of selling sugar in America a privilege greatly desired by those nations who do produce sugar for export. Thus we have established a system of quotas, and the competition among nations for ample quotas has become so keen that the allocation of quotas has taken on great international political significance.

I regret that we have gotten ourselves into this kind of situation. I regret that the Sugar Act should impinge so heavily upon our foreign policy, and that the influence of lobbyists for sugar interests has become so great on Capitol Hill. I think that the activities of these lobbyists must be curbed, and the program returned to rationality.

The whole problem is a complex and difficult one, but if it points any lesson, that lesson is that the control and subsidy programs, whether applied to surpluses or to scarcities, has created national and international problems which will only become greater unless we in the future can revise our whole approach.

Farm Bureau

delegate to the state convention. Regular delegates are the president and vice-president, with Mrs. Wayne Hamilton as alternate.

Approximately four hundred people attending the banquet and program, listened to a talk by Charles McC. Mathias, Jr., congressman from this district. He challenged Farm Bureau to continue its dedication to upholding American principles. Mr. Mathias proclaimed his opposition to several recent congressional bills which he said "Were not good for America". Some of the measures which he criticised were: the denial of a state the right to have one house of its legislature on some basis other than population; the bill proposing to subsidize a family whose rent is more than one-fourth of the family's income; the current farm bill which is based on subsidies and more subsidies, is unsound and unworkable because the same technique is being tried to decrease production as has been used successfully to increase production. He also warned of the danger and unfairness of repealing section 14(b) of the Taft Hartley law.

Mr. Mathias explained that although the power of the present administion seemed to be bent on destroying American principles, "our country can be saved if groups like Farm Bureau remain strong and vigilant".

Y. D. Hance, president of the Maryland Farm Bureau, from Calvert county, told those present his greatest aim was to be of service to all of the county farm bureaus of the state. He said "Farm Bureau has a very important work to do and the success of the organization depends to a great extent upon the activity of individual members".

William Clem, Randallstown, representing the office of the Maryland Farm Bureau, assured the membership of the organization's resire to be of service to all members. He said the Bureau's cost accounting service could be of great assistance to individual farmers. He also called attention to the several bureau radio programs.

Mrs. Aiken introducced Miss Rita Barnard, 1965 county farm queen and Miss Linda Margroff, dairy princess. Mrs. Orval C. Glotfelty, vice-chairman of the Women's committee, also spoke briefly. Mrs. Martha Glotfelty accompanied by Mrs. John Reckner at the piano, led group singing.

It was announced that two hundred thirty-five farm families are now enrolled in the organization.

Is Your Name HOLLIDAY?

Do You Know That:

Holliday, an old and honored surname, is principally of English origin. It is the equivalent of Holiday and Halliday and, according to authorities on the origin of names, was applied in mediaeval times to those who were born on Sunday or some other holy day.

Samuel Holliday (1742-1812) was captain of Cumberland County, Pennsylvania militia during the Revolutionary War. He was born in Ireland and died in Bedford County, Pa. At that time also, Adam Holliday (1728-1799) and Amos Holliday (1747-1833) were privates respectively in the Pennsylvania and Connecticut troops.

The first census of the United States, taken in 1790, has listings of Clement, Leonard, John and Richard Holliday who were residents of Maryland and heads of families at that time. The 1st two lived in Prince Georges County and the latter two made their homes in Anne Arundel County.

Frederick William Holliday (1828-1899) was governor of Virginia. He served as colonel in the Confederate Army.

Cyrus Kurtz Holliday (1826-1900) earned national recognition as a businessman and railroad builder. He was born in Carlisle, Pa., and his ancestors were prominent in the founding of Hollidaysburg, Pa. At the age of twenty-eight, he moved to Kansas where he was one of the founders of Topeka. He was one of the founders and first president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad and served also as president of the Merchants National Bank and of the Excelsior Coke and Gas Company, both of Topeka. For many years he was the largest taxpayer in the city.

Wallace Trevor Holliday (1884-1950) of Cleveland was president and chairman of the board of directors, Standard Oil Company of Ohio.

Raymond Middleton Holliday is executive vice-president and a member of the board of directors, Hughes Tool Company, Houston, Texas.

Malcolm A. Holliday is a distinguished physician who practices his profession in Pittsburgh where he is also professor of pediatrics at the University of pittsburgh School of Medicine.

Joseph E. Holliday is professor of history at the University of Cincinnati.

Appalachia Fund Ready For Rt. 40

The Appalachia commission has approved money for improvement to U. S. route 40 in the Cumberland area, the fund being tied in with the Cumberland Thruway, the first Appalachia money to be used for that work.

Congressman Charles McC. Mathias said he was told the commission had approved $11,399,000 for 3.83 miles of route 40 improvement from Lee street in Cumberland to Vocke road in LaVale.

State Roads commission officials said the amount would be matched by state funds on a basis to be determined by sufficiency ratings and a construction schedule.

Rep. Mathias said he had been informed also that additional money for route 40 also had been approved for work in fiscal 1966 and 1967. There is $1,187,300 for fiscal 1966 and an additional $6,755,000 for the next fiscal period, making a total of $7,937,300 for the two-year period.

Plans for improvement of route 40 and other highways in Western Maryland eligible for Appalachia money are reported progressing with the state almost ready to start on acquiring land for rights of way.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our beloved husband, father and grandfather, Earl W. Staub, who was taken away from us October 14, 1964.

One year has passed since that sad day
When God called you away.
We do not need this special day
To bring you to our mind.
We were happy when you were with us,
But now our hearts are sore.
They say time heals all sorrows
And helps us to forget,
But time so far, has only proven
How much we miss you yet.

So sadly missed by wife, Daughters, Sons, Sons-in-Law, Daughters-in-Law and Grandchildren.

Answers From Clinton W. Englander

Question

When you're sure you have the "same thing" another member of your family has been sick with, isn't it all right to use what's left of their prescription?

Answer

The using of another person's prescription is a common practice which is growing increasingly dangerous because our new drugs are so much more powerful than those we dispensed only a few years ago. For your own sake, please do not consider using prescriptions written for another person. Each prescription your doctor writes is the result of his carefully considered judgment concerning the diagnosis of one, individual person's symptoms and physical condition. So, while they may "seem the same" to you, your own symptoms and physical condition could easily be quite different, making the use of another person's prescription actively dangerous to your recovery.

A Moral Issue...

Perhaps the most interesting aspect of the union-Johnson administration campaign to repeal section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act, which permits state right to work laws, is the quiet way in which advocates of repeal have worked. In the case of Medicare and the Civil Rights Act, the Johnson administration sought to gain every inch of newspaper coverage and minute of television exposure. But this has not been the case with repeal of 14(b). On the contrary, the White House and the union bosses have endeavored to get their objective in Congress with the least possible public attention.

Why is this the situation? It would seem that the answer is that both Mr. Johnson and the union bosses, to whom he is paying a political debt by supporting repeal, knew that they don't have a popular cause. Indeed they must realize that the more the American people learn about repeal of 14(b) the more they will be opposed to such action.

Certainly, repeal is in no sense whatsoever the result of any groundswell of public opinion. Even those Americans who are members of labor unions at this time are not demanding repeal. The only people who want repeal are the political managers of the union movement in the United States. They are insistent upon repeal because they want to have total control over the nation's working force. Moreover, they realize that their own position of domination is endangered by the existence of right to work laws in nineteen states. They know that these laws are an example to working people elsewhere in the nation of the freedom they could enjoy—if their states had such laws.

It is a fact that unfreedom always is menaced by freedom, wherever it exists. Unquestionably, millions of Americans in states that lack right to work laws would like to have the freedom of choice exemplified by the 19 states with such laws. And the union bosses know that these living examples of freedom of choice may stir working people in other states to take legislative action to obtain right to work laws. This is an old, old story in human relations and government. It is why autocracy feels itself menaced by a republican style of government. It is why dictators everywhere dislike parliamentary government.

The union bosses who are crying out for invalidation of state right to work laws are prompted by their deep concern for the future of Big Unionism. They are aware of the declining interest in unionism in this country, as the working force gains in prosperity and the middle class becomes bigger each year. They want to move right now to tighten their control over working people, and to incorporate in their political machines these working people who have exercised their right to work without paying tribute to a union organization. They see in repeal of section 14 (b) an easy way of strengthening their grip, but they are scared that the American people will become indignant at this new power grab inherent in the repeal effort.

Earlier in the year, it seemed as though this power grab would be accomplished—almost in the dark. But a number of courageous senators have turned a bright light on the attempted rustling of people's rights by the Johnson administration. They have determined to talk over the issue in the forum of the Senate until the American people clearly understand what is involved in repeal of 14(b) and bring pressure against the politicians who favor scrapping a citizen's right to work.

There are many things before the public, and people do not always immediately grasp what is at stake in a particular piece of legislation. Thus it often is the task of reponsible national legislators to dig into a bill and to expose latent political evils.

In the effort to repeal 14(b) members of Congress who have a conscience about the rights of their fellow countrymen, can find cause for moral outrage. The unions want to strip away important rights cherished by millions of American working men and women. The unions must be denied this objective, or the cause of liberty in the United States will have suffered a severe setback. The right to work must be extended to other Americans, not eliminated.

Return of Wild Turkey Band Urged

The Wildlife Management Division of the Department of Game and Inland Fish has been conducting an intensive study of wild turkey management in the state.

One aspect of the study involves the determination of annual survival, hunter kill, and the contribution of the stocked birds to the wild population. Realizing this, Department employees have banded all birds released this year. However, this type of program requires the complete cooperation of all hunters who bag a turkey, particularly banded birds.

All sportsmen who bag a bird this fall are requested to report their kill to a Department employee or check it at a regular deer checking station. These people will have the necessary forms for recording band numbers and other information such as weight and sex of the bird, etc. Persons unable to contact a Department employee may report their kill directly to the Annapolis office by copying the form found on page 8 of the 1965 "Hunter's Guide".

This project, in addition to survival information, will also provide information concerning distribution of birds, their dispersal following release, and an indication of the total harvest. The information will be used to develop a more intensive management program in the future and will ultimately improve turkey hunting throughout the state, it was stated.

Turkey hunting is permitted only in Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Dorchester, Somerset and Worcester Counties from October 5 to November 25, inclusive. Only one turkey per person per season is legal.

Highlanders Lose To Parsons 30-0

The Southern Highlanders were handed a 30-0 defeat at Parsons, W. Va., last Friday evening, on a playing field that was a sea of mud and water.

The Parsons high team seemed able to navigate to better advantage in the ankle deep mud and posted an 18 to 0 score at halftime with a 45-yard run, a pass and another run. All three attempts at extra point failed.

In the second half the winners scored on two more long runs, one of 45 yards and one of 40 yards.

The Highlanders never were able to get their attack off the ground.

This Friday afternoon they will endeavor to make it a .500 percent season with a contest at Keyser. Southern has lost games to the Romney School for the Deaf and Northern Huskies, in addition to the defeat last Friday, while winning over Valley High of Lonaconing and St. Francis High of Morgantown.

In successive week, following the Keyser battle there will be three homes games, with Bruce High of Westernport, Petersburg and Terra Alta. All three will be night games.

Twenty Are Killed On State Highways

Of the twenty persons who were killed in Maryland highway accidents last week, speed was a contributing factor in thirteen of them, according to the weekly report of the State Police.

In six of the thirteen speed fatalities, alcohol also was a contributing factor.

Eleven operators were among those killed, together with eight passengers and one pedestrian, a nine year old child who upon alighting from a bus darted into the path of approaching vehicle.

In commenting on last week's toll the Superintendent of the Maryland State Police, Colonel Carey Jarman, pointed out that the total number of highway fatalities so far this year, up to midnight, October 10, has reached 531, almost twenty-five percent above last year's total for the same period..

"This is indeed a dismal picture" said Colonel Jarman, "and if it continues for the rest of the year we will reach the staggering total of 760 as compared with 616 in 1964.

"With monotonous regularity", continued the Superintendent, "investigation reports last week told the story of the speeding vehicle which failed to negotiate a curve, then ran off the road and hit a fixed object. To make matters worse, in six of these cases the reports indicated that the operator had been drinking.

Horsemen Enjoy Trail Ride Event

The Garrett County Horsemen's Association spent an enjoyable weekend, October 2, and 3, in the mountains of Mt. Davis, Pa., adjoining the Deer Valley YMCA Recreation Area and the Pennsylvania state forests.

Nine horsemen rode Saturday afternoon; visiting a fire tower, the look-out tower, Isler Springs and Baughman Rocks in the State Forest Reserve covering a total of eleven and a half miles.

Approximately thirty members assembled Saturday evening for supper at Camp Bucky, jointly owned by Mike Glessner. Fourteen members spent the night in the Camp Bucky area.

On Sunday morning, Bob Walters, a local resident, who rode eight miles cross county from Garrett, Pa., to Camp Bucky, led thirteen horsemen on a ride starting at 10:00 A. M. This ride covered the YMCA highlights; such as the Deer Valley Lake and Dam. They also visited one of the largest springs known in the area, the Big Spring on the Meyers property.

The riders returned to the campsite for dinner after riding a total of ten miles. After dinner the members dispersed to return to Maryland, having a better understanding of Pennsylvania and its kind hospitality.

This Saturday the Horsemen's association will have its annual supper at Deep Creek Lodge at 7 o'clock. The Valley Troubadors will furnish entertainment.

Northern High school's 13-game winning streak came to an end last Friday afternoon at Davis, W. Va., where home team Mountaineer High produced one of the shocking upsets of the football season.

The final score was 25 to 12.

Dave DiBacco scored three times for Mountaineer on two short runs and a 51-yard dash and added one extra point on a kick, for a total of 19 points for the afternoon.

Stan Sedmock, coach, elated over the upset victory, said his team played excellent ball both on offense and defense, with good blocking and tackling.

After DiBacco's first touchdown in the first period Barnes added the second in the same period when he picked up a blocked punt and returned it 49 yards for a six-pointer.

Northern Huskies came to within one point of a tie in the second half when Barry Beal scored twice, the first on a two-yard run which capped a 67-yard drive, and the second on a 45-yard pass from the Huskies' quarterback, George Edwards.

DiBacco then put the game out of reach with a fourth quarter burst which he scored on runs of one and 51 yards. The Mountaineer team rolled up 198 yards rushing compared to 63 for the Huskies, but Northern had the edge in passing yardage, 99 to 58.

The victory made it three wins for Mountaineer with two ties and one loss. The Huskies are now four and one for the season.

The Huskies are scheduled to play Masontown Valley, of Preston county, at Masontown this evening, October 14, at 7:30 p. m.

Literary Review

By Kenneth Legge Hardesty

Paul Murray Kendall, distinguished professor of English at Ohio University, has written a most enlighting book on early English history: Warwick the Kingmaker. Professor Kendall has written several other books that have been acclaimed very highly by The London Times, Richard the Third, and The Yorkist Age.

Warwick the Kingmaker

Richard Neville, Earl of Warwick, called the Kingmaker, has been relegated to a famous oblivion. A man in English history so well known and so little known about.

After the Elizabethan Age, no one found it worth while to attempt a biography of Warwick until Professor Charles W. Oman produced his life in 1891. Warwick was molded by an age of ending and beginnings, the collapse of the reign of Henry VI; and though he helped to create a new monarchy which would rule England until 1688, he soon revolted against his own handiwork.

Warwick has been called the last of the barons, but his identification of himself with the figure he persuaded the world to believe in gives some cause for him to be considered one of the first of the moderns. His career was a failure, not so much because he reached higher than he was able to grasp but because he poisoned his character in the course of reaching. He refused to admit that there were disadvantages he could not overcome, and defeats from which he could not recover. In him lies concentrated the reason why that small corner of the earth, England, came to dominate all of the rest.

The Middle Ages, flushed with the beginning of the Renaissance, produced a blaze of princes. Warnick stands as the center of a great political duel, the first fire of nationalism, waged by Edward IV of England, the Duke of Burgundy, and Louis XI of France.

Warwick left no enduring print on the English state. In the passing of time, he paid the price of becoming a legend by almost ceasing to be a man. Perhaps his wife and daughters, and at times he himself, felt that he paid that same price during his lifetime. Within six weeks after his death the House of Lancaster was no more.

The Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland, has several copies of Kendall's books.

Introducing the tuned car. 1966 Buick.

What makes a car a car is styling, performance, ride and handling. Only when they're all tuned together is the car a Buick. Like this 1966 Riviera Gran Sport.

You know how well your car's engine runs after a tuneup? Buick tuning has the same effect on the whole car. Not just the engine. The whole Buick. Everything blends with everything else. Styling. Performance. Ride. Handling. All tuned to work together in harmony. That's what the tuned car is. A Buick. Only Buick is the tuned car. (And every Buick is the tuned car.) What the tuned car is is a masterful blending of all the things that make a great car greater. The Riviera for 1966 is the tuned car. It features six-passenger seating, disappearing headlights, a silently efficient new ventilating system and the kind of roadworthiness you'd expect in a car that costs twice as much. (You can get a Riviera for your desk as well as your garage. Send $1 in check or money order to Riviera, P.O. Box 68, Troy, Mich., for an accurate 1/25 scale model '66 Riviera.) But Riviera's not the only tuned car. LeSabre is, too. And Wildcat. Electra 225. Special. Skylark. Sportwagon. See them all at your Buick dealer's. The tuned car may not mean much to you now. But then you haven't had a chance to drive one yet.

Wouldn't you really rather have a Buick?

There's an authorized Buick dealer near you. See his Double-Checked used cars, too.

Fire Prevention Program Presented At Bloomington

A fire prevention program was presented recently at Bloomington school under sponsorship of the Bloomington Volunteer Fire company and the school.

David Kiek, past president, Maryland Firemen's association, was master of ceremonies. The school presented numbers.

The coronation of Miss Brenda Rounds, fire prevention queen, of Bloomington, by vice-president Claude Lipscomb, was a program feature. Also taking part were Miss Judy Schultz, Bloomington, runner-up; and Miss Kathy McNeil, of Shaft, fire prevention queen representing the Allegany-Garrett Firemen's association.

Gifts were presented to the queen by Carroll Moorehead, company president; and Mrs. Edna Kooken, auxiliary president.

Miss Alice Howard, instructor, presented awards to pupils who won in the poster and essay contests. Winners included Thomas Davis, Gregg Brown, Adam Swayne, Vicky Barnard, Nancy K. Paugh, Crystal Rizer, Edith Wilt, and Carolyn Tichnell.

Joseph Weinrich, Cresaptown, spoke on fire prevention. Over two hundred persons attended. Concluding observance of fire prevention week the members of the Bloomington fire company attended worship service at the Bloomington Methodist church last Sunday evening.

Huge New Plant Generating Power

The huge Virginia Power and Electric Company power plant on Stony River near Mt. Storm is now in operation commercially after completion of a "shake down" period, according to Frank Crowell, plant superintendent.

Mr. Crowell said that various component parts of the multi-million dollar plant were tested in recent weeks, and the plant is now sending 300,000 kilowatts of power into the Vepco transmission system.

At present the first unit of the plant is being used with two generators producing the 300,000-kilowatts of electric power. The generators have a rating of 500,000-kilowatts and eventually this capacity will be placed in use.

Mr. Crowell said that power totaling several hundred thousands of kilowatts has been transmitted for certain periods but the plant is now running continuously.

The first commercial power was actually sent out September 20 via the recently developed transmission lines which can move electricity long distances without much loss of power.

The power is sent over lines into Virginia where it is tied in with the entire Vepco system. Plans are to transmit some of the power into northern Virginia area near Washington soon.

The plant will use several million tons of coal annually to produce electric power. The coal is mined in the general area of the plant.

Construction work will continue through the winter on the second unit at the plant, which will bring the total capacity to one million kilowatts of electricity. The power plant is one of the largest in the nation and will cost in excess of $100,000,000.

Concert Season Set To Open Oct. 21

The Tri-State Community Concert Association will begin its seventh season with a presentation of Mozart's "Don Giovanni" by the Goldovsky Grant Opera Theatre at 8:15 p. m., Thursday, October 21, in the Fort Hill High School auditorium at Cumberland.

A number of residents of Oakland and elsewhere in Garrett County subscribed to the season series when the association conducted its annual membership drive last spring.

For 19 seasons Boris Goldovsky and his company have been demonstrating successfully that the lyric masterworks of Mozart, Verdi and Puccini can be valid and absorbing theater rather than mere displays of vocal pyrotechnics.

CONDUCTS ORCHESTRA—Edward Alley, an American conductor, will appear in Cumberland on October 21 at the Fort Hill High School auditorium as the conductor of the Goldovsky Opera Theater's production of Mozart's "Don Giovanni". This will open the season for the Tri-State Community Concert Association.

Twice previously the Goldovsky group has presented opera in English in Cumberland as part of the Tri-State Community Concert Association's series. They presented "Barber of Seville" in the fall of 1961 and "Tosca" during the 1963-64 season.

Gary was three years old the other day. We took him as a birthday treat for his first trip to the zoo. He dearly loved all of the animals, but the peak of adventure was the elephants. His eyes shone as he watched the great gray trunks snuffle and find his bravely flung peanuts, then stuff them into giant crunching jaws.

"Oh," he breathed adoringly, "elephants are big . . . as big as God!"

His arm tightened around my neck as he leaned to throw more nuts to his jumbo friends and I hugged him close, glad that already he has learned to see God everywhere.

I, myself, was almost grown before I realized God's "ever-presence" and the strength this knowledge brings, so it has been a great joy to watch the awareness of this truth develop early in my son.

Why don't you go to your church and take your child with you? It is the most important experience you can share with him.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
International Uniform Sunday School Lessons
BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Craftsman

Lesson for October 17, 1965

Background Scripture: Exodus 31:1-5; 35:30 through 36:7; 37 through 38.
Devotional Reading: I Timothy 4:6-16.

If you were about to meet a man you did not know, (all you knew about him being that his name was Bezalel) and your introducer told you, "This man has been called by God," what sort of man would you expect to see?

Dr. Foreman

You'd be surprised. This man is evidently no Priest nor preacher. He is an artist. From cover to cover, he is about the only artist mentioned in the Bible. He belongs to a class of people you don't expect to find in church. This particular artist had perhaps had training in Egypt where at that time (as we know from King Tutankhamen's tomb and otherwise) there flourished skilled jewelers, engravers, weavers, embroiderers, carvers of wood and of metal, whose skill has never been surpassed. At any rate this Bezalel (pronounced BEZzalell) was an artist in all these ways. He was the creative artist and craftsman in charge of the construction of the Tabernacle, a small but exquisitely beautiful shrine, center of the worship of Israel, the Tent of God Himself, as they believed.

Beauty and religion

It was only later that the Hebrew people got it into their heads at last that God is everywhere. But it was important with them to know that God is somewhere — and for a child, or a child-people, that means you can point to him. So if you could have flown back there three thousand years or so, on a time-machine, and if you had asked almost anyone, Where is your God? they would all have pointed to this beautiful tent-shrine and said: There is where God lives! Right in among us, at the center of where we live. But since God is Who He is, He does not live in an ordinary tent like the tents of men. His dwelling must be incomparably beautiful and costly.

Qualifications of artists

This Bezalel was no picked-up journeyman jack-of-all trades. When God called him he was already a master craftsman. Look at the list of his qualifications: "ability, intelligence, knowledge, craftsmanship," versatility too. He is not a man of one craft alone. Every one of his qualifications was needed for his various masterpieces. To this day no man can be a true artist without ability first of all. No amount of inspiration and ambition can make up for clumsiness. Intelligence too; how much modern art expresses intelligence rather than confusion? Knowledge also; it may be true that the great artist "swallows all formulas" but whether it be music or poetry or architecture or drama, there is a hard apprenticeship for every true artist. Much art today is not true art because it is clear that this "artist" has never really studied the principles of his craft.

Inspired to teach

Of course this Bezalel did not build and adorn the Tent of God alone. Oholiab and others helped him, un-named men who were the great artists pupils. We read that Bezalel was inspired to teach. The three great things an artist can do, this Bezalel did: Create (dream and design), produce, and teach. In the marvelously beautiful collection of glass flowers at Harvard, the visitor is saddened by being told that the artist who made these lovely things did not pass on his knowledge and skills to others. No more such miracles in glass were made after his death. Perhaps he did not teach because teaching is even more difficult than doing it yourself. Creating beauty is hard to teach, partly because one man seldom shares another's inspiration, partly because, unlike science, art has few rules. Blessed be the artists who like Bezalel can teach others what it is not only to feel but to create what is beautiful!

Beneath the formal styling elegance that sets the Custom Coupe apart, for instance, you'll find thick wall-to-wall carpeting, comfort-contoured seats and the look of hand-rubbed walnut on the instrument panel, glove compartment and inside door panels. You can order a finely instrumented console, together with new Strato-bucket front seats.

In the Custom Sedan, a new Strato-back front seat is available with bucket-type contours separated by a fold-down armrest. And in the equally opulent Custom Wagons, offered in 2- or 3-seat models, you can even order carpeting for the cargo area.

Each model rides super Jet-smooth. And for incomparably smooth power, you can specify Chevrolet's advanced Turbo-Jet V8 in either a 396- or 427-cubic-inch version.

The price of it all? Somewhat more than you're used to paying for a Chevrolet. But less, as your dealer will happily confirm—than the select class of fine cars these new Caprices invite comparison with in every detail. CHEVROLET

Southern Speaks

By Brad Stewart

Teachers Baltimore Bound

Schools throughout Maryland closed today so that teachers may attend the annual convention of the Maryland State Teachers Association in Baltimore. This year the organization will celebrate its 100th anniversary.

Teachers in Garrett County have constructed an exhibit to be displayed at the convention. A wrought-iron tree with pictures of the county will revolve in the center of the display. The background will be three panels, which will have smaller pictures of the county displayed upon it.

Future Farmers Hold Convention

The Oakland Chapter of the Future Farmers of America of Southern sent a delegate to the yearly convention. Roger Upole, a senior, left Oakland Monday evening, by train for Kansas City, Kansas, and will return Sunday. The convention is being sponsored by the Future Farmers of America.

There will be lectures and demonstrations on the different phases of farming.

Construction To End Soon

The finishing touches are being applied to the new 10-room addition at Southern. The wooden floor is being laid in the Girls Gymnasium, Venetian blinds are being placed in all the rooms, and the equipment for the new language room is being installed.

Classes have begun in all the rooms in the addition except the French room, and the girls' gymnasium, where plastering and re-finishing have not yet been completed.

It is hoped that the building will be completed, and in normal working order by November 1, at which time an open house will be held for the public.

Keyser Next Game

The varsity football squad of Southern will travel to Keyser, Friday afternoon to play their fifth game of the season.

The squad opened its season, being defeated by Romney D and B. The next two contests, Valley of Lonaconing and St. Francis were won, and the fourth and fifth matches with Northern and Parsons were lost.

Brethren Church To Dedicate New Office, Parsonage

Va. District. Rev. and Mrs. Stultz, both natives of Virginia, have three sons: Roger, Bruce and Carl. Mrs. Stultz serves as office assistant.

The District Executive Secretary is responsible to the District Boards of Administration of the three districts and, through them, to the District Conferences. He is assisted by a Field Counseling Committee and Field Program Trustees. Presently serving as Counselors are: Rev. Fred Clayton, Kasson, W. Va., Rev. Laurean Smith, Moorefield; and Ernest Spoerlein, Oakland. The Trustees are: Melvin Slaubaugh, Kingwood; W. E. Spoerlein, Oakland; and Calvin Mongold, Elkins; Rev. Henry Sanders, Auburn, W. Va.; Rev. Wendell Bohrer, Morgantown; and Rev. K. Dean Huntley of Grantsville, were chairmen of the three District Boards for 1964-65.

After hearing the recommendations of the Field Program Trustees, the Tri-district Boards, and the national Director of Field Services, a special Tri-District Conference, in January, authorized the construction of the new District Office and Parsonage. The Building Committee members, appointed by the Conference, were: Rev. Jonas Sines, Oakland, chairman; Rev. Roger Combs, Romney; Rev. J. Rogers Fike, Oakland; Mrs. Helen Slaubaugh, Kingwood; and Mrs. Dorothy Kirk, Fairmont.

Leroy Bernard, of Oakland, was the General Contractor, with Beachy Lumber Company of Oakland supplying most of the materials. The cost of lot and building was approximately $24,000. It is a brick building, one-floor with full basement. The office area consists of three rooms with bath and a private entrance. The parsonage area has three bedrooms, living room, dining area and kitchen, and bath.

The members and friends of the 70 Churches of the Brethren in the three districts are invited to attend this Service of Dedication and Open House on Sunday, October 17.

maiden name was Susannah Wiles.

John Stauch was among the first Christian settlers in this section west of the mountains. There was no pastor to send to this first settlement, so the Hagerstown fathers sent them a sermon book and urged them to assemble every Sabbath for worship. They did so, singing and praising God and in reading the prayers and sermons sent by their friends. Stauch, pioneer, builder of the first mill in the community, was chosen lay-leader to conduct the worship and prayer services. Hohn Whitehair was chosen the first school teacher. The first cabin was used for both school and worship until 1796 when a much larger log building was erected and used for the same purposes until destroyed by fire December 24, 1845. A new church building was then built at the present site and later replaced by the present structure in 1908.

The history of the congregation involves much detail which can be found in an anniversary booklet written in 1940 by the Rev. Alva K. Jones, the pastor. Another valuable source is an issue of "Tableland Trails", published in 1963, written and edited by Mr. Robinson. The Rev. Joshua C. Breuninger contributed numerous articles to the publication.

How To Use A Saw

How to saw. Start cut with light upstrokes near heel of saw. Once started, put pressure only on downstrokes. Pivot strokes at shoulder and elbow without twisting body.

Overcome binding. Saw may bind in long cuts, especially in damp or green wood. Use table knife to hold cut open.

Keep cut square. If you have trouble making a right-angle cut, check saw blade frequently during cut with a try-square.

Removing rust. Remove rust with rust solvent, rubbing with steel wool and wetting and rerubbing until metal is bright.

Prootect teeth. If you don't have a slotted wall rack for your saw, you can split a length of thin rubber hose to sheathe teeth.

Keep saw sharp. Filing a saw requires experience, but the job is easier with this saw-filer tool, which holds file at correct angle. Clamp saw between two boards.

There are two types of handsaws, the crosscut saw for cutting across the grain and the ripsaw for cutting with the grain.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 89. OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., OCTOBER 21, 1965 PER COPY 10c NUMBER 34.

Sad Event . . . .

A sad event occurred Tuesday in the court room in Oakland, when for the first time in history a witness, who was to testify in court, was sworn in without the use of the words, "in presence of Almighty God."

In the future you merely "solemnly promise and declare", with no penalties attached for failure to tell the truth. No longer will there be any trials for perjury, and a witness is liable to claim anything on the stand.

Taking prayer out of the schools was the first step. Now God is being taken out of oaths. When "In God We Trust" comes off our coins and "under God", comes out of the pledge of allegiance to the flag, then the downgrading will be complete, and the United States of America will be headed downhill.

The Court of Appeals decided that jurors cannot be required to affirm a belief in God, and thereby proceedure in criminal cases came to an abrupt halt and caused Thomas B. Finan, attorney general, to say it was the "gravest crisis in the administration of criminal justice in my experience."

Francis Burch, attorney who represented Baltimore in the U. S. Supreme court school prayer case, criticised the decision banning a belief in God as a requirement for jury duty, which he termed the "latest blow against the concept of God in our society".

The elimination of God in one place leads to elimination of God in another and eventually to the elimination of the concept of God from our society.

This nation was founded by persons seeking freedom OF religion, and the right to worship God as they saw fit. Under this concept this nation flourished. It was not freedom FROM religion.

Workers Call For March of Dimes Helpers For 1966

Returning home from a meeting in Washington, D. C., of March of Dimes volunteer leaders of this area, Verna J. Harvey, county chairman of Mothers March called for volunteers to help in the fight against birth defects.

She said birth defects were the nation's second greatest destroyer of life, causing nearly twice as many deaths, both before and after birth, as cancer. Mrs. William Harmon, Accident, chapter president, pointed out it was the hope of all that every child may be born healthy. She said that March of Dimes had achieved significant progress during the past few years by attacking birth defects through research, treatment and education.

Also attending the meeting at Washington Monday and Tuesday were Dale Rodeheaver, Garrett County chapter treasurer, and Mrs. Isaac Turney, Mothers March chairman for Mt. Lake Park.

Delegation Seeks Road Improvement

A delegation of about ten women of the Elbow area, district 11, appeared before the County Commissioners on Monday morning, seeking improvements to the "Swamp road".

The women told the Commissioners that guard rails were needed, particularly in the winter time for the safety of their children riding the school bus along this road. They also said repairs were needed.

The commissioners told the delegation they would inspect the area and endeavor to do what was necessary.

BPW Week Observed

National Business and Professional Women week is being observed throughout the nation this week, Monday through Saturday.

No special observance is planned by the Garrett County chapter, but a number of the members went to Cumberland on Tuesday to attend a dinner given by the Cumberland chapter. Those attending included Mrs. Carl Whorton, Mrs. Clayton White, Mrs. Arthur Calhoun, Mrs. Harve Mussard, Mrs. H. D. Swartzentruber, Mrs. Joseph M. Browning, Mrs. Eva Ream, Mrs. Genevieve Henderson and Miss Cara Weber.

The local group is continuing to work on several local projects. The local committee in charge of the national observance included Miss Weber, Mrs. Leona Wilt, Mrs. Maurice Brookhart, and Mrs. Olive Spoerlein.

Plan Open House For School Section

The Board of Education has planned an "open house" for the new ten-room addition and girls' gymnasium at Southern High school, to be held Monday evening, November 1, from 7:30 to 9:30.

The addition has been under construction for the past several months by Lawrence E. Hardesty, contractor. The contract price was $272,502. It was constructed of brick and paneling.

The financing was done through the State School Construction fund. The addition contains modern scence laboratories plus a language laboratory. Some of the rooms are equipped with folding partitions. There are four rooms on the second floor, and six rooms and the girls' gymnasium on the first floor.

The Board of Education also announced that within a year it was hoped to have completed a new library for Southern, a new cafetorium and band room for Northern, new classrooms for Dennett Road, a new agriculture center at Southern, two new fully equipped vocational shops, one at Southern and one at Northern.

Two Seating Plans For Senate Okayed

The House of Delegates gave tentative approval yesterday to two rival bills to reapportion the Maryland Legislature that the senate had passed earlier.

The action on each measure came on a voice vote, setting both measures up for enactment today.

Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan has said only one of the two bills is constitutional.

One would expand the 29-member Senate to 42 members along population lines. The other would guarantee each county at least one senator among a 53-member group.

Each of the 23 counties and six Baltimore districts has one senator at present. The 53- senator bill would take precedence unless ruled unconstitutional by the Court of Appeals. Both bills would redistribute the present House seats on a population basis.

The House approved the 43-senator bill by a 21-9 margin and the 53-senator bill by a 15-14 count.

Returned to Court

George Beeman was returned to juvenile court for a hearing Tuesday morning on a charge of violating conditions of his parole from a sentence of last June.

Beeman was charged with neglect of his granddaughter, and upon being found guilty by the court was given a sentence of six months in the House of Correction, but suspended upon condition he cooperate with the county welfare board. On October 11 a bench warrant was ordered upon request of Fred A. Thayer, state's attorney, for violation of parole conditions. He entered a plea of not guilty and Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill, sitting as a juvenile judge, gave no verdict in the case but admonished him that he would be given another opportunity to cooperate.

Is State Winner For Outstanding "Young Farmer"

Charles Mason, Jr., Oakland, Named At Meeting In Rockville

Charles Mason, Jr., of near Oakland, was named "Outstanding Young Farmer" in the state of Maryland, at a meeting of the state Jaycees board meeting in Rockville, last Saturday.

Mr. Mason, who was named the winner of the Frostburg Jaycees local contest, competed with eight candidates from other parts of the state. He was presented his first place plaque by Louis DeGrief, Jaycee state president, and Robert Pascal, president of the Maryland LPGas association, who are co-sponsors with the Jaycees in this recognition of enterprising farmers.

Thomas B. Finan, attorney general, was guest speaker at the CYF banquet, and praised the young farmers present for being the "backbone of our state economy".

Mr. Mason and his wife Lorraine, will be guests of the sponsors at the national CYF program to be held in Birmingham, Ala., in early April, 1966.

As stated three weeks ago, Mason operates a 50-acre dairy farm, has been farming for seven years and has made advancement in crop production, dairy products and general farm improvement. He grows hay, oats and corn which he uses largely for livestock feeding, and maintains 24 dairy cattle and 55 hogs for production of milk and pork, which he sells on the open market.

Mason was the state F F A

UNICEF Trick Or Treat To Be Held

The UNICEF "Trick or Treat" drive to collect coins to help the world's needy children will be held Wednesday, October 27, from 6:30 to 8:30 p. m.

Youth groups from various churches under adult supervision will go from their churches at 6:30 and solicit in areas designated to them. They will be identified by an official carton printed in orange and black with the UNICEF symbol of the mother and child. They may also be using stickers and tags marked with the UNICEF symbol.

All solicitors will return to St. Paul's Methodist church in Oakland at 8:30 for refreshments and the counting of the coins.

UNICEF is an international effort on behalf of children, and has been active since 1946 to improve their lot. Major fields of work includes health services, disease control, nutrition, education and vocational training, family and child welfare services and emergency aid.

In the United States UNICEF has been associated with Hallowe'en since 1950 when a few Sunday school pupils donated their treat of pennies to the organization instead of the usual Hallowe'en treats of cookies and candy. Since then the program has been sponsored locally in 50 states. In Oakland the program is sponsored by the United Church Women.

Cabin Damaged By Fire Early Tuesday

The lake cabin of William D. Casteel was damaged by fire on Tuesday morning, but the early discovery and the forming of a bucket brigade by neighbors, kept the flames at a minimum until the Oakland fire department arrived and extinguished the fire.

Mr. Casteel had been at the cabin, known as the B-Bar Ranch, located on the State Park roadway, on Sunday and apparently fire had smouldered in the fireplace since that time, bursting into flames early Tuesday. The blaze was discovered by Mrs. Stuart Kuhnle, a neighbor, about 8 o'clock.

Mr. Casteel said damage amounted to at least $1,000, all covered by insurance, but that some of the items lost could not be replaced at any price, as he had a number of antique items.

Frostburg Firm Is Low Bidder On Camp Unit

The Jesse Fuller and Sons contracting firm, Frostburg, was the apparent low bidder on construction of two buildings at the site of a new boys' forestry camp on top of Backbone mountain, along route 135, in this county.

Bids were opened Tuesday by the State Department of Public Improvements. Fuller bid $97,550. There were four other bids running as high as $198,000. There were no bidders from Garrett county.

To be constructed are a combined kitchen-dining and recreation building and a dormitory building. The former is to be 120 feet long and 20 feet wide, with two wings. The dormitory will be 120 by 20 also with a wing.

Achievement Day Attracts Over 100

Over one hundred homemakers and friends attended the annual Achievement Day program held at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren last Thursday. Oakland club members were hostesses.

Dr. Arthur Jones, county health officer, spoke of the progress made in caring for the elderly. He said nursing homes must have adequate fire protection, enough space for each guest, adequate kitchen and nursing care. He said that nursing homes in this county care for more than 150 guests. Each home has a registered nurse to supervise nursing services. He also spoke briefly of the medicare program.

Mrs. H. G. Gortner, community development chairman, reported that homemaker clubs in the Grantsville area were visiting the Goodwill Mennonite home and Fazio Fisher homes were being visited by a club during three months. The Oakland area clubs are visiting a home during four months, with about half of the clubs having visited. It was also revealed that all clubs had sent birthday cards to home guests, and other visits made. Some homemakers assisted with mending, while some sent favors for trays and took flowers.

Mrs. Charles Bowman was elected treasurer of the county council of Homemaker clubs and will begin her duties January 1. The Bittinger homemaker clubs invited the council to have the 1966 Achievement day at the Western Maryland 4-H center.

Schools Aligned

The state alignment of schools for 1965, announced yesterday by Robert E. Pence, supervisor of physical education of Allegany county, showed only two changes and these did not affect Garrett county.

Southern High school remains a class "A" school while Northern High remains a class "B" school. Classes are determined by the number of male students in the senior high.

Bruce high was dropped to a class "B" school while Mt. Savage was dropped to a class "C".

Allegany High is the only "AA" school in Allegany county.

Attends Dinner

Mrs. Kermit Glotfelty, Bittinger, House of Delegates member, attended the Republican fund raising dinner in Baltimore last Wednesday evening. George Romney, governor of Michigan, was the speaker.

Mrs. Glotfelty was the only one attended from Garrett.

Pedestrian Month Observed In Oct.

Pedestrian month is being observed during October, and the County Roads department issued some advice this week that "all of us need to be extra careful".

Paul W. DeWitt, county roads engineer, said "Motorists often become irritated by the dangerous and ignorant actions of pedestrians. However, we must consider that many pedestrians have never driven and are unaware of the hazardous situations which they may cause. Alertness, caution and courtesy are needed for the safety of these people".

He asked for motorists to be especially watchful for the "little ghosts and demons" at the end of the month, because "their costumes and excitement may hinder their vision and judgment".

Sewage Facilities Will Be Enlarged

Temporary facilities to enlarge the sewage capability at Deep Creek Lake State Park were authorized Tuesday by the Forests and Parks Commission.

An additional septic tank will be installed at the bath house sanitary building and a waste system will be installed at each of the two wash houses.

Spencer Ellis, director, said that in the future either a treatment plant or pumping system for waste would be installed.

Charged Non-Support

Jackson DeWitt was charged by Mary DeWitt with non-support of herself and three minor children. He was apprehended and brought before Trial Magistrate Robert M. Maroney on October 19 where he entered a plea of guilty.

Magistrate Maroney sentenced him to six months in the House of Correction but suspended sentence upon condition he pay $30 per week for the support of his family.

Forestry Field Day Conducted

The Garrett County Forestry Board held its annual Forestry Field Day at the Western Maryland 4-H center near Bittinger Wednesday, October 13th. The event was held for the benefit of the Vocational-Agriculture classes of Northern and Southern High Schools. The Vo-Ag class of Flinstone High School attended this year also.

Purpose of the Field Day was to show actual Forestry practices in the field. More than 100 boys attended the event..

The day began with a welcome from District Forester Tunis Lyon. Mr. Lyon told the group of the growing demand for higher quality forestry products and the importance of the small woodland owner in overall forestry picture. John Riley and Paul Mateer of the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks, presented talks and demonstrations of all Forestry practices from planting seedlings to harvesting timber. Chauncey Kutz, Forester from the W. Va. Pulp and Paper Company, demonstrated the latest mechanical pulpwood harvesting techniques.

Highlight of the day was a tree identification contest between the three schools. A trophy axe was given to the winning school with the name of the winning school and year engraved on it. Northern High won the axe for the second year. According to Assistant District Forester Paul Mateer, both schools did exceedingly well in a difficult contest. Northern missed only one tree out of thirty one.

Refreshments were served by the Garrett National Bank. After lunch Fred Glotfelty, Chairman of the Garrett County Forestry Board told the group of the Forestry Boards activi-

To Hold Workshop For Youthpower

A major educational effort to improve health and career opportunities among teenagers in Garrett and Allegany Counties will be started at a workshop meeting on Wednesday, October 27th at Northern High School, Accident, 7:30-9:00 p. m.

This effort, known as Youthpower, is the result of agriculture, the food industry, nutritionists and educators joining together to attack the problems of improper diets among teenagers, and lack of interest in careers relating to food.

Teenagers learn about proper food for daily diets and food career opportunities by participating in suggested activities outlined in a special project brochure.

Outstanding project work can earn a teen the opportunity to attend the State Youthpower Conference on March 5, 1966, to compete for selection as a Maryland delegate to the National Youthpower Congress, March 30 - April 2, in Chicago.

Persons interested in helping the teenage youth participate in youthpower are invited to the area workshop.

County Youthpower chairman for this area is Mrs. B. O. Aiken, Accident.

Indian Summer Is On Mountain Top

Indian Summer is with us on the mountain top.

Although cool at night, with temperatures dropping into the 20's, the days have been clear and warm with the mercury rising almost to the seventy- degree mark.

A brief resume of the weather showed some rainfall last Thursday night. Skies cleared on Friday with temeparture at 56, but an electrical storm in the afternoon brought a change. Rain continued Friday evening. There was partial clearing Saturday with temperature 64 at noon. Sunday morning was in the 20's, but the day was clear and moderately warm. Monday began again in the 20's but warm and clear during the daytime with temperature up to 63. Early Tuesday it was 30 degrees but clear and hot during the day with a top of 65. Yesterday was again clear with mercury rising to 68 degrees.

Cloud cover this morning prevented anyone from seeing the comet, and skies continued partially cloudy.

Stages Sit-In

Mrs. Robert G. Weinel, Accident, pictured here, has been staging a sit-in in the rotunda of the court house. She wants somebody to do something about her problem. Her problem is eliminating the noise of cattle bawling, and the unwelcome odors at the Friend Stock Yard, located some 200 yards from her residence along U. S. 219, north of the town. An endeavor was made to get a photo of Mrs. Weinel, sitting in the rotunda, but flash bulbs refused to go off, so the above is an outside view. Details in accompanying story.

Accident Woman Waits For Action

Mrs. Robert G. Weinel, of Accident, has been sitting in the rotunda of the Court House since Monday a week ago, every day, from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m., with time out for lunch, and she says she is going to keep on sitting there until somebody does something about her problem.

Her problem?

She and her husband say that the Friend Stock Yard is not observing the stipulations placed upon it in a court trial last December. She has endeavored to get some action through the County Commissioners, the courts, and the Health Department.

The Commissioners have told her they have no jurisdiction in the matter. Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill has informed her that there are legal ways to take care of the problem, and she should have her attorney file a complaint with the court. Mrs. Weinel says her attorney up to this time, has not filed any papers, and she further says no other attorney will take her case.

Mr. Weinel maintains that the

Appeals Board Ruling Brings Case Dismissal

Indictment For Perjury Against E. W. Coleman Is Dismissed

The Court of Appeals decision that jurors cannot be required to affirm a belief in God, has caused at least one reprecussion in Garrett county courts this week.

This was in connection with an indictment against Ernest Wayne Coleman on a charge of perjury. Coleman was scheduled to have a hearing on this matter last Wednesday. It was postponed until Friday and by this time the Court of Appeals ruling had been made, and as a result a motion to dismiss the indictment was filed in the Circuit court here, and on Tuesday there was an order of court, signed by Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill, stating that the indictment against Coleman be dismissed, placed on file in the office of Richard L. Davis, clerk of the Circuit court.

Coleman was sentenced to the Maryland penitenary December 2, 1963, for a term of five years on a conviction for robbery and assault with intent to rob. He and his brother were charged with having badly beaten and robbed Burley Farmer of Harpers Ferry who had driven the pair to Garrett County from Arlington Va. Farmer was hospitalized due to injuries. Coleman formerly resided in Kitzmiller.

Coleman had been brought back to Garrett county during a post conviction hearing for his brother, at which time he gave testimony that was dissimilar to that given previously, and for which he later was indicted for perjury.

The motion to dismiss the indictment was filed in court by Jack R. Turney, his attorney which declared: "Pursuant to rule 725 of the Maryland Rules of Criminal Procedure, that the indictment returned by the March Term of 1965 grand jury for the county be dismissed for that the grand jury, having been convened prior to the decision of October 11, 1965, rendered by the Court of Appeals, which states that the subject grand jury was unconstitutionally convened because of the nature of the oath administered.

The decision of the Court of

Sermonette By Area Ministers

Galen E. Fike, Interim Pastor
Oak Park Church of the Brethren

"—forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors . . . For if ye forgive men their tresspasses, your Heavenly Father will also forgive you: But if ye forgive not men their tresspasses, neither will your Father forgive your treaspasses." These words of Jesus from Matt. 6: 12, 14-15, are an integral part of the Christian Life. Certainly, Christ's coming and Life manifest the Spirit of Forgiveness. God loved wayward man so much that He sent His Son for our redemption. Thus, He offers unto us His Forgiveness. The writer of Acts realized this as he wrote: "Him hath God exalted with his right hand to be a Prince and a Saviour, for to give repentance to Israel, and forgiveness of sins" (Acts. 5:31). Christ, on the Cross, expressed forgiveness as He prayed for those who had crucified Him: "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do" (Luke 23:34).

If ye are to follow His example and teachings, we, too, must forgive. In Christ's teaching, following His prayer quoted above, He says that we must forgive, if we want to be forgiven. Not only for God's forgiveness, but for our own well-being, we must forgive. An unforgiving spirit may become like a cancerous sore that may grow until it destroys. Certainly, it can embitter one so that one does not enjoy life to the fullest. An embittered, unforgiving spirit may deprive one of the well being necessary for health or even cause serious illness. A spirit of forgiveness, however, may give an inner peace that would make for health and strength.

Certainly, the world in which we live today needs the Spirit of Forgiveness. Around us are sinful beings; within us are imperfections; and on the International Scene there is need of a spirit of Love and Forgiveness.

What would happen if all the world would sincerely pray and practice, "Forgive us . . . as we forgive?" Would the chains of bitterness, envy, and strife be broken? Would bombs continue to fall? Would guns be silenced? Would then a new world Brotherhood be possible and a world United Nations be effective? Yet, throughout the world Christian voices do arise to "Our Father, who are in Heaven" in the common petition, "forgive us . . . as we forgive".

Should not we, as Christians, practice Forgiveness, accept God's Forgiveness, and thus help Love permeate throughout the world? May we hear and obey Paul's admonition given in Col. 3:13 "even as Christ forgave you, so also do ye".

Questions by You and Your Friends
Answers From Clinton W. Englander

Question

I have to go out of town to a specialist frequently. It's convenient to have my prescriptions filled in the building where he has his office. One of my friends tells me I ought to be trading here at home. What do you have to say?

Answer

Of course, we're always interested in your "trading here at home," but let's look at this from the other side of the picture . . . the convenience of it. Certainly, it's bound to be easier at the moment to pick up your prescription in the same building. But, what happens in an emergency, when you cannot get back for a refill because of the inconvenient distance? What if you have to call in your family physician and he has no record of the medications the out of town specialist has ordered for you? Is the pharmacy in the other town willing to extend convenient credit when medications cost more than anticipated? You see, the real difference lies in the fact that we're personally concerned with your problems. We're here ready to be of service to you at any time.

Appeals Board

Appeals, according to Attorney General Thomas B. Finan, could mean "the scrapping of all steps taken thus far in cases not finally determined. Just how many more cases in the Circuit Court here would be affected, were not known.

The ruling means that all grand juries now sitting must be dismissed, new juries must be assembled from panels excluding present jurors, all cases being tried by jury must be stopped and started again before new jurors, all jury trial convictions still open to appeal must be erased and new indictments must be sought".

Finan called the development "the gravest crisis in the administration of criminal justice in my experience".

The court ruling reversed the murder conviction of a Buddhist in the shooting of his wife. The Buddhist, Lidge Schugorow, of Port Deposit, contended he was denied equal protection under the law because Maryland's constitution requires that jurors believe in God. Buddhists do not believe in God and members of his faith were therefore excluded from the juries which indicted and convicted him.

In its 6-1 decision the Maryland Court of Appeals said that in view of a number of Supreme Court decisions, it was clear any "inquiry of prospective jurors, oral or written, as to whether they believed in a supreme being is unconstitutional."

The decision applies only to those cases in which a conviction had not yet become final.

For the first time, on Tuesday morning when some witnesses were being sworn in a juvenile case, the words, "In the presense of Almightly God, were eliminated from the swearing. It was just "Do you solemnly promise and declare that you will tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, and so you declare."

stock yard has not complied with the regulations and should be held in contempt.

Charley Miller, sanitarian for the health department, made an inspection of the premises and reported to the commissioners that health conditions there were not unsatisfactory.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Weinel say the sit-in is in protest, because they are being deprived of their constitutional rights. They say they are kept awake at nights from bawling cattle on many occasions, that there are unwelcome odors all the time, and that toilet training is not observed by numerous customers.

The Weinel home is about 200 yards from the stock yard. The Weinels bought their home in 1948, they say, and the Stock Yard was constructed there in July, 1963.

Last December an injunction against the Stock Yard sought by the Weinels was denied, in an opinion filed in the Circuit court by Judge Hamill. They had asked that the stock yard business be operated in such a way that it "would not be a nuisance" thus allowing them to get their proper rest and sleep. They claimed that odors, dust and noise of cattle were disturbing and asked that it be abated.

At the time Judge Hamill did state that he felt the complainants were entitled to have the yard operated in as normal and quiet a manner as possible and ordered the owners to use "every means within their power to conduct their business as quietly as possible, including instructions to truckers, farmers, employes and persons in attendance to refrain from any loud and unnecessary noise any time they are outside; also to make structural changes that would confine the noise inside the barn, and ordered cattle that had not been picked up by 1 o'clock noon the day following the day of sale should be removed.

But he declared the operation of the yard was lawful so long as a public nuisance was not created.

Legion Gives Support To Viet Nam Policy

There was discussion on the recent anti-Viet Nam policy demonstrations at a meeting of members of Proctor Kildow Post No. 71, American Legion, Monday night, October 18.

DeCorsey Bolden, post commander, said the members felt that the dissenters who were demonstrating and taring up their draft cards were particularly noisy and that the people of the United States who believe in their country should stand up and be counted. As a result he said this would be done by a public resolution to be composed by an appropriate committee headed by Theodore Stockslager.

The members also heard Kenneth Johns, principal at Southern High school, explain the magazine sales campaign recently conducted in the high schools. Bolden said the Legion Post was in accord with the program.

CHRYSLER'S ALL-NEW ECONOMY CAR

The big extra in Simca 1000 comes in black & white:

*HERE ARE THE FACTS: Chrysler Motors Corporation warrants all of the following vital parts of the Simca 1000 for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, during which time any such parts that prove defective in material or workmanship will be replaced or repaired at an Authorized Simca Dealer's place of business without charge for such parts or labor: engine block, head and internal parts, water pump, intake manifold, Trans-Axle parts and rear wheel bearings.

HERE'S ALL YOU MUST DO: Give your car this normal care—change engine oil and retorque the cylinder head at first 600 miles, and thereafter change engine oil every 3 months or every 4,000 miles, whichever comes first; clean oil separator every 6 months (spring and fall); clean carburetor air filter every 6 months and replace it every 2 years; and clean the crankcase ventilator valve oil filler cap and change Trans-Axle lubricant every 6 months, or 8,000 miles, whichever comes first; AND every 6 months furnish evidence of this required service to an Authorized Simca Dealer or other Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer and request him to certify receipt of such evidence and your car's mileage. Simple enough for such important protection.

Chrysler's 5-year/50,000-mile warranty* on vital engine and drive train parts!

It covers parts that could turn other cars with shorter warranties into expensive propositions: vital drive train parts, vital engine parts. And it pays for both replacement parts and labor.

No other economy import's warranty on these parts lasts even half as long as the warranty on Simca 1000.

What kind of car rates this protection? A family car with sports car features: Porsche synchronizers; 4 forward speeds; 4-wheel independent suspension; a 50-hp rear engine. And more.

Test drive one at your Simca dealer's. Only $1,595.

County Builds Tree Of Education For Display At State Convention

Robert Rodeheaver, principal at Northern High school, explains the county exhibit for the state convention of teachers last week-end to Ed McClintock and Rick Michaels. The boys represented Northern in the All-State Chorus.

"Garrett County Teachers' Association Salutes MSTA's 100th Birthday" was the title of a display, designed by the Northern and Southern art departments, which was taken to the Maryland State Teachers' Association meeting, October 14 and 15, in Baltimore.

The display itself consisted of 9 feet high gray panels which are decorated by pictures showing various aspects of life in Garrett County. The panels show that Garrett County is "youngest in recreation, lowest in population, and highest in elevation".

Also included in the display is a metal "education tree", the branches of which are made of circular pictures of Garrett County schools, past and present, on backgrounds of green and blue. The pictures show the development and improvement of Garrett County schools from the many one room schools of the past to the present consolidated system we know today.

Working on the display were Chauncey Friend and Don Billmeyer, who built the framework of the tree; Mrs. Martha Boyles, and her art classes at Northern High who did much of the artistic work; Merle Garletts, Mrs. Ruth Patterson, Mrs. Patricia Farris, of Northern High staff; William Watson and members of the Southern High art department.

The tree of education will be on display in the lobby of the First National Bank.

Huskies Defeated By Masontown Hi

Undefeated Valley High School of Masontown, W. Va., extended its victory string to seven games last Thursday night by defeating Northern High School's Huskies at Masontown by the score of 13 to 8. It was the second defeat in a row for the Huskies after having run a two year string of victories to thirteen.

Northern is now 4-2 for the season. The Huskies jumped off to an 8-0 lead in the first period on a safety and a 7-yard touchdown run by quarterback George Edwards. They failed to kick the extra point.

A 40-yard pass play executed by Jim Farkas and Gary Strawser, one of Masontown's "touchdown twins" put the home team in the scoring column in the second period and Northern led 8-6 at halftime.

Kenny Hart, the other half of the Masontown touchdown act, went over from the four in the final period and also ran the extra point.

The Huskies will play game number seven with University High school on Friday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, at Morgantown.

Water Legislation May Benefit Many

Many people may benefit from an expansion in financial credit for rural community facilities and family farms, authorized by recent legislation, according to Edward F. Holter, Farmers Home Administration state director for Maryland and Welaware.

Private investors will provide the bulk of the funds on an insured basis through USDA's FHA.

The legislation was signed into law by President Johnson on October 7, but grant assistance will not be available until funds are appropriated by Congress.

The legislation authorizes an increase from $200 to $450 million in FHA's ability to insure loans for rural community facilities including water supply and waste disposal systems, and for development and purchase of family farms. It authorizes grants for planning of water and sewage systems; increases from 2,500 to 5,500 the size of towns eligible for assistance; increases size of loan from $1 to $4 million.

Old Age Problems

Lesson for October 24, 1965

Background Scripture: Numbers 13:1 through 14:38; Joshua 14:6-15; 15:13-19.
Devotional Reading: Joshua 1:1-9.

Geriatrics is a word I don't remember seeing or hearing when I was young, but now everybody seems to be talking about it, from the President on down. The name may look fancy like the name of a new unheard-of disease. But it's just a new name for an old problem: Old age. Doctors and medicines have given us health much longer than our ancestors enjoyed. One result of this, of course, is the much larger proportion of older people in American society. Year by year the roll-call of persons between the ages of 65 and 100 grows longer. Two kinds of problems arise: the problems of those who care for the aged; and the problems of life as the aged themselves have to struggle with them.

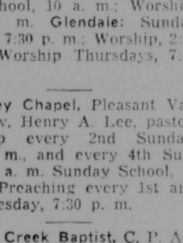
Dr. Foreman

Retirement

Three of this latter class of problems meet us in the story of that Old Testament hero, Caleb. He was one of the men who reported favorably on the question, a year or two after the Israelites came out of Egypt: Shall we invade our Promised Land now, or not? The majority said No, we would only fail. Caleb and Joshua alone said, Yes: the cities are well fortified and the inhabitants look like giants, but God will be on our side if only we have the courage to start. Well, the Israelites panicked. They refused to advance. So God had to let them die one by one in the wilderness, until of all the thousands who left Egypt, only Joshua and Caleb were left alive to enter the land of Canaan. By that time Caleb was 85 years old, and he claimed to be just as strong as he had been forty years before. The question was: What could this old man do with the rest of his time on earth? He might well have retired. Instead, he kept right on going. A soldier 40 years, a soldier still! The answer to the problem: What shall I do after I retire is — Don't retire! Some one will say, But I have to retire. My pay stops at 62 or 65 or 70 or whatever the age is. This puts the problem on another footing: How shall society be organized so that even the older people can be productively active? Caleb's generation did not have to face that problem; but we do.

Strength for old age

Another problem is strength. Caleb at 85 felt fit as he had ever felt in his life. Most of us are not so fortunate at 70. Old persons are generally all too clearly aware that their strength is limited.



Younger generation

The younger generation make one of the older generation's most exasperating set of problems. So it often is, but so it need not be. One kind of older person, man or woman, sits around complaining that the young people act like young people. Another kind simply pays no attention to young people, does not know them and doesn't want to know them. They live in a world inhabited entirely by the aged. Our man Caleb belongs in neither of these classes of aged persons. From what we know of him, he kept up with the younger generation. He knew, for example, that what grumpy-type grandparents sometimes complain about as silly sentimental foolishness is really serious business: falling in love with the right person for the right reasons. So he was interested in seeing his daughter married to the right young man. He made certain the young man would be congenial in a family of fighting men, for he got her married to another soldier. He made sure also that the young son-in-law would be a brave and persistent man (how do we know this?). Best of all, he gave his daughter for a wedding present something much better than land or water; he left to youth the inspiration of a brave and generous old age.

Profit from the campaign will go toward the payment of a piano purchased last year, a donation to the junior class to help defray costs of the prom, and the purchasing of two movie projectors. The projectors will be payed for, in part, by the National Defense Education Act, which matches, dollar for dollar, any funds the school may use for the purchasing of educational materials.

How To Use A Hammer

As you work around your home, your claw hammer will be constantly in use. So it pays to buy good ones, and to take good care of them.

Generally speaking, a 10 or 12 ounce hammer is the handiest for all-round use, but buy one that feels comfortable to you. If you do much heavy work, you will probably want a 16-ounce hammer.

The face of a good hammer is slightly rounded, to compensate for variations in the point of impact with the nail. To check quality, inspect the claws. They should be smoothly machined. With well-made claws, you can grasp the point end of a finishing nail and pull the head through a board.

Hammer selection. Buy a hammer, like a shotgun, for balance and weight. Correct grip is a direct handshake, hammer head pointing down as you grasp handle.

Rust prevention. Protect such tools as a hammer from rust with a coat of paste floor wax. Apply wax liberally, then polish. One coat should last for a year.

Handle correctly. Your hand should be level with hammer head at impact. Swing with an easy motion, using a series of sharp taps rather than a few heavy blows.

How the U.S. Royal Tiger Paw earned its name.

It had to pass some pretty grueling tests for safety and durability. Tests that only a beast of a tire could pass.

The Tiger Paw™ had to prove that it combined the high-speed and handling characteristics of a sports car tire with the smooth, comfortable ride and the wear of a passenger tire.

And it proved it, alright. Beyond a shadow of a doubt.

Tiger Paws have been tested at 125 miles an hour, sustained speed.

They respond quickly and eagerly, rain or shine. And they have so much guts, you can go over some of the meanest ground without worrying.

On sharp curves and when you're passing, Tiger Paws give you a feel of the road that you just can't get with most tires. They corner beautifully. With virtually no squeal at all (unless you're a dynamiter).

They give you that real sports car feel. You know. As if the car is a part of you.

In case you didn't know, the Tiger Paw is that tire with the red stripe you've been hearing so much about. If you want a set for your car, you can pick them up right here. We're an official U.S. Royal Tiger Paw store.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our dear son, Harold Kisner, who passed away July 15, 1963.
Please don't ask us if we miss him,
There's such a vacancy in our heart for him. We often think we can hear his footsteps and see his smiling face.
There are days when sadness still comes in our hearts. Tears often flow down our faces. Memory keeps him ever near us, though Jesus took him away two years ago.
Sadly missed by Dad, Mother, Sister, Brothers.

Successful Moose Hunt Story Told

A successful moose hunt by local sportsmen was related this week by Harrison "Possum" Baer, of Arlington, Va., formerly of Gormania, who with two companions, Wayne Fratz, Accident; and Bill King, Bayard, recently returned from the northern wilds of Ontario, Canada.

The trip had been planned for a year and was a ten-day affair. After driving 1,120 miles they arrived at the main camp and within the hour were on a Cessna Beaver float plane flying back to the bush camp on Rush Lake. All hunting is done from a canoe, with two hunters and one guide.

The first moose was spotted on a Saturday, Guide Jerry Martel and Baer were cruising up Rush river when two moose were spotted across the lake, a distance of at least one-half mile, but by the time they arrived the moose were long gone. Sunday morning Bill King and his guide, J. P. Mapitche, an Algonquin Indian from Amos, Quebec, spotted three moose. Bill knocked one down from 200 yards, the othher began to swim across a small bay. When they emerged from the water Bill knocked another one down but it did not stay. Before he could shoot his gun jammed and the latter got away.

Bill called Baer on his Walkie-Talkie and Baer called Fratz and all had quite a job hog dressing and loading the first moose in the canoe. The guide estimated the weight at 800 pounds.

Bad weather, with rain, sleet and snow and temperature at 18, limited hunting but a sunny day arrived. Fratz and Baer were out early with guide Martel, a French Canadian from Loleyet, Ontario. After cruising fruitlessly on rivers and bays, they got the guide to try one more area, and after heading north they spotted a moose in a cove some half-mile away. They cut their outboard motor at approximately 400 yards. Fratz was riding the bow. Baer was in the center. Fratz was in a better position to take the shot. The guide advised to shoot when a good chance came. Fratz admitted he had lost the front sight of his gun, and told Baer he should be the one to fire. At 100 yards the guide swung the canoe around, all they could see of the moose was the head, as he was eating leaves. Baer put the crosshair of his teiescopic sight at his temple and nodded. The guide slowly turned the canoe and his .308 Remington did the rest. The shot went through the head, and he fell into the water with a splash.

They cut it half and loaded it in the canoe for the trip to camp. The guide estimated its weight at 950 to 1,000 pounds.

Every two days a plane comes to check and fly out the meat. When a moose is killed the hunters put a white flag on a pole to signal the plane. The hunters then flew out a few days later, after having the moose meat cut up, which totaled 795 pounds, cut and wrapped.

A photo of the three hunters, with their moose head and meat, accompanied this story, but it was too hazy for reproduction.

Navy Dairy Farm To Close

This week the Department of the Navy is to be congratulated on a triumph of clear principle and common sense. The Secretary of the Navy has announced that the Navy is going to close the Naval Academy Dairy Farm and get out of the milk business. This is obviously a right decision, and I commend the Secretary of the Navy for having arrived at it.

This is of course the end of a long fight for us, because for several years I have advocated that the government should stop competing with free enterprise and with the taxpaying businessmen of Maryland who are perfectly ready, willing and able to provide milk for the Naval Academy at competitive prices and a quality at least as high as that which could be produced by any government-owned facility.

The history of the Naval Academy Dairy Farm goes back over fifty years, to a time when it was not possible for the Naval Academy to secure high-quality milk in sufficient quantity to supply its needs. But since that time, Maryland's dairy industry has grown. We now produce quality milk unsurpassed anywhere in the world, and produce it in such quantities that it is surplus. So I think that it is highly appropriate that the government stop competing with this thriving business.

The closing of the Dairy Farm will be good news to all the taxpayers of America, too, because by being in the milk business, the Navy Department was costing the taxpayers perhaps as much as two hundred thousand dollars per year. The production of milk by the Navy of course ran counter to the Agriculture Department's efforts to control and limit milk production, and brought extra costs in subsidies and control programs. There were also many hidden costs related to the operation of the Dairy Farm—costs such as the contributions made by the Federal government to the Anne Arundel County school board under the impacted areas aid program, and the costs created by the involvement of naval personnel in the operation and management of the Farm.

For all these reasons, I think the Navy is extremely wise to go out of the milk business. This will help to reduce the surplus production of dairy products, and will therefore have a good effect on agricultural market prices. Maryland's dairy farmers will also have a new market for their products.

Of course some of the people in the neighborhood of the Dairy Farm are very concerned, as they do not wish to lose income because this facility is closed. I see no reason why this should happen. A number of government projects, projects of special interest to the Chesapeake Bay area and all of Maryland, could be located in that area. One of these, for instance, is the hydraulic model of Chesapeake Bay which is now being discussed in Congress. Several others projects too could suitably be located on the site of the Dairy Farm, and might actually bring not loss but additional profit to the area.

Once again, I congratulate the Secretary of the Navy on his decision to get the government out of the milk business.

Story of Paper In Special Supplement Of N. Y. Times

A special Sunday supplement of the New York Times, appearing on October 17, told the story of how paper serves America.

While no individual company was given credits, the supplement contained a number of photographs of West Virginia Pulp and Paper and the Luke mill. A photograph of the Luke mill's No. 8 paper machine appeared on page 17.

Photos from some of the company's prior annual reports included Luke mill personnel. These photos appeared on pages 21, 28 and 29. The photograph illustrating paper consumption in the United States from one of the company's annual reports appeared on pages 8 and 9, and page 33 had other photos from past annual reports.

The supplement was prepared by a committee of the American Paper Institute. It attempted to portray the vitality of the paper industry in a manner interesting to the lay public and described in some degree the progressive job being done in forest and water conservation.

Use of Seat Belts Helps Save Lives

In State Police investigated accidents last week, in which seven persons were killed and twenty-three seriously injured, seat belts were available in ten cases, but in no instance were they actually in use.

Four of these ten individuals were killed and six were seriously injured. The use of available seat belts, in the opinion of investigating officers, would have saved the lives of two of the persons killed and would have lessened the seriousness of injury in five cases.

In the twenty cases where seat belts were not available, three persons were killed and seventeen were seriously injured. Again, the investigators found that if seat belts had been available and in use, the three persons would not have been killed and the seriousness of injury would have been lessened in all but two of the cases.

"The few seconds necessary to buckle up a seat belt may make a life-saving difference", commented Colonel Carey Jarman, Superintendent of the Maryland State Police, "so it's rather difficult to come up with a reasonable excuse for not using them".

A total of twelve persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the weekly survey of the State Police. Six of those killed were drivers; three were passengers; and three were pedestrians. Alcohol was a contributing factor in four of the deaths, speed in four; and "driver error" was present in ten of the fatalities.

Chuck Hart, leading scorer in the area, raced for paydirt on the first two Keyser plays from scrimmage last Friday afternoon as the Tornadoes celebrated Homecoming day with a 25-0 victory over Southern High of Oakland, in a Potomac Valley conference football game.

Hart ripped off a 67-yard dash on the first scrimmage play of the day. Southern took the kickoff which followed and marched all the way to the Keyser 21, their deepest penetration of the day, before the Keyser defense threw them for a six-yard loss on a fourth-down play.

Then the speedy Hart carried on the first play and went all the way for a 73-yard touchdown run.

After that it was mostly defense until Keyser broke the spell in the third quarter with an unorthodox play. The play started with quarterback Tom Landis pitching out to his halfback who started around the end. The runner then handed off to end Neal Hott, going the other way on what looked like a reverse play. Then Hott planted his feet and heaved a pass to the other end, Phil Alt. The play covered 38 yards and made the score 19-0. Hart added another TD in the fourth quarter on another long expedition covering 54 yards.

Southern had the edge in first downs, 10 to 9, but was unable to move at critical times. The Highlanders were forced to punt five times as against one for Keyser. Southern gained 171 net yards rushing compared to 301 for Keyser.

It was Keyser's fourth victory in seven games and the third against one loss in the PVC. Southern's record is now 2-4 with the conference record reading 0-2.

In the lineup for Southern were Mike Friend at left end; Ray Burton at left tackle, Richard Rohrbaugh at left guard; Tom Hoffman at center, Bob Martin at right guard, Dale Hinebaugh at right tackle, Keith Hall at right end, Bob Sharps at quarterback, John Minick at left half, Bill Martin at right half and Bradley Uphold at fullback. There were numerous substitutions.

The Highlanders will play Bruce High of Westernport on Friday evening on the home field, with game time 7:30. Two other home games are on the list for succeeding Friday nights, with Petersburg and Terra Alta.

You wouldn't drive this to work...

then how can you be satisfied with horse-and-buggy heating?

Many present heating systems are as obsolete as a one-horse shay. They smoke, fume, sputter and fade. But flameless electric heating is like comparing a Mustang to Ol' Dobbin!

Electric heating is clean . . . safe, too. It protects your costly rugs, carpets, draperies and furniture, not to mention the greater draft-free comfort and well-being for your family.

Get the facts about converting to electric heating today. Your approved Live Better Electrically heating contractor will be happy to furnish details.

For all the good things in your home, only electric heating is good enough.

Now! New Chevelle SUPER SPORT 396

New Chevelle SS 396 Sport Coupe—with clean-sculpted all-new Body by Fisher.

by Chevrolet

Two new Super Sport beauties for '66—a hardtop and convertible—propelled by nothing less than the new Turbo-Jet 396 V8.

This remarkably efficient power plant, with aircraft-type valves, deep-breathing ports and other design advances, develops 325 hp in the standard version. And you're welcome to order more—in a 360-hp version—if you're so inclined.

Both Chevelle SS 396 models ride on a special flat-cornering chassis. A fully synchronized 3-speed transmission with floor-mounted stick shift is standard. Or you can order a 4-speed or Powerglide—also Strato-bucket front seats, center console and full SS instrumentation.

Your Chevrolet dealer's is the place to see how all this feels from behind the wheel. He's a great believer in letting the customers handle the merchandise.

Math Teachers To Meet At Frostburg

Allegany and Garrett County mathematics teachers will discuss modern mathematical principles with a University of Maryland Mathematics professor on Wednesday, October 27.

Dr. Jacob K. Goldhaber will lead the discussion on "Analysis" beginning 7:30 p. m. at the Beall High School in Frostburg.

The discussion is part of the state-wide "Sessions with Scientists" program developed by the Maryland Academy of Sciences in cooperation with the Maryland State Department of Education and the boards of education of the counties and Baltimore City.

The mathematics seminars for teachers afford an opportunity for teachers to become familiar with various mathematical subjects and to have contact with mathematicians who are actively engaged in research and education..

Local coordinators of the program are Jack A. Petry, assistant superintendent of the Board of Education of Allegany County, and Albert R. Ringer, supervisor of high schools of the Board of Education of Garrett County.

Church Women Plan World Community Day

World Community Day will be observed Friday, November 5, beginning at 1:30 p. m., at White Church, Ryan's Glade. Mrs. Allan Gamblin is in charge.

Theme for the observance is "Laity's Mission in World Affairs." This is a call to church women to work for progress through international cooperation as partners with the peacemakers and to help the family of nations work out ways to keep the peace and free men from the bondage of hunger, ignorance, disease and fear.

Projects being worked on are sewing kits made from cotton and containing scissors, pins, needles, thread and buttons. Materials and yarn in all lengths are needed. They will be sent to Latin America.

Offering funds also will go to a project in community development in Chile under Church World Service, to make possible a program for training for women in responsible parenthood and in family and community betterment.

World Community Day is sponsored by the United Church Women. Church women of all faiths are invited to participate.

Congress Is Facing Difficult Tasks

"Next year will be the real test of what Congress has done this year", Congressman Charles McC. Mathias, Jr., (R-Md. 6th) declared. He predicted that "Congress will have to work very hard to insure that the many new and expanded Federal programs works they should".

Mathias warned that "even the best legislation can be undermined by poor administration". He said it was the responsibility of Congress "to be sure that programs meet their objectives, that public funds are not wasted or misused, and that every individual citizen receives full respect and attention in his contacts with the government".

"The task before Congress next year is great", Mathias told the Western Maryland Quality Control Conference. "We should take steps now to improve the quality of Congressional performance, so that the people's representatives can fulfill all their responsibilities".

"As the bureaucracy grows larger and more complex", the Congressman said, "the Congress must increasingly seek the advice and assistance of professionals and experts from outside government." A blue-ribbon commission, modeled on the two Hoover Commissions, "could be an invaluable aid", he continued. The Congressman and 26 other Members of the House have introduced legislation to establish such a Commission to review the overall operations of the executive branch.

"The legislation passed this year will have a tremendous impact on American government and American society," Mathias said. "The possibilities for progress are great—but the chances for error are also great". Noting that the Social Security Administration will need several thousand more employees to administer the health care programs enacted this year, Mathias said that "Congress must prevent such increases in size from increasing confusion and producing new problems of communication between people and their government".

"The most important work of the next session of Congress", Mathias concluded, "will be done in committee investigations and in discussions between Members and their constituents, as we review the operations of the programs born this year."

VOLUME 89. OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., OCTOBER 28, 1965 PER COPY 10c NUMBER 35.

Too Far Afield . . . .

It appears to us, more and more, as additional decisions are made by the U. S. Supreme court, that it has gone far afield of the constitution and the regulations laid down by those who settled this land of ours.

To our way of thinking, too, this reapportionment decision is one of those farthest out. It is going to practically wipe out any representation that Garrett county will have in the state legislature, if the James bill is the one finally accepted.

If that bill becomes law, Garrett county will be aligned either with all of Allegany county in picking two senators or a portion of it, west of Cumberland, to pick one, and either way is going to be disastrous for this county. Only by the wierdest miracle will Garrett county ever have another senator. Voting strength in the two counties heavily favors Allegany county.

This reapportionment decision also seems the more out of line, because state legislatures were set up just like the federal government and those who framed our constitution were clear in making one of the Houses of

Legislature Enacts Two Reseating Bills

Decision As To Which One Up To Governor Or Courts

The Maryland House of Delegates enacted last Tuesday two bills to redistribute voting strength in both chambers of the legislature.

The action, coming at the end of an 11-day special session, thrust upon the governor, and possibly the courts, the ultimate decision on which reapportionment bill will become law.

By a vote of 106 to 30 the delegates enacted a bill to expand the 29-seat Senate. Instead of the one seat now allotted each of the 23 counties and six Baltimore City districts, the Senate would have 43 seats apportioned along population lines. Up to five counties would be combined into senatorial districts with as few as two senators per district.

Moments later the House enacted by a 77 to 60 margin a competing bill which would create a 53-member Senate. Each county would keep at least one seat under this plan, but the larger ones and Baltimore City districts would have more—enough to outvote the small county senators on any urban-rural issue.

Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan had declared the 53-senator bill unconstitutional. He said it did not give enough voting strength to populous areas. But backers

Bank Statements Show $31 Million In Total Assets

Statements of the two Oakland banks and their branch offices appearing in The Republican this week show total assets of $31,077,168.66. The First National bank showed assets of $17,737,458.41, while assets of the Garrett National bank showed $13,339,710.25.

The Garrett National Bank showed deposits of $12,117,119.21, while the First National Bank had deposits of $16,176,128.25.

Par value of capital stock showed Garrett National with $250,000 while the First had $350,000. Garrett National showed a surplus of $550,000 while the First National statement showed $500,000.

Undivided profits for the Garrett showed $145,785.28, while the First National showed undivided profits of $298,470.02.

Christmas Savings Checks at $104,000

Christmas Savings club checks from the local banks and their branches will total over $100,000 this year, some $16,000 greater than the previous year.

The checks are to be mailed early in November to some 1,150 or more depositors of the Garrett National Bank in Oakland and the First National Bank of Oakland.

Both banks increased their total amount this year, the Garrett National hopping from around $41,500 approximately $60,000 with some 600 members, while the First National increased its total from $42,671.50 last year to $54,145 for this year, with 567 members.

Final payments for the year are due this week. Both banks are announcing that new Christmas Savings clubs for next year may be started at any time but the official beginning will be the middle of November.

Depositors may make as little as 25 cents per week or they will be accepted for $10 per week. Both banks have shown increases almost every year since the custom started years ago. Distribution throughout the U. S. will total in the neighborhood of $2 billion and will be paid to some 15 million Christmas club members.

A survey shows that the total will be used for Christmas purchases, savings and investment, taxes, year-end bill and miscellaneous items.

Is 18th Family Selected In Farming Program In County

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Mason, Jr., route 2, Oakland, were declared the winners in the Garrett County Farming for Better Living program this year at the 18th annual banquet held last Thursday evening in the Southern High school cafetorium.

The seventy-six farm families enrolled in this year's contest completed their project booklets and most of them were present for the banquet as guests of the sponsors and the county business and professional persons.

Gift certificates contributed by county business people were distributed to each enrollee and L. Bush Swisher, project chairman of the program sponsored by the Monongahela Power company, Morgantown, announced the winning family. The extension Service is co-sponsor of the project.

In addition to a purple ribbon they will receive further awards at the regional roundup in Morgantown on Friday, December 10, at noon.

Nordeck Shaffer, FFBL treasurer, was in charge of distributing the gifts and he was aided by a group of men from the FFBL council. Around 100 business men from all over the county contributed cash and merchandise to make the banquet and awards possible.

Special Recognition Given

For the fourth year the banks of the county went together to provide special recognition to members of the program and former county winners for some special phase of farming.

The awards included: to Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wagner, Jr., Oakland, plaque for outstanding past county winners; to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Yoder, McHenry, certificate for outstanding land improvement; to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bender, Accident, certificate for outstanding first-year enrollee in the program; Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Bishoff and George Bishoff, Friendsville, certificate for outstanding Father-Son partnership; to Mr. and Mrs. Harley Brenneman, Bittinger, certificate for outstanding farm management.

Faulty Furnace Is Blamed For Blaze

A faculty coal furnace was blamed for a fire which caused considerable damage Sunday evening to the two-story frame dwelling occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Paugh and family, corner of Pennington and Bartlett streets in Oakland.

Members of the Oakland Volunteer fire company received the call at 6:05 and were on the scene about and and one-half hours.

Home at the time of the fire were Mrs. Paugh and her children. The son placed the call for the fire department and Leroy Paugh was at the fire hall at the time and took the call. In the fire hall also were John Sharps and Ernie Gregg. Gregg blew the alarm while Sharps started the truck, and they were on the scene in record time.

Fire Chief Harold Schell had charge of the firemen. The blaze originated in the coal furnace. Flames spread through the first floor but most of the fire damage was confined to the living room. There was smoke and water damage elsewhere in the dwelling which is owned by Benson and Naylor who operate a grocery store. William E. Naylor said there was insurance coverage on the house but that Paugh had no insurance on the furnishings.

The Paugh family is housed temporarily with Mr. Paugh's sister, near town. Workmen began this week to repair the damage so that the family could return to their home.

Mr. Paugh is employed as a custodian at the National Guard armory in Oakland.

Delegates Agree On One, Split On One

All three of Garrett County's members of the House of Delegates and all six of Allegany's voted last week for the 53-member Senate bill enacted by the House.

Both delegations, however, split on the 43-member Senate plan which also was enacted.

Delegate Elwood S. Groves voted for it and Delegates Elza E. Bray and Martha L. Glotfelty voted against it.

Mrs. Beitzel Returns To McHenry Home

Sheriff James E. Frantz revealed this week that he had returned Sunday from Jackel Island, Ga., near Brunswick, accompanied by Mrs. Lena Beitzel, who was found in that locality after having been missing from her home near McHenry for over a week.

The woman was released in custody of her husband. There was a warrant charging her with "neglect of her children," but this charge was dismissed by order of the State's Attorney, Fred A. Thayer.

Concern Is Shown Over Decisions of Supreme Court

A cross section of people of Oakland, concerned over the recent Supreme Court decisions and the removal of God from taking oaths, met last Sunday afternoon for a serious discussion.

The meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Brookhart, Pennington street. Representatives from various organizations were invited.

The purpose was to discuss the preservation of the constitution as "set down by our forefathers and under which we have grown, prospered and matured as a nation".

Those attending expressed deep concern over the recent Supreme Court decisions that in their opinion, would "change and has changed the nation from 'a group banded together to form a more perfect union, establish justice and insure domestic tranquility', to just about the opposite".

Much alarm also was evidenced over the power given the minorities as opposed to the liberties removed from the overwhelming majority of the people of expressing a belief in God.

An open meeting for additional discussion by interested people will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the Oakland fire hall, it was announced.

County Has First Snow of Season

The first actual snow of the season fell Sunday in most of Garrett county, with about one inch being deposited in the Oakland section. Snow fell intermittently during most of the day.

Total at Keyser Ridge was slightly heavier. The low reading at Oakland Sunday was 31 degrees but dipped to 27 on Monday.

Two trucks and four men were dispatched from the SRC's county headquarters, one to U. S. route 40 and the other to U. S. route 50.

A brief rundown of the week's weather showed cloud cover last Thursday with rain falling Thursday evening and continuing at night. There was additional rain on Friday with temperature at 58 at 8 a. m. A light rain fell Saturday morning with mercury at 46 degrees.

Following the snow on Sunday there was clear sky Monday but cool. Temperature got up to 48. There was a 28 degree reading Tuesday morning but weather was clear and cool, mercury getting up to 54. Clear weather continued Wednesday with milder weather in morning but not going above 48 degrees during the day.

Today was another day with mostly cloudless skies and temperatures starting at 34 degrees and heading upward.

Hearing Is Set On Route 219 Move

A public hearing on the proposed relocation of U. S. route 219, from McHenry to Deep Creek Lake bridge, will be held on Thursday afternoon, November 4, at 2 o'clock, at the Will o' the Wisp motel at the lake, it was announced by John D. Bushby, district engineer for the State Roads commission.

Bushby said maps of the route that will be taken in relation to the existing twisting road, will be on display. The map may also be seen anytime during office hours, until time of the hearing at the SRC headquarters, Braddock Road, La-Vale.

SRC officials have set the meeting so that any complaints or objections may be made. They will be reviewed after the hearing for possible changes in the existing plans, he explained.

Interested persons from the affected area will be heard, particularly with reference to the economic effect of the proposed relocation.

The planning behind the relocation of the highway has been to interfere as little as possible with the lakeside cabins and properties, Mr. Bushby said.

The project will run from .97 of a mile northwest of McHenry southerly to the lake bridge, a distance of 3.11 miles. This is the final stretch of U. S. 219 to be modernized between Keyser's Ridge at route 40 and Oakland. The Phoenix Construction company of Cumberland is in the middle of a project covering the highway from Northern High school to Keyser Ridge, and this is the next to last phase of the overall modernization.

Gen. LeMay declared not enough air power was being used in Viet Nam.

To Train For Job Corps

Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill swears in three youths Monday who left a short while later for training in the Job Corps. They are, left to right, Riley Lloyd, Kitzmiller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Riley Lloyd, Sr.; John Morris, route 2, Oakland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Olin Morris, and Ralph Garlick, Friendsville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Garlick, Sr.

Three county young men left Oakland Monday for Carson City, Nevada, and Kooskia, Idaho, where they will become members of the Job Corps. They will be given a year's training for whatever positions they can fill adequately. They applied for training in auto mechanics and operation of heavy equipment.

They were sworn in Monday morning before Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill in the court house in Oakland. They are Riley Lloyd, of Kitzmiller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Riley Lloyd, Sr.; John Morris, route 2, Oakland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Olin Morris; and Ralph Garlick, of Friendsville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Garlick, Sr.

Morris and Lloyd left for Clear Creek Job Corps center, Carson City, Nevada. They went by bus to Washington and flew by American airlines from Washington to Chicago, thence to Reno, Nevada, and thence by bus to Carson City.

Garlick was scheduled to fly from Washington to Chicago by United airlines and thence by another plane to Salt Lake City, Utah, thence to Lewiston. He will be in the Job Corps center at Kooskia, Idaho.

Their training may continue longer than a year, depending upon what skills are shown following tests.

Ag Center In The Plans at Southern

A new agriculture center at Southern High school is in the plans of the County Board of Education, but the project depends entirely upon approval of federal and state funds.

The purpose is to provide a modern facility in which to teach and promote the total agriculture industry, related to both school and community needs, and to free the present agriculture shop for use by the newly formed vocational machine shop program now being held in the Smouse building, rented by the Board for the present school year.

The facility would include a greenhouse, research and experimental laboratory, agriculture library for school and community use in research, a classroom adjusted for visual aids, a room for combined use of F.F.A., and 4-H, and small farm groups, and a large shop area to accommodate farm mechanics, farm electricity, farm carpentry and construction.

A greenhouse also is proposed as an addition to the agriculture facilities at Northern.

Annual Hallowe'en Event Set Tonight

The annual Hallowe'en celebration, sponsored by the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions club, will be held this evening on the streets of Oakland with one of the features being a mammoth mummers' parade in charge of Charles L. Briner.

Seventy-five or more prizes have been collected from individuals, business concerns and organizations which will be awarded following the parade which gets under way at 7 o'clock from Alder and Fourth streets.

The procession will move to Oak street, thence to Third, on Third to Pennington, thence to Second, and south on Second through the business area, to Alder, where those participating will travel once again around the business block for benefit of judges.

Prizes are on display in the window of the West Maryland Power company and will be distributed from there after the parades.

There will be games and concessions on the sidewalks of Second street, and there will be cake walks and dancing.

As a new feature both the First National and Garrett National banks have contributed a $25 savings bond each, which will be awarded at 9 p. m. in front of the Power company. Each person who enters the parade will be given a ticket and the winner will be selected by lot. No entry fee is needed. A Polaroid also will be given away at the fire hall at 10 o'clock.

Trick or Treat is set for one night only, Saturday, October 30.

Yoder Will Speak At Teacher Dinner

Olin Yoder, former Garrett countian, who is now teaching art in the Baltimore schools, will be the speaker at the annual Garrett County Teachers association dinner, it was announced by Paul Ewing, president.

The dinner is scheduled for Southern High school cafetorium on Saturday evening, November 6, beginning at 6:30 o'clock.

Mr. Yoder is well known to teachers throughout the state through his monthly cartoon story, "Sonny Five", which appears in the Maryland Teacher magazine. He also has done several cover pages for the monthly journal.

Master of ceremonies for the occasion will be Merritt Feather. Entertainment will be provided by the Parkettes, a trio from Mt. Lake Park which has performed for programs throughout the tri-state area.

In honor of the State Teachers' association which is celebrating its centennial year, Mrs. Esther Yoder will present a brief history of the Garrett County Teachers' association.

Retired teachers, Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools and members of the county board of education will be special guests.

Football Is Saturday

The football game between Petersburg High school Vikings and the Southern High Highlanders, will be played on Saturday night, October 30, instead of Friday night, it was announced by the coach, Leroy Bolding.

This change will not affect the game the following week. The battle between the Highlanders and Terra Alta High school will be played on Friday evening, November 5.

W. Kenneth Johns, principal, said some business men of town had petitioned the school for Saturday games. He said that in future years, one or two of the home games would be scheduled on Saturday, providing conflicts with other activities were not too great.

Library Service Will Be Speeded By Teletypewriter

The Ruth Enlow library will join the public libraries' teletypewriter system on Monday, November 1, which will enable the local group to speed up its service of obtaining reading material and films from the Pratt Library in Baltimore.

The system will connect the library headquarters in 22 counties of the state and Baltimore. The system is used by the counties in sending requests for books and other material to the County Services department of the Enoch Pratt Free library in Baltimore and in booking films with the film department.

The entire program is supported by the Federal Library Services and Construction Act funds, and the money is paid to the Pratt library as part of its county services contract with the State Department of Education.

The equipment and connecting lines are leased from the C. and P. Telephone company which is responsible for all maintenance and initial training. Miss Judy Shafer, clerical assistant at the library, was in Cumberland last week for instruction on how to use the machine. Miss Edith Brock, librarian, also received instruction and she will serve as operator when Miss Shafer is absent.

The local library will have some twenty minutes each day to use the machine, starting at 2:20 p. m. Replies will be given either the same afternoon or the following morning. Previously it took a week to ask for and receive the material desired. Miss Brock said that the local library has been borrowing books from the Baltimore institution for several years. Last year it borrowed 750 books and 72 films from the Pratt library.

Special Meeting Called

A special meeting of the Merchants' association of the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce has been called for next Tuesday, November 2, at 12 o'clock noon, at the Hinebaugh restaurant, it was announced by Marvin Jones, chairman.

Radiologist Gone

Dr. Franklin M. Ruegsegger, who had been radiologist at the Garrett County Memorial hospital since October, 1961, has resigned his position to accept a similar appointment at Fairmont General hospital, Fairmont, W. Va. The resignation was effective October 10.

No successor has been named up to this time. Two Cumberland men, Dr. George Mock and Dr. Robert Miller have been doing the necessary radiologist's work at the local hospital since Dr. Ruegsegger left the area.

Local Guard Unit Status Unchanged

Gov. Tawes was informed last week that Maryland would be asked to furnish a "war strength brigade" under Defense Department plans for the National Guard, but up to now the program for the Oakland National Guard unit remains unchanged. It will continue to operate as a tank company, according to Captain Mahlon Yost.

The governor had received word from Lt. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, adjustant general of the Maryland Guard, who met in Washington recently with other National Guard leaders.

For men in the war-strength brigade the plan means a 50 percent increase in training time. Other guardsmen were to be affected also, the governor said.

At the present time the Oakland guard unit operates at a strength of 45 men, but may recruit additional members with no limit on the number. Captain Yost said this practice could change at any time. At the present time also the local guard unit has no plans for increased hours of training. The tank unit is considered on the low proiority list.

Those listed for the high priority unit will be at increased strength and will get increased training time. The governor did not indicate how many guardsmen would be involved in setting up the war strength brigade or reduction in strength of other units. Tawes called this "one of the most demanding periods" in the history of the Maryland guard.

"Open House" Set At Southern Nov. 1

Persons attending the "Open House" at Southern High school on Monday evennig, November 1, from 7:30 to 9:30, will be given an opportunity to inspect the new ten-room addition and the girls' gymnasium.

The addition to Southern High school was recently completed by L. E. Hardesty, local contractor.

Members of the Board of Education and Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools, along with W. Kenneth Johns, principal, and members of his staff, will be on hand to greet visitors.

Refreshments will be served.

"Catherine The Great"

By Zoe Oldenbourg

The author was born in Leningrad of a family of scholars and historians. She spent her early childhood in the revolutionary period, and the first years of Communism. With her family she escaped to Paris, and her education and her works have been completely French. Her first novel, "The World Is Not Enough", put her in the ranks of the foremost historical novelists. Some of her later nonfiction works are, "Massacre at Montsegur", and "Cities of the Flesh". This last book was praised as "a magnificent and terrible masterpiece".

Catherine the Great, admirable autocrat, conqueror, peacemaker, and legislator, called the "Mother Tsarina". To history she will always be Catherine the Great, one of the few women who have ruled in their own right, for any length of time, and left behind them a glorious memory of their reign.

The story is one of incredible tension. A series of intrigues followed the German princess in her effort, somehow, to reach the throne. There can be no doubt that Catherine was a clever politican, an intelligent, and an active woman.

She was quite capable of using specifically female weapons to further her own position and power. The murder of her husband, and her succession of lovers were only the outward scandalous appurtenances of a court, and an era that was still shockingly brutal and primitive.

Catherine was a product of the society formed by the court nobility, and she had been trained from childhood to play her part in the great game.

This book can be obtained from the Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland.

Answers From Clinton W. Englander

Question

Just what are the Goof Balls and, so called, Pep Pills we're reading so much about?

Answer

The Goof Balls you're reading about are barbituates, and the Pep Pills are amphetamines. Both of these drugs are used for constructive medical purposes . . . when they have been legally prescribed by a licensed physician. On the other hand, they are actively dangerous when used illegally because they remove all of the normal controls of civilized behaviour from the illegal user. Much of the senseless crime we see and read about these days is a direit result of the illegal use of these powerful drugs.

Another Sad Event...

In regard to the editorial of last week entitled "Sad Event", there is an additional "sad event" to relate, and that is concerning an error in discussing perjury, causing a correction here this week.

The elimination of the use of the words "in presence of Almighty God," when swearing in witnesses, doesn't change the law of perjury one bit, according to Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill, and State's Attorney Fred A. Thayer. A person who lies under the new oath is as guilty as the one who lied under the old.

The point we were trying to stress was that persons who express no belief in the existence of Deity, any oath that they make could not be considered binding upon them as far as they themselves were concerned, and they would have no feeling about lying on the witness stand.

But as the jurist and prosecutor indicate, any witness found lying would be subject to perjury. We regret the error in the interpretation.

master of ceremonies. Rev. James Remley, Mt. Lake Park, delivered the invocation. Some 200 persons attended the dinner and program.

Shaffer Gives Program

Robert Shaffer, who toured Europe and the Holy Land two years ago, gave his illustrated talk on his experiences.

Once again there was 100 percent completion in the program which wins a $25 award from the Power company, to be presented to the county 4-H council for improvement of 4-H club work in the county.

Second Award This Year

This was the second award this year for the Charles Masons. Two weeks ago they were named the outstanding young farm couple in the state of Maryland by the Junior Chamber of Commerce organization. Prior to that they had been named as the outstanding farm family of Western Maryland by the Frostburg Jaycee organization.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason have two daughters, ages 6 and 4. They are both graduates of Southern High school. Mr. Mason is a supervisor in the DHIA testing program. He is active in farm organizations, being president of the Dairymen's Co-op Sales association, president of the county's Holstein club.

The family has won grand champion, champion awards at county fairs and numerous blue ribbons. The Masons own 50 acres and rent another 70 to round out 120 acres, using 50 acres for cropland, 50 for meadow, 20 for pasture. He produces corn, oats and grass. He has a herd of 24 cattle and his herd averaged 13,528 pounds of milk per cow per year. Since he is the DHIA supervisor he may not have his herd entered in competition with other DHIA members, but his record is along with the top producers.

In addition to dairying he raises pigs, selling 120 during the year.

In filling out the FFBL booklet Mr. Mason obesrved that "farming is a way of life. It provides freedom on the job. It provides a world of dreams, of opportunity to succeed or fail as a result of your efforts and decisions. You must have enthusiasm, abundant energy, and a devoted love for the business".

The Mason farm was purchased in 1958. Next year they plan to add another silo, construct a feeding system, keeping the cows in the barn lot and using pasture for increased forage, make a small addition to the barn, increase the milking herd to 30 cows.

Too Far Afield . . .

Congress to elect two senators from each state regardless of population. Similarly each county of Maryland, which is an entity in itself, should have the right of having representation, regardless of population. Of course the big population centers do not agree with this and favor our obliteration.

"Taxation without representation is tyranny", was said long ago, and the same will be said once again, if the courts decide that the 53-senate bill is declared unconstitutional and unacceptable in line with the new Supreme Court ruling.

If it takes a constitutional amendment to change the power of the Supreme court, and that is the only means left, then the state legislatures ought to proceed with utmost speed. For, once Garrett county and several of the other counties lose their right of representation in the state legislature, our wishes will be disregarded and our rights as citizens of a free country lost forever. It is not a rosy picture.

Leglislature

of the measure insisted that this question be left to the courts. The measure would take precedence over the 43-senator bill if found constitutional.

Both bills would retain the present 142 seats in the House but would redistribute them closely along population lines.

There had been tense debate over loss of senate seats by some small counties. The 43-senate bill would wipe out as many as nine counties from any representation, including Garrett which would be aligned with a portion of Allegany county.

Seven amendments to to the 43-senate bill were beaten down. One would have eliminated a requirement that larger counties be divided into senatorial subdistricts with a maximum of two senators from each subdistrict. Others would have omitted subdistricts from Baltimore county only; provided for at least one senator per county with weighed voting to balance strength along population lines; changed the alignment of Eastern Shore senatorial districts; removed a requirement that in the two newly created Eastern Shore senatorial districts, no county could have more than one candidate; removed a constitutional safeguard provision.

Signs Both Bills

Governor Tawes signed on Wednesday the two conflicting acts reapportioning the Maryland Legislature and immediately started court proceedings to determine which will be valid.

Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan took copies of the bills to Anne Arundel County Circuit court. He said he hoped a final legal determination can be obtained within the next three to six weeks.

The next step will be the setting of a date by the court for legal arguments on which of the bills should prevail.

Shameful...

The bill to repeal section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act, which authorizes the states to pass right-to-work laws, has failed so far as this session of Congress is concerned. It will come up again when the next session opens in January. This time, the bill's supporters in the Senate were unable to drum up the two thirds vote that is needed to adopt cloture and thus prevent extended debate.

By January, Congress may think twice before supporting a law that would deprive the states of an essential right and the workingman of an essential freedom. Without right-to-work, the worker is totally at the union's mercy. He has only one choice—to join and pay dues, no matter what his own beliefs are, or to lose his job.

The Portland, Oregonian did a fine job of summing up the matter in a few words: "We fail to understand how a member of Congress can pridefully take away the authority of whites to discriminate against Negroes in housing, education, voting, transportation and employment and in the next breath propose to deny free choice on unionism to all Americans, white and colored . . . It is shameful that members of Congress elected on a platform of freedom and human rights should permit themselves to be bought or intimidated by organized labor to the degree of voting to withdraw the most basic right of an individual—to work or not to work as a free man."—Industrial News Review

Pledge Of Allegiance Week-End Observed

In observance of Pledge of Allegiance week-end in Oakland, flags of the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce flew from the staffs in downtown Oakland on Friday and Saturday.

Flying the flags was an effort to demonstrate that most of the citizens did not agree with a small group throughout the country who were demonstrating and calling for an end to the Viet Nam war, tearing up their draft cards, and otherwise disobeying the laws of the land.

THANKS

Thanks to each and everyone who has helped us accomplish what we have in the last seven years; to every business man, The Garrett National Bank, the Farmers Home Administration, and to our friends, neighbors and fellow farmers, and especially my grandfather, who taught me how to work.

Without all of you we could not have gotten started in farming.

We are very proud of Garrett county, because we feel that there is opportunity here for any young person, who has the desire, to get well established in any business and obtain great pleasure in doing so.

Also let us remember what Paul said in I Corinthians 3:7—So then neither is he that planteth anything, neither he that watereth, but God that giveth the increase.

Thanks again.

Roads Commission Plans For Winter

In expectation of a severe winter, the State Roads Commission has readied its snow and ice removal program to put over 1,400 pieces of equipment under emergency conditions.

The nerve center of the program is a modern radio communications system, working around the clock in snow and icy weather.

The base weather network includes a microwave facility in Western Maryland and remote control of equipment at three mountain top sites.

The 1,400 pieces of equipment available include leased equipment from private contractors. Such equipment is used only in most severe situations.

The SRC itself has available 887 snow plows, 716 spreaders of salt and other chemicals to remove snow and four snow blowers. Trucks and graders with attachable equipment are included in these figures.

FLICKERING LIGHTS
by G. K. Hixon

"Ye are the light of the world." Matthew 5:14

On and on; how I wished that light would stay on. It couldn't seem to make up its mind as to whethhr or not it would shine. As I sat in the church on that Sunday night, the flickering light brought to my mind the lives of unstable Christians. One week Mr. Christian is "zealous unto all good works". By the following week he has become "weary in well doing". II Thessalonians 3:13. For awhile he is "fervent in spirit, serving the Lord". Soon he becomes "slothful in business". Romans 12:11. In Sunday morning service his mind is stirred toward God. An hour later he allows his mind to become corrupted by evil sights and sounds. When troubles shake him, God is a very dear Friend; yet in time of prosperity of health and material goods, he feels little need for God.

Ephesians 5:8 says, "For ye were sometimes darkness, but now are ye light in the Lord; walk as children of light." The moment Christ cleanses a man from sin, a beautiful light replaces the dreadful darkness which was in the heart. Then the responsibility is his to keep the bright glow. Likewise, his vessel must be kept cleansed so that the glow may be seen by all.

No man can manufacture this light. John 1:9 speaks of Christ as the True Light who lights every man. Therefore, the brightness of the Christian's light depends upon the measure of the spirit of Christ which dwells within him. A person imbibes His Spirit by spending much time with Him. The light in his life becomes more STEADY as he continues to dwell in Christ daily.

Are you now saying, "I don't have time to pray today; I'll pray a little longer tomorrow and read an extra chapter in the Bible"? You are allowing Satan to cheat you of light for your own pathway and someone else's, too. It may be that a needy soul is depending on your light, this very day. Will you fail to shine, causing that one to stumble and fall in the darkness which surrounds him?

You can have complete confidence in Christ Jesus because He never faltered. He resisted every temptation with the Word of God, and spent hours in prayer and communion with His Father. So you, also, must shine continuously by His power, to show sinners that the Christ you serve is dependable, "able to keep you from falling". Jude 24.

Paul's light was steady; he was able to say, "Be ye followers of me even as I also am of Christ". I Corinthians 11:1 Could you ask others to follow you with the confidence that they would reach Heaven by doing so? Can your friends see clearly, by your light, which way they should go?

Sometime your light may be the guiding factor in the life of one who is walking through a dark tunnel on the road of life.

Try Our Want Ads—They Pay.

He is fearful, not able to tell just where he is going, wondering whether he will EVER come out of the tunnel into the blessed light of day again. At that point he sees your light and draws near, comforted by your song, or encouraging word, or loving action.

If the light of a lighthouse were to burn for many nights, then fail for one fateful hour, many lives could be lost. No child of God knows just how many are watching his life for an example to follow, or otherwise an excuse NOT to follow God. Therefore, "Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven." Matthew 5:16.

How to Weatherstrip Windows and Doors

Saving fuel and guarding winter comfort is a three-way job of insulating, caulking, and weatherstripping.

There are several types of weatherstripping.

Metal—Strips of thin metal are shaped to seal the window or door by their own springiness. They are easily applied with nails (usually included), hammer, and scissors.

Felt—This is inexpensive, works well, but is not so permanent as metal.

Wood and Felt—Felt glued to pine molding makes a neat stripping.

Metal and Felt—This is especially easy to nail in place, and stands up well.

Special Types—Some weatherstripping is designed for metal casements, hook-type metal thresholds and the like. Windows that won't be opened during the winter can be sealed with rope-type caulking compound, found at your American Hardware dealers.

CAPITOL COMMENT

Charles "Mac" Mathias
Congressman, 6th District, Maryland

The First Admendment—Freedom and Responsibility

A republic is a form of government founded on reason. The forces which direct its policies should be rational, and public decisions should be grounded on logic, information, facts and intelligent reasoning. To insure that these forces can actually influence and shape our policies, Americans adopted the First Amendment to the Constitution—that amendment which guarantees to all citizens of this republic the right of free speech, freedom of assembly, freedom to petition the government. These freedoms must be guaranteed, so that our citizens can debate, discuss and exchange views, and so that public officials can reach the rational decisions necessary for our government to succeed and flourish.

Certainly I am a firm believer in the freedoms enshrined in the First Amendment. Many of the decisions I have made as a Member of Congress have been based on my deep conviction that we should never impinge upon the rights guaranteed to all of us by the authors of the Constitution.

Yet I am equally aware that for each of the freedoms which we have recognized in the Constitution and the Bill of Rights, there is a correlative responsibility. This is an extremely important responsibility for the citizens of our republic to recognize today. For example, in the field of foreign policy I will defend the right of every citizen to express his thoughts and advocate particular policies. I myself have on occasion been critical of some aspect of our foreign policy, and have considered it not only my right, but my duty to speak at these times. But there are limits on the ways in which we express ourselves—the limits of good judgment and good taste. I feel that in many cases, those who are protesting the present American policy in Southeast Asia have transgressed these limits.

I regret that there are those who feel that they can promote a change in foreign policy by mass demonstrations, by dramatic gestures, or by what approaches mob violence. All of these methods are, in my judgment, completely foreign to our concept of rational, intelligent deliberation on the basis of fact. When people meet to discuss public policies, they are well within the protection of the Constitution and are furthering rational debate. But when they find it necessary to have rallies and parades in which reason has no place, or to burn draft cards in violation of Federal law, then they are so far from the ideal of free discussion that they are beyond the boundaries of the types of behavior which our society recognizes and which our Constitution protects.

I certanly recognize the right of citizens to test the limit of our Constitutional guarantees. But they should recognize that, by doing so in this case, they are having no appreciable effect on foreign policy, and are influencing public opinion within this country against their cause. Above all, they are illustrating that, while exercising the freedoms guaranteed to Americans, they do not understand or appreciate the responsibilities which those freedoms impose.

Oaklander Enters Plea of Guilty In Winchester Trial

James Robert Alexander, 19, of Oakland, on Monday entered a plea of guilty in Corporation Court at Winchester, Va., to a charge of forging a $400 check on the Garrett National Bank in Oakland last September 30.

Judge Elliott Marshall requested a pre-sentencing probation report.

Alexander who recently completed a term in the Maryland House of Correction on a similar charge, was placed on parole late in September. He was arrested October 1 in Winchester after a car dealer notified police that he was attempting to pass a $400 check.

Winchester police Capt. Warren Rudolph said Alexander reportedly forged the names of Joseph Smith and Vernon Friend on checks which were cashed as well as the one he attempted to pass.

Garrett county authorities filed a detainer with Virginia police for the man since he had eight charges pending against him, six for forgery, two for false pretense. The initial list of checks totaled $280 and had the name of Turner A. Beavers illegally written on them.

Since that time there have been two charges filed in the office of Trial Magistrate Robert M. Maroney, both for $50. One charge was made by Deputy Sheriff Wayne Wilt and the other by Carroll E. Miller.

With Mrs. Manzella were her mother, her sister, Mrs. Lawrence Riley, of Loch Lynn, and two children. All were treated at the emergency room at the hospital and released. The auto was badly damaged and the truck slightly damaged. No charges were filed.

Chance Of Garrett Electing Senator Slim Under James Bill

Garrett County will have difficulty ever electing a state senator should the recently enacted James plan for a 43-member senate based on population prevail over the one designed to keep a senator for each county.

Garrett as well as Carroll counties would be the probable losers in any shuffle resulting from combining of counties into senatorial districts as provided in the James plan.

Western Maryland, as a region, would have the same number of senate seats under either of the reapportionment plans now before Gov. Tawes for his signature or veto, and possible final determination in the courts.

But the way these seats are apportioned would be entirely different.

Under the North-Hughes bill for a 53-member Senate which the attorney-general says is unconstitutional, there would be no partitioning of counties in choosing senators. Garrett, with 20,420 population, would be entitled to a senator as would Carroll, with 52,785. But combined with larger counties their chances are slimmer, particularly Garrett's.

The James plan combines Garrett, Allegany and Washington into a district choosing three senators, and Frederick and Carroll into a district choosing two.

Under an amendment sponsored by Sen. George E. Snyder, D-Washington, any district electing more than two senators would have to sub-divide. This amendment was aimed primarily at the big metropolitan counties gaining senators—Baltimore county 7, Prince Georges 5, Montgomery-Howard 5 and Anne Arundel-Calvert 3. But in hitting them it also affected Western Maryland.

The three western counties could either break into three single-member districts of approximately equal population, or into one district, electing two senators and another electing one. Lines for all sub-districts would be drawn by the 1966 legislature, largely on the wishes of local delegations.

Snyder thinks the most practical sub-division would be to link Garrett, Allegany and the western side of Washington county into one district, electing two senators rather than carve up both Washington and Allegany counties to create single member districts.

Garrett county would have a difficult time electing any senator against Allegany's four times larger population of 84,169 in the two senator district, but would face just as difficult a task combined with a portion of Allegany which could outvote it 2 to 1 for one senator. A suggested division would include Frostburg, and Georges Creek towns with Garrett county.

Washington county, with 91,219 population, has more than enough for one senator under the 72,000 average of the James plan but not enough for two. Frederick's population is 61,930 against Carroll's 52,785. At present Frederick and Carroll are not required to subdivide under the James bill.

The final decision on lines would be determined in later meetings of senators and delegates

In the House, Western Maryland losses of seats would be the same under both reapportionment bills. Garrett will be reduced to one, losing two delegates. Allegany would keep four of its present 6, Washington 4 of 6 and Frederick 3 of 6.

To Address Rotary

Robert Clifton, of San Francisco, Calif., and Harry Goldin, Detroit, Mich., two young men in the VISTA program, "Volunteers in Service to America", a kind of domestic peace corps, will be the speakers at the weekly meeting of the Oakland Rotary club in the Hinebaugh dining room on Friday evening.

The two are presently residing in Friendsville and work under direction of Dr. Alta Schrock, of Penn Alps, Grantsville. They will explain their program and the work they are doing in this county.

Last Friday the Rotary club observed Rural-Urban night with some thirty-two farmers being guests of the club. Speaker was Rankin Lusby, former 4-H extension agent in this county, but who for the past five years has been executive secretary of the Maryland Farm Bureau and editor of the Farm Bureau News.

Lusby discussed the problems that farmers had with government subsidized farm programs and pointed out that many of these programs were being carried on in spite of the opposition of the farm bureau and other farm organizations. In closing he declared "government cannot provide without regulating. Government is a protector, and not a provider. When it attempts to provide, it becomes neither the protector nor the provider but a tyrannical government headed toward anarchy".

Ross Crowe served as program chairman for the meeting.

2,000 Are Eligible For Medicare In Garrett County

"Enrollment of the Garrett County's area older people in the new medicare program indicates a large majority of those on the social security rolls are choosing to participate in the voluntary medical insurance portion of the program", Edward G. Phelps, Social Security District Manager in Cumberland, announced this week.

"By now, all elderly social security or railroad retirement beneficiaries should have received their kits and the enclosed application for the supplementary medical insurance part of 'Medicare'," Mr. Phelps stated.

Nearly 2,000 beneficiaries in Garrett County are eligible for medicare coverage.

The medicare program set up under the 1965 social security amendments, provides two different kinds of health insurance benefits for most Americans 65 or older. The basic hospital insurance plan will pay a portion of the cost of hospital and hospital-related expense. A supplementary medical insurance is available on a voluntary basis at a cost of $3 a month. This plan is for doctors' fees and certain other medical expenses. The two health insurance programs do not begin until July, 1966, and no monthly premiums for medical insurance are due before then.

Social Security beneficiaries can sign up for medical insurance coverage just by checking "YES" on the enrollment card, signing their name, and returning the card in the prepaid, addressed envelope. The $3 monthly premium will be deducted from their payment checks when the program starts in July.

Mr. Phelps emphasized that people 65 or over do not have to be eligible for cash social security payments to be eligible for health insurance. Those receiving public assistance payments will be told how to apply for health insurance by representatives of their public assistance agency.

Those who are insured for social security but who have never filed a claim because they are still working, those who have not worked at all under social security, and those who have not worked long enough to qualify for cash payments can get the basic hospital insurance and the voluntary medical insurance only if they apply for them. Application can be made at a social security district office or at a temporary service center in the community staffed by social security representatives.

The enrollment period for those who will be 65 or over before the end of the year closes March 31, 1966. The March 31 deadline is important, Mr. Phelps stressed. Everyone who is 65 or will be by January 1, 1966, must return the medical insurance enrollment card by that date—whether received in the mail or picked up at a social security district office, if he wants full protection when the program goes into effect July 1, 1966.

Service To Mark 175th Year

St. John's Church and Parsonage

The anniversary service commemorating the 175th year of St. John's Lutheran congregation at Red House is to be observed Sunday morning, October 31, at 11 o'clock, Rev. Vaughn Taylor, pastor, announced.

Felix Robinson, Oakland, editor of Tableland Trials, will make a presentation on the role St. John's played in historical development of the county.

The history of the congregation dates back to 1790 when early settlers joined together at the Rinehart Tavern for worship services. The tavern also served as a school, dance hall, place for political discussions.

In 1821 the first church in the Youghiogheny Glades, known as "The Church of Susan", was constructed. It was dedicated by the Rev. Frederick Heyer. George Rinehart deeded a half acre lot as a site for this church and it stood on the west side of the road a quarter mile north of the Tavern. It was substantially built of hewn logs and served the community until 1868 when it was replaced by a plank church at Red House in 1870. The Susan Church was dismantled in 1885 by Rev. Jacob Yutzy and Benjamin Hutson. Many of the old hewn logs are still preserved as part of the barn on the Cecil Kight farm two miles north of Red House.

The present St. John's Lutheran church was built in 1907.

That same evening the annual "Gospel Sing" will be held at 8 o'clock at St. John's church. There will be special groups and group singing. Special groups will include The Fulk sisters, Rev. James Costanzo, Miss Mary Harsh, The Texas choir, Miss Becky Fike, Underwood junior choir, Mr. and Mrs. Getty Keefer, Earl Clark, a Barbershop quartet, the Red House choir and Luther League. The sing is under sponsorship of the Young Adult organization. Interested persons are welcome.

Sales of Series E and H bonds in Maryland for the nine months, January to September, totaled $62,458,506, as compared with $60,723,663 for the same period of 1964 an increase of 3 percent, and achieving 75.4 percent of its annual goal of $82,800,000.

September sales amounted to $6,106,092. Calvert county had the lead with 96.4 percent achievement. Garrett county, with a quota of $243,000, had sales amounting to $23,032 for September and $198,258 for the nine months, compared to $158,206 for the previous period. The county had achieved 81.6 percent of its quota and stood 9th among the counties of the state.

We've Been Given Away

The thought has been expressed many times that Garrett county should be a part of West Virginia, but it remained for the writer of the story of the Bruce-Southern football game in the Cumberland Sunday Times to actually give us away.

That story, in addition to calling the Southern Highlanders the "Vikings of Southern," went on to say " a second half splurge to record a 20-0 victory last night in the West Virginia city".

The game, of course, was held in Oakland, Garrett county, Maryland.

Co. Commissioners Discuss Affairs

Establishment of a county-wide fire alarm system in each Western Maryland county was discussed at a meeting of County Commissioners of the five Western counties in Cumberland on October 20. Fourteen of the 17 commissioners were present along with other county officials.

William Ratchford, executive secretary of the Maryland County Commissioners association, declared that revisions of the Cooper report by a legislative committee changed it "from an economic to a political formula". He suggested that on county-wide alarm systems, the five counties should investigate what Howard county has done.

Promotion of tourism on an area-wide basis also was discussed. The group agreed that Garrett did an excellent job in publicizing the attractions around Deep Creek Lake but there was little or no effort in promoting tourism in Western Maryland in general.

County officials agreed that they are making progress in better cooperation with incorporated towns in their counties. Another topic involved the development of parks and recreation areas by the counties.

Another speaker was Gen. Rinaldo Van Brunt, state civil defense director. The group agreed to meet next on February 9 in Hagerstown.

The Cooper Commission was a special committee appointed to study ways of making more tax revenue available to local governments, and among other things suggested turning sales tax revenues over to the subdivisions while allowing the state to retain all income taxes.

A legislative committee, appointed to make the economic reforms suggested by the Cooper Commission more politically palatable, modified the original report and recommended a graduated income tax to increase state revenues.

Mr. Ratchford said the legislative committee had tied the Cooper commission report to "an increased aid to education and school construction program, and made other revisions to get the teachers' vote, the PTA vote, the Chamber of Commerce vote, the public utilities vote and the farmers' vote". "They did this because the Cooper Report tax revisions bill will never pass a reapportioned legislature. The people getting the least out of these tax changes are those having the most in the suburban counties", he told the commissioners from Frederick, Washington, Allegany, Carroll and Garrett. "Since they will have a majority in a reapportioned state legislature the sponsors of the Cooper report know they must act now, or the tax reforms will die," he concluded.

Second Half Rally Nips Highlanders

The Bruce High Bulldogs and the Highlanders of Southern battled to a scoreless first half on a rain-soaked field, but the Westernport gridders staged a second-half splurge to record a 20-0 victory last Saturday night on the Southern gridiron at Oakland. The game had been postponed from Friday evening on account of rain, but conditions were not improved by the delay.

A Southern fumble on the 40-yard line which was picked up by Warner Ettinger, gave Bruce the first score. Ettinger scampered 60 yards to score and Prado booted the extra point.

In the final period the Bulldogs came back with two additional six-pointers as Litton plunged over from two yards out, culminating a 50-yard drive. Prado's kick was wide.

Prado and Shaw combined for the final Bruce score when Prado hit Shaw for a 20-yard gain and Shaw scrambled 23 yards into touchdown land. Prado's kick was good. It was the fourth victory for the Bulldogs against two losses and a tie.

The Highlanders suffered their fifth loss against two victories and are winless in three games in the Potomac Valley conference.

They have two games to play, both at home and under the lights. They will play Petersburg on Saturday evening, October 30, and conclude with a game against Terra Alta High on Friday evening, November 5.

Plans Hallowe'en Event

Final plans for a Hallowe'en social on Friday evening, October 29, were completed at a meeting of the Swanton school Parent-Teacher association last Tuesday evening.

The social will get under way at 7 o'clock with a masquerade parade set for 7:30. There will be prizes, cake walks, grab bags and games. Refreshments and baked goods will be sold. All are invited.

The association also appointed a committee to plan the annual buckwheat supper to be held Saturday, November 20, in the school basement. Following the meeting the girl scouts of troop III gave a candlelight service with songs. Members served as baby sitters during the meeting.

Actress Marie McDonald, 42, was found dead in her California home October 21.

Ecumenical council bowed to minority by watering down its declaration on religious liberty.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Charles A. Barkman, who passed away two years ago, October 28, 1963.
Sad and sudden was the call,
The grief we bear in silence
We often sit and think of you darling
You will never be forgotten dear
As time goes by we miss you more
Our hearts still ache with loneliness
Our eyes shed many a tear
As this ends second sad years, darling
No one can ever fill your vacant place our darling
Sadly missed by his wife, Betty and daughter, Carol Ann.

ALL GOOD THINGS ARE CHEAP

Twenty years ago most prescriptions cost less than they do now. But, they did less. We had none of the costlier antibiotics, new hormones, and other "miracle" drugs which can be depended upon to produce a positive benefit and very often a certain cure.

Present prescriptions are "cheap" indeed, for they usually limit sickness-time to days instead of weeks and save more lives. Some cost more, but you benefit more.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. A great many people entrust with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Junior Chorus At Northern Plans Musical

Mississippi Melody, a two-act operetta based on the adventures of Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn, will be presented by the junior chorus of Northern High School at the school gymnasium on Friday evening, November 12, at 8 o'clock.

With river music background the operetta begins in a corner of a small Missouri town.

Mammy, a stout Negro woman played by Norma Sines, and Jim, her son portrayed by John Wisor, appear in the first scene and are followed later by the entrance of Aunt Polly (Daisy Beiler) and Mrs. Harper (Mary Humberson) frantically on the search for their boys, Tom Sawyer (Ronald Wagner) and Joe Harper (Paul Durst.)

Tom Sawyer, the mischievous all American boy, along with Joe Harper could have only been one place. By means of trickery on the elder's part they find out even though the boys lie, that they were swimming in the "old creek" with that bad, influencing, terrible, awful Huckleberry Finn (Pat Bailey).

"Huck" is the idol of the town boys because no daily washing behind the ears, no school learning, listening to the elders are performed by him.

Soon the group is joined by Widow Douglas (Mary Humberson), the sole adult defender of "Huck". .

Every "mama" has a baby and Sidney (Ed Bach), Tom's half brother, plays tattle tale and mama's boy throughout the operetta.

Romance, too, has its place in Mississippi Melody. Puddinhead Wilson (Gary Savage) courts both Mary (Donna Haentfling) a pretty, vivacious charming girl, and Ella Mae Phelps (Sherry Bender). Tom offers Becky Thatcher (Kathy DeWitt) a doorknob if she will be his girl friend. The knob is his prized possession given to him by "Huck" Finn.

Leaving on a pirate adventure, Tom and "Huck" return as heroes after witnessing the murder of old "Doc" Robinson involving Injun Joe, finally the accused murderer, although Steamboat Sam (George Layman) was first blamed for the crime.

Other performing members of the chorus are Patty Coddington playing the part of Miss Watson, a tart speaking middle-aged woman, and Mrs. Sally Phelps (Debra Hetrick), the middle-aged mother of Ella Mae Phelps.

All chorus members are combining and working together to make this action, packed, thrilling operetta one of the best performed by the Jr. Chorus. The operetta is being directed by Mrs. Lucile Sines.

Park Facilities Boon To Economy

Facilities operated by the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks attracted more than $25,000,000 to the economy of local areas within the State during fiscal 1965, according to Spencer P. Ellis, department director.

"This represents money that was spent in the vicinity of State parks and forests, and is in addition to any fees or purchases made in the facility", he explained.

Three factors were involved: Direct expenditures by the State for payrolls, supplies and other incidentals which are purchased in the local community; A reimbursement of 15 percent of the revenue collected at each location returned to the county in which the park or forest is located; Funds spent in the community by park visitors.

"Our 33 parks and 11 forests in Maryland are host facilities for over 3,500,000 visitors annually, 32.7 per cent of whom are from out-of-State", the director said.

"This past summer, we found that the 379,000 camp groups (averaging 4.2 people per group) spent $7.93 per person daily in communities surrounding State forests and parks during their stay. It is estimated that 61 per cent of the campers are non-Maryland residents.

"This amounts to more than $13,000,000." Mr. Ellis pointed out.

Beside campers, he said 931,000 picnickers utilized department facilities during the same period.

"These people spent approximately $3,000,000, or an average of $3.12 each, in the adjoining towns and villages", the director said.

STILL OUTSTANDING—Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wagner, Jr., Oakland, were given a special plaque last Thursday night at the annual FFBL dinner, for being the outstanding past county winners. The Wagners were county winners in 1957 and regional winners in 1960. The plaque was given by the banks of the county and was just one of several awards given for special achievement in the program. Most of the past county winners during the 18 years of the program's existence are still active members in the effort to improve their farm living. In the photo also are Earl Clark, left, and Nordeck Shaffer, right, representatives of The First National Bank and Garrett National Bank, respectively.

Seven Are Killed On State Highways

Seven persons were killed and twenty-one were seriously injured in highway accidents investigated by the State Police last week. None of those killed or injured was using a seat belt although they were available in six cases. Investigators are of the opinion that four lives would have been saved and fifteen serious injuries lessened had those involved in the accidents been wearing seat belts.

"The continued reluctance of many motorists to equip their cars with seat belts is very discouraging", commented Colonel Carey Jarman, Superintendent of the State Police, "but it is even more difficult to understand why readily available seat belts so often are not used.

"The fact that seat belts do save lives and reduce serious injury is proved repeatedly day in and day out. All motorists would do well to take full advantage of this inexpensive, easily used safety device".

A total of twenty persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the weekly survey of the State Police. Seven of those killed were drivers; eight were passengers; and five were pedestrians. Alcohol was a contributing factor in five of the deaths; speed in ten; and "driver error" was present in all but two of the fatalities.

Church Women Meet

The LCW of Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, met on October 17 with six members attending.

Mrs. Ernest Handwerk presented the theme, "Hidden Hunger". The topic endeavored to help the Christian Women to recognize geographical and social areas of the United States and Canada when hunger is a problem and to be able to identify major contributing factors; to gain Biblical insight concerning the Christiian's responsibilities as a church member and citizen to work through programs of the Church and State; and to commit herself to specific actions which may ease the burden of the hungry.

Brief devotions served as a bridge between the presentation of hunger and the consideration of the Christian's proper and practical response to it.

Mrs. Herman C. Meyers presided. Members were reminded of the fall used clothing drive for Lutheran World Relief. Any clean, re-usable clothing may be left at the church until the last of November.

The group will again meet on November 14 in the church at which time Mrs. Earl Burow will introduce a discussion on "Changing Mission to a Changing World".

YOU won't Know yourself!

Dressing up is always fun! Whether it's Hallowe'en, Mardi Gras, a Hawaiian luau or a masquerade ball, almost everyone of every age enjoys wearing a costume. It makes us feel "different" . . . less restrained and more light-hearted. Perhaps it's a relief to leave our everyday self at home for a while. For many of us, that tired, worried, unhappy self is far from satisfactory but we seem to be stuck with it.

Yet consider this. The burden of self that we carry is unnecessary . . . and we have a standing invitation to lay it down! One of the joys of following Jesus is that we must "leave self behind." There is no place in the Christian life for worry or woe, because the logical sequences of faith in God are contentment and serenity. Yes, the gloomiest pessimists become clear-visioned optimists when they are filled with the light that only God can give.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Being A Fool

Lesson for October 31, 1965

Background Scripture: Judges 13:2 through 16:31.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 1.

How to be a fool in six Easy Lessons. This might well be the title for the story of the life and adventures of Samson. In rough times, he was more than a match for the roughest men. An angel had foretold his birth.

Dr. Foreman

he had religious parents who loved him. God had intended him for a deliverer of Israel. Israel needed delivering; their hostile neighbors the Philistines were a year-round menace. The Israelites could never be free unless they could solve the Philistine problem. Samson was to be the man; but instead, he turned out to be what a modern writer calls a "negative religious hero," the opposite at every point of what God's chosen leader ought to be. Born to be a hero, he ended by being a stunt-man, a clown.

One for one

A trio of adventures (creatures of their author) lived by the motto, All for One and One for All. If Samson had had a motto it might have been One for One. He never worked with a team, he was strictly Samson for Samson. He killed Philistines by the thousands, but always for personal revenge. He could kill a lion with his bare hands, ("He was a young lion and didn't know who he was roaring at"), he could kill a small regiment of Philistines all by himself, he could pick up a city gate at midnight and walk with it forty miles uphill before sunrise. His strength was fabulous. To this day if a manufacturer wants to name a product with a name suggesting strength, he is likely to give Samson's name to it. But none of these exploits del[illegible] the Israelites. Even thou[illegible] in his spectacular death he killed two thousand of his enemies, Israel was still years and years from freedom. Revenge Samson knew. Showing off his strength was his great pleasure but it was always a loner who was in action. He never built up a following. He did not have the organizing gifts of David or even of Saul. He was without the patriotism that helped to make Samuel great. It was always Samson for Samson.

Destiny to dustpan

If you could imagine a person who owns a beautiful, perhaps unique crystal vase, knocking off that vase on purpose or out of sheer stupidity and not bothering to look at it, asking some one to sweep it up. "Into the dustpan with it!", — that would be utterly foolish but very much like Samson, and too much like ourselves to be funny. He was born to a high destiny, a Deliverer in the line of Moses and Joseph and Joshua; and he ended a blind slave, by his own fault. It wasn't that he tried valiently to achieve his destiny and found the way too rough. He never tried. Even in his crashing last moments, when Philistines were carried down screaming under the rubble, he thought of what he was doing not as a victory for Israel, but strictly as vengeance for his lost eyesight.

They never learn

One of Samson's ailments was that he could not learn from experience. Delilah wormed out of him his fateful secret, with the tearful plaint, "You don't love me any more . . . if you did, you wouldn't keep a secret from me." If the big clown had had any sense, he would have thought, Where have I heard that before? This was not the first time that tune had been played. But no, a man like Samson never learns until too late . . . . Well, there you are. How to become a fool, in six easy lessons. But why did we say six? These three are enough. Live for yourself alone; throw into the dustpan your best possibilities and live like the animals for pleasure alone; and never learn from anything that happens to you. Listen to what you want and not what God wants — and you can become a fool without even trying.

Wed Oct. 9 In Pennsylvania

Brenda Joyce Lynch, Needmore, Pa., a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Lynch, became the bride of Thomas Bennett Butscher, Oakland, son of Mrs. Gladys L. Butscher, Parkersburg, Pa., on Saturday morning, October 9, at 10 o'clock.

The ceremony took place in St. Paul's Lutheran church at McConnellsburg, Pa., with the Rev. David R. Hoover, pastor, officiating.

Wedding music was presented by Mrs. Dorothy Golden, Warfordsburg, Pa., at the organ, with Mrs. Kathleen Zimmerman, Warfordsburg, as vocalist. She sang "Whither Thou Goest", "O Perfect Love", and "The Wedding Prayer".

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Thomas E. Miller, Needmore. She was attired in a floor length gown of Chantilly lace and angelmist taffeta, fashioned with a scalloped neckline, basque bodice, long tapered sleeves and an angelmist taffeta redingote full skirt with a waterfall cascade of scalloped tiers sloping gently to a chapel train.

A butterfly shell of lace trimmed with swirls of tiny pearls caught with a peau de soie rose held her bouffant veil of pure imported English illusion. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and also wore a strand of pearls, a gift from the groom.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Ruth M. Miller, Needmore, sister of the bride. She wore a beatty rose two-tone chiffon floor length gown with a scoop neckline, three quarter length sleeves and blending Venetian lace accenting the crescent waistline and controlled skirt. Her headdress was a flowered cap with matching pearls, with maline veil. She carried a blue tinted corsage. Bridesmaids were Miss Judy Ann Miller, Hancock, niece of the bride; Miss Carlys Fix, McConnellsburg. Gowns were the same as the matron of honor except they were peacock turquoise in color. They carried pink tinted carnations.

Lana Romaine Bard, McConnellsburg, was flower girl. She wore a pink dress with a bouffant skirt, smocked bodice and three-quarter length sleeves with white accessories. She carried a basket of white carnations. Ringbearer was Ronald Umbel, Jr., McConnellsburg.

Thomas L. Jones, Washington, D. C., served as best man. Ushers were Gary Daniels, Oakland; and Kenneth Roberston, Berkeley Springs, W. Va.

A reception followed the ceremony in fellowship hall of St. Paul's Lutheran church, with Cherie Fix, McConnellsburg, and Olive Hann, Needmore, pouring the punch, with Mary Culler serving the cake. Following that reception between 2 and 5 there was another one held at the Country club in Oakland where Pearl Daniels, Oakland, cut the cake, and Mrs. Lula Belle Robertson, Berkeley Springs, poured the punch. Bill Reney and Charles O'Haver, Oakland, provided entertainment.

For a wedding trip the couple motored along Skyline Drive and on to Williamsburg, Va. They are residing at Oakland.

The bride is a graduate of Southern Fulton High School, Warfordsburg, and was formerly employed by Sagner, Inc., of McConnellsburg. Mr. Butscher is a graduate of Marietta College, Marietta, O., and is an associate of Four Star Broadcasters, which operate in Oakland and Berkeley Springs.

For the affair the bride's mother wore a blue and white two-piece dress with black accessories, while mother of the groom wore a blue suit with brown accessories. Both wore white orchid corsages.

For traveling the bride wore an autumn green suit with brown accessories and had a brown orchid corsage.

How the U.S. Royal Tiger Paw earned its name.

It had to pass some pretty grueling tests for safety and durability. Tests that only a beast of a tire could pass.

The Tiger Paw™ had to prove that it combined the high-speed and handling characteristics of a sports car tire with the smooth, comfortable ride and the wear of a passenger tire.

And it proved it, alright. Beyond a shadow of a doubt.

Tiger Paws have been tested at 125 miles an hour, sustained speed.

They respond quickly and eagerly, rain or shine. And they have so much guts, you can go over some of the meanest ground without worrying.

On sharp curves and when you're passing, Tiger Paws give you a feel of the road that you just can't get with most tires. They corner beautifully. With virtually no squeal at all (unless you're a dynamiter).

They give you that real sports car feel. You know. As if the car is a part of you.

In case you didn't know, the Tiger Paw is that tire with the red stripe you've been hearing so much about. If you want a set for your car, you can pick them up right here. We're an official U.S. Royal Tiger Paw store.

Huskies Defeat University High

Northern High School's Huskies scored their fifth win of the season last Saturday night when they defeated University High school at Morgantown by the score of 13 to 7. The game had been postponed from the previous evening on account of rain. The gridiron was still soaked for the Saturday encounter.

George Edwards scored the Huskies' touchdown early in the first period on a quarterback sneak from three yards out and Walter Hinebaugh kicked the extra point.

A 37-yard pass play from Edwards to Barry Beal produced the Huskies' second six-pointer just 15 seconds before the end of the first half. The kick for point was blocked.

University High dominated team statistics in their homecoming affair but lost three of four fumbles to Northern on the mud-soaked field. UHS fullback Williams gained 160 yards by rushing and scored his team's touchdown and extra point with about six minutes remaining in the game.

The Hilltoppers had marched to Northern's 15-yard stripe previously in the opening period but lost the ball on downs.

UHS piled up 292 yards rushing and passing and had 12 first downs. Northern had 220 total offense yards and 11 first downs.

The Huskies will play Berlin on the home field on Friday evening, beginning at 7:30 o'clock, and will conclude their season with St. Francis of Morgantown at Morgantown on November 5 in a night game.

God Alone!....

In a Reformation Day sermon last Sunday at St. Mark's Lutheran, on the subject, "God Alone", the pastor, the Rev. Wm. Ernest Fox, had an interesting explanation on the removal of God's name from the oath in court. It is reprinted here.

". . .the removal of God's Name from the oath in court. Of course, the legal powers have the right to call perjury anything they wish - legally! But in reality when you remove The One Who is Truth you are removing the only ground, foundation, sanction, basis and standard there is for Truth. O yes, you can demand adherence to the facts, but liars can twist the facts. There is far more to absolute truthfulness than mere facts. So there is no standard for truth, Truth as absolute honesty of character, without the Person of God. If this world is but an accident with no personal God, then there is no ultimate truth or right or justice - or lies or wrong or injustice. If you take away the true and just God you have nothing at all to judge by as to what is truth or right or wrong or morality or immorality or lying. If there is no standard of weights and measures then there is no pound or a mile. For morality and holiness and justice to exist at all they must live and inhere in, and take their rise in The God of morality and holiness and justice. God alone! He is essential if our world is to be trustworthy and trusted at all. Of course legal grounds for perjury can rest on the test of adherence to the facts, if legality is all we need. But our need is for more than legality, for the removal of God's Name from one after another of our institutions plunges us far deeper into the morass of untrustworthiness. How our world today desperately needs the . . .principle of God Alone!"

PRETTY HEAVY—Several pieces of heavy equipment are on the Baltimore and Ohio siding, destined for the gas storage field of Texas Eastern Corporation at Accident. The one in the process of being moved is a mere 40 tons. It is a heating unit with a capacity of 12 million BTU's, through which the gas will flow. Another but smaller heating unit is on the car beside it, but weighs a mere 35 tons. Biggest unit is a compressor, weighing some 100 tons. Workmen will bring in a heavier crane than the one pictured, before the compressor can be moved. It will be trucked to the Accident field on a couple of low-boys. The equipment for the gas field has come from Black, Sivalls and Bryson, Inc., of Oklahoma City, Okla.

Gas Production A Shade Better For 3 Months

County Receives Check For $2,210.11 For Third Quarter Of Year

The production of natural gas in this county for the quarter ending September 30, showed a slight improvement in the output over the past three months, it was learned this week.

The report received by the County Commissioners showed a check totaling $2,210.11 for the 90-day period.

The amount included the report from the eighteen producing wells of the Texas Eastern Transmission corporation, and the sixteen wells of private owners and the C. and A. Gas company.

This week's accounting was the third quarter for the year. The money is used to pay back the school bond issue for the two high schools. A portion of the check always goes to incorporated towns where producing wells are within the corporate limits.

The report this month showed that 187,405,000 cubic feet of gas had been taken from the producing wells of the area, showing an average of some 2,082,277 cubic feet per day. The amount received for marketable gas was $45,858.82.

Largest producer among the wells was the Barbara Miller well with over 99 million cubic feet. The second was the Ella Collier well which produced 31,574,000 cubic feet. No other well was near those figures. Two of the Texas Eastern was the N. K. Welch well with 6,693,000. This was the area's first producer.

A breakdown showed $1,284.04 as the purchaser's proportion of tax at 2.8 percent of the marketable gas, and $1,926.07 from the producer's proportion of the tax at 4.2 percent. A seven percent tax on the marketable gas has been in effect since 1951. Some checks received by the commissioners in previous periods have totaled as much as $28,000 but the production has decreased steadily for the past several years, and may stop altogether when the Accident gas field is converted into a storage area.

Since the first check for the tax on marketable gas was receive in July, 1951, the county's governing body has received $726,158.86. A tabulation of the output of the individual wells appears in today's issue.

Fix City Tax Rate At 90c Per $100

The Mayor and City Council of Oakland fixed the city tax rate at 90 cents on each $100 of assessable property, at the regular monthly session Monday evening at City Hall. This is the same rate as set for the past many years.

The assessable basis is in the neighborhood of $5 and one-half million dollars and the tax rate is calculated to bring in some $50,000 in tax revenue. Receipts from every source reach in excess of $150,000 per year.

The exact assessable base is now being figured. Last year's total was $5,568,480, but this year's total was expected to show some increase. Much of the construction however, is outside the corporate limits, and would not have any tendency to increase the basis.

There was a minimum of other business at the monthly meeting. Receipts totaled $15,829.44, with $14,749.49 from water accounts; $249.56 from taxes and $830.39 from miscellaneous accounts. Expenditures for October totaled $19,797.82, with the largest item being one of $10,420 in the water department for contract work as capital outlay. The report of the clerk-collector showed a balance in the treasury on October 31, of $12,246.23.

One permit was granted—to A. D. Naylor and company, Inc., to erect a sign, 3 by 4 on a vacant lot on North Third street. Use of the town equipment was granted, at regular rates, to Ray Teets, South Oak street, Ralph Pritts and Sons, E. Liberty street, Southern High school; Loomis Limited, 4th street, and Garrett Lodge No. 113, K. of P. 3rd street.

Man Is Indicted In Federal Court

Terry James Chidester, 21, of Lemont Furnace, Pa., was indicted in Federal court in Baltimore Tuesday.

The indictment was on three counts: for possession or control of a distilling apparatus, without registering with the Treasury Department; carrying on the business of a distiller without posting bond; and fermenting 140 gallons of mash at an unauthorized still.

The grand jury was given the information by Arthur G. Murphy, assistant U. S.. Attorney, who reported the still was located some 350 yards northeast of a point some three miles northwest of Accident, on the Friendsville-Accident road. The discovery was made on August 3 but there was no one there at the time.

The man was arrested at Lemont Furnace on September 1. The date of the trial was not announced.

70 Pints Blood For Grantsville

Citizens from Grantsville and surrounding area contributed seventy pints of blood to the American Red Cross when the Johnstown bloodmobile unit called in that town last week.

There were more than 100 persons scheduled with 62 keeping their appointments. There were 17 walk-ins. Nine were rejected and 22 pints were for definite replacements. There were three first time donors.

One person was a three-gallon contributor, two were two-gallon contributors and there were five one-gallon contributors.

Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Jonas Beachy, Mrs. Kathryn Bowser and Mrs. C. O. Bender.

Pat Bailey Plays Huckleberry Finn In Northern Opera

Black haired, brown eyed Pat Bailey, son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Bailey, of Grantsville, will star as Huckleberry Finn in the junior chorus play, Mississippi Melody, to be presented Friday evening, November 12, in the Northern High School gymnasium.

Pat, the outdoor type, enjoys hunting, baseball and fishing. He plays on the Northern Jaycee football team.

Ronnie Wagner, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wagner, of McHenry, portrays the part of the mischievous lad, Tom Sawyer, in the operetta. He also enjoys football.

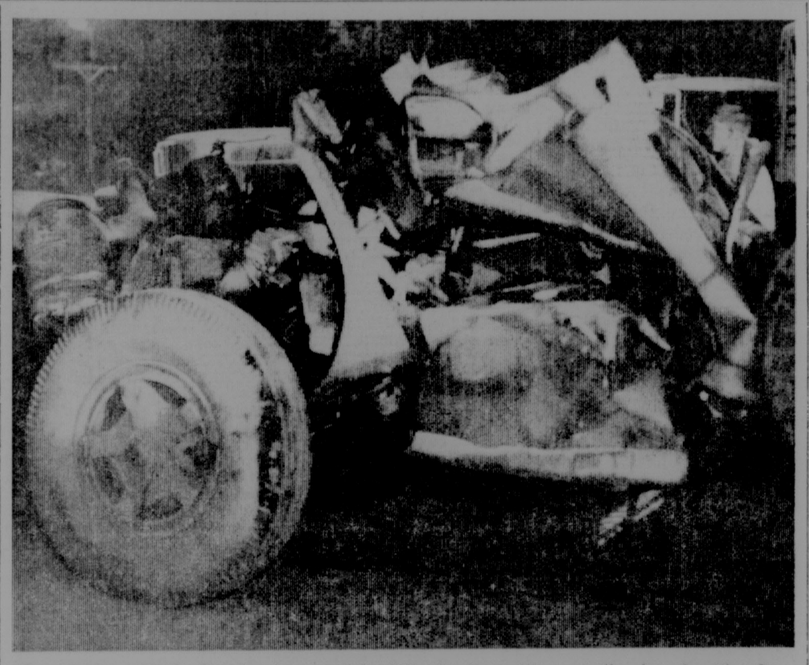
Daisy Beiler takes on the task of being Aunt Polly, the strict guardian of Tom Sawyer. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Beiler, of Grantsville.

The chorus members have combined their talents to make this one of their best efforts. The operetta is under the direction of Mrs. Lucille Sines.

Three Alarms Given; Firemen Reply Once

The Oakland fire department received reports of three fires during the week, but was required to answer only one of them.

All three were grass and brush fires, but the Forestry department took care of two of them.



Saturday afternoon at 3:25 the firemen extinguished a grass fire at the home of Clarence Bowman in Crellin.

Sunday afternoon at 12:15 there was a brush fire along Lake Shore drive but this was reported under control by the forestry department. A brush fire at Hutton on Monday also was put out by forestry workers..

Two additional fires were noted Tuesday. One was a grass fire between the Cropp and Loomis properties on 4th street, to which the firemen responded, and one Tuesday afternoon around 5 o'clock at the refreshment stand at the Southern High football field. Damage was light.

False Alarm

Firemen were called again at midnight last night, and traveled a distance of fifteen miles but it was determined to be a false alarm. Firemen were dismissed at 1 a. m. The fire supposedly was in the vicinity of Hutton Switch road.

Cattle Truck Driver Is Killed At Bloomington

Most Of 50 Head In Tractor Trailer Also Killed Or Maimed

The driver of a tractor-trailer loaded with cattle was crushed to death last Saturday morning at the foot of Bloomington hill, when the brakes of his rig failed while descending state route 135 on Backbone mountain. Victim of the accident was Herbert Samuel Dishman, of Elk Ridge, near Baltimore.

State Police investigating the fatal crash said Mr. Dishman was crushed by the weight of his cargo when the truck rammed into the concrete wall at the base of the mountain. He was unable to negotiate the sharp turn at the site.

Some fifty cattle were in the rig and many of them were killed by the impact while others had to be shot because of severe injuries. The animals were destroyed under supervision of State Police.

Investigating the mishap were Tfc. R. C. Dishong, Cpl. Milton G. Hart, Tfc. Joseph H. Helmstetter, and Tfc. George C. Wachter.

Some of the cattle, apparently not injured, roamed the streets of Bloomington. The tractor-trailer was accompanied by another smaller truck loaded with cattle also. It followed the large rig down the steep mountain. The driver and his helper reportedly were in shock after arriving at the scene and viewing the shambles. The helper had transferred to the smaller

List Initial Report On Museum Funds

An initial report of funds collected for the Garrett County Historical Society building fund, was released last week by the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions club. The amount received was $3,716. Some $20,000 is needed to purchase and equip the building.

The building is presently the home of the Episcopal church and will be available in 1966. The Lions club is spearheading the drive for funds and has committed itself to 10 percent of the total.

Lions club officers urged persons to contribute as soon as possible. Checks may be made to Richard L. Davis, treasurer of the fund, Court House, Oakland. Some sixty individuals and organization and business establishments already have contributed.

Takes Five Stitches

Arthur Naylor, Jr., suffered a cut on the head on Sunday, while placing a sailboat on a trailer, at a Deep Creek Lake cabin, and five stitches were required to close the wound.

A winch handle slipped as the boat was being raised, which struck him on the right side of his head. He was knocked unconscious for a brief time, and later brought to Garrett County Memorial hospital for emergency treatment.

Weimer Lad Leaps From Car, Dies

Daniel Gower Weimer, seven-year-old lad from Upper Marlboro, was killed instantly Sunday when he was run over by his parents' car near Red Creek, Tucker county, W. Va.

The boy and his parents, Veryl and Ruth Bittinger Weimer, both former residents of Mt. Lake Park, were in the Red Creek area to look at some horses.

The youth, left in the car which had a horse van attached to it, apparently pulled the car out of parking gear, became frightened and jumped from the vehicle. It is believed that the door of the moving car struck him, knocking him beneath the wheels.

Born in Oakland October 15, 1958, he also is survived by two brothers, Veryl Edward and Jeffrey Harland Weimer, and a sister, Betty Suzanne Weimer, all at home; and the paternal

Parade and Tree Lighting to Mark Christmas Season

A parade and tree-lighting ceremony will mark the beginning of the Christmas season in Oakland this year, it was learned following a meeting of the Merchants' committee of the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday.

It will be held the evening of Friday, November 26, at the Episcopal church lawn, Second and Liberty streets.

The committee for the Christmas parade includes Emile Germain, Tom Butscher and Don Butler.

Decorations on the streets will be lighted during this time. Santa Claus will make his appearance during the parade. Additional decorations have been purchased and will be placed prior to the parade.

The Merchants' association also is planning a home decoration contest for residents in the Oakland area. Awards of $25, $15 and $10 will be made around December 20, to those selected as the best.

Additional information concerning the lighting contest will be forthcoming.

Patriotic Group Sets 3rd Meeting

A further discussion on the efforts of some groups to remove the name of God from areas of the national life, took place Sunday by interested people at a meeting in the fire hall in Oakland.

Some twenty or more persons attended and selected the name of "Citizens for Back to God and Country", for the organization. It is a non-political group and additional people were urged to join. Another meeting will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the fire hall.

As a start in some action people who were sympathetic to the aims of the organization were asked to begin flying the American flag at regular times, in support. One purpose of the group is preservation of the constitution.

Veterans' Day Observance Is Being Stressed

American legion organizations at Grantsville and Oakland are calling for observances and participation in Veterans' Day, Thursday, November 11, in this county.

The Mayor and Council of Oakland and Grantsville both adopted a resolution at the request of the American Legion organizations, and they are being published this week.

Veterans' organizations across the country are calling for patriotic observance and prayer on that day and asking that individuals, business and industry observe a period of silence at 11 a. m., that day.

The displays of patriotic support for the nation's policies in Vietnam also are aimed at offsetting demonstrations against U. S. troops there. These demonstrations, the organizations say, are giving aid and comfort to the enemy and the majority of the American people abhor these actions.

The proclamation urges the people to observe the day to show continued dedication to the cause of world peace and establishment of a world community in which each nation can follow its own just course without fear of its neighbor.

Two Hospitalized After Collision

Two persons were hospitalized as the result of a head-on collision near Accident early Sunday morning, about 12:15 o'clock, according to a report filed by Trooper J. W. Hopf, of the State Police.

Involved in the accident were Robert Bailey, Jr., of Kingwood, W. Va., and Mahlon Franklin Hutzel, Grantsville. Both cars were demolished.

Both occupants of the cars were brought to Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland where they still remained as patients this morning but a report issued this morning was favorable.

Commissioners Vote 2 To 1 On Disposal Plant

Chester Engineers Say Lagoon System Would Be More Costly

In an unexpected move Monday afternoon the County Commissioners, by a vote of two to one, accepted the recommendation of the Garrett County Sanitary commission to construct a sewage disposal plant, at an approximate cost of $740,000.

The motion followed the receipt of a report from the Chester Engineers on a review of the feasibility of a lagoon system in this area as being less costly, and in which the company indicated it would actually be more costly.

The motion to accept the recommendation was made by Allen S. Paugh, president of the Commissioners, and seconded by Earl Opel. H. D. Swartzentruber dissented and refused to make the decision unanimous.

Mr. Swartzentruber told The Republican yesterday he felt that the citizens of Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn should have been given at least the courtesy of seeing the report before the commissioners made a definite decision.

He pointed out that at the last meeting of the Commissioners with the citizens of the two communities, they agreed to withhold a petition they had prepared to present, when the Commissioners had agreed to obtain an additional study by the Chester Engineers on the lagoon feasibility before making a final decision.

Mr. Swartzentruber said the report was received at 11:15 Monday morning and was voted on at 4 o'clock Monday evening, before the citizens of the two towns had indication of the report.

A meeting of the two communities has been called for next Tuesday evening in the office of the Mt. Lake Park city, council, along with legal counsel, to determine if any move can be made. They had previously indicated their intention of withdrawing from the sanitary district and effecting one of their own.

The report of the Chester Engineers showed they had

Bill Provides For Funds For Planning Rowlesburg Dam

As a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, Senator Robert C. Byrd, of West Virginia, was successful in amending the First Supplemental Appropriations Bill of Fiscal Year 1966 prior to adjournment to include $100,000 to begin plans for the Rowlesburg Dam.

The amendment was accepted by the House members in a conference.

Recreation facilities are to be greatly expanded with fishing impoundments, camping and picnic areas, upon construction of the $86 million dam and reservoir in Preston and Tucker counties.

The rock-fill dam is to be located south of Rowlesburg and the reservoir would extend southward into Tucker county.

Army Engineers estimate that first stages of the pre-construction planning will begin soon with aerial surveys to select tentative construction areas.

The Army Corps of Engineers now considers the Rowlesburg Dam a "rather extensive project" and has tentatively estimated four years as the time required for pre-construction planning.

If the schedule is maintained an estimated six-year construction period could begin about 1970 with the dam completed in 1976.

Both the U. S. Forest Service and the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service have proposed recreational developments to be associated with the reservoir. A sub-impoundment would be constructed in Tucker county on Horse Shoe Run, costing some $1.4 million for 108 camping units, 135 picnic centers, 40 cabins to be constructed by private investment, a boat ramp and swimming area. It would cover 320 acres. The second sub-unit was proposed for the Clay Lick Run area, also in Tucker county, impounding some 83 acres suitable for trout fishing. Some 1,270 acres would be developed for hunting on east bank of Cheat river, bordering Clay Lick run.

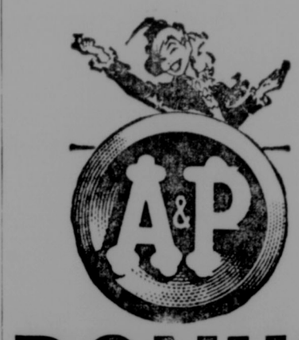
Beauty And The Bath

A turn-of-the-century French beauty maintained a ritual of following her nightly bath with —baths in olive oil, milk, the whites of eggs or often champagne. Fortunately, no modern woman need raid the kitchen cupboard for her ritual of lubrication, stimulation and skin softening. The basic principle that served these belles can be followed today with beautifully scented, delightful feeling products that can make the bath one of the more blissful moments of the day.



For pleasurable tubbing consider Bromley's English Lemon Soap or Faberge's Savon Cake in Woodhue. Tyrios or Flambu. A drop of Revlon's Moon Drops Bath Oil or Andre Richards soft, little capsules of scented oil to counteract that dryness that comes with cold weather.

And After The Bath

Jean Nate Lotion—refreshing, zippy, invigorating, or one of the soft, soothing body lotions —we suggest Revlon's Aqua-Marine!

Last but not the least, a fluff or two of talc or bath powder —Chanel, Faberge, Arpege, Dana — h'm-m — will you feel nice!

Highway Deaths Jump In State

Maryland's highway death toll for the first ten months of 1965 is 120 more than for the same period last year.

"The current highway fatality picture is not a pleasant one to contemplate especially when we see, as we did last week, nine lives lost in a single accident", commented Colonel Carey Jarman, Superintendent of the Maryland State Police, "and there is no indication that there is going to be any improvement during the next two months. Unfortunately, it's an almost sure thing that 1965 will top the record for deaths on Maryland highways".

The question must be raised: Are we doing enough to make better drivers of every operator on the road? Are we doing enough to make sure that every operator has a serious appreciation of his responsibility when he is behind the wheel?

Colonel Jarman declared: "The answer, in my opinion, is an emphatic 'NO', and until we go all-out in promoting driver improvement, we are not doing enough and we will continue to see the highway toll mount year after year".

A total of twenty-three persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the State Police's weekly review. Eleven of those killed were drivers; ten were passengers; and two were pedestrians. Alcohol was a contributing factor in eight of the deaths; speed in eighteen; and "driver error" was present in all but two of the fatalities.

Questions by You and Your Friends Answers From Clinton W. Englander

Question

A friend of mine keeps telling me he's taking a drug that comes from the ocean. Can this be true?

Answer

He can easily be correct because our oceans have often been called "enormous drug stores." A powerful heart stimulant has been found in the salivary gland of the octupus. Sea cucumbers secrete a nerve-blocking chemical called Holothurin. Sponges produce a broad-spectrum antibiotic called Extyonin. A marine worm houses a potent nerve poison called Nereistoxin. All of these and many more come from our oceans.

Viking Winners At Southern 12-0

The Vikings of Petersburg defeated Southern Highlanders 12 to 0 in a Potomac Valley conference game at Oakland last Saturday night. The game had been shifted from Friday night and the attendance was one of the poorer nights of the entire season.

Coach Leroy Bolding's team held the Vikings scoreless through the first half with good defensive work, but the Vikings scored six points in each of the final two periods.

Wilson Mongold plunged over from one yard away for the first TD which was set up by a fumble on the Southern 40. Turley heaved 15 yards to Porter in the final quarter to cap an 80-yard drive.

Turley completed nine of 15 passes for 170 yards.

The Highlanders haven't hit the winning column since they defeated St. Francis High of Morgantown on the home field 19 to 6. Previously they defeated Valley High 25 to 18. Southern has lost consecutively to Northern High 19 to 6, Parson 30 to 0, Keyser 25 to 0, and Bruce High 20 to 0.

The final game of the season will be played this Friday evening, November 5, on the home field, beginning at 7:30, against Terra Alta High.

Ill In Illinois

Corsa Spaid, only brother of the Rev. Daniel B. Spaid, is seriously ill in the Mennonite hospital in Bloomington, Ill., it was learned this week.

The information came to Rev. Daniel Spaid, now residing at Junior, W. Va., but who had been a resident of Eglon, W. Va., for forty years, from his nephew Doren Spaid, of Ellsworth, Ill., a son of Rosel Spaid.

Mr. Spaid was known in this county by the older residents, having worked for Joe Connaway around 1904 prior to going to Illinois accompanied by Henry and Roy Martin, of this county.

Cattle Truck

truck at the top of the mountain. The man was hospitalized and treated for shock.

The terrific impact crushed the tractor and trailer together, and torches were used to separate the two parts of the rig. Mr. Dishman and the others were driving the cattle trucks for Kinder Brothers, wholesale meat dealers of Millersville, Anne Arundel county.

The Bloomington site has been the scene of numerous accidents and Saturday's death was at least the sixth reported in the past few years. Above the wall into which the tractor trailer crashed are five crosses to mark the number of persons killed at that spot.

Mr. Dishman was officially declared dead by Dr. James H. Feaster, Jr., of Oakland, deputy state medical examiner.

Bloomington firemen were alerted by a store operator who saw the truck passing at terrific speed and knew he would never negotiate the 90-degree turn. Some of the firemen worked around the wreckage, three to four hours, in clearing the mess from the highway. The Luke fire company also was called to round up some of the cattle running at large and then the firemen also went to the wreck scene.

"Irrespective Of Need"

As everyone must know, this nation has gone a long way toward what is called a welfare state. But it's a safe bet that few realize how fast the trip has been. It's an equally safe bet—human memory being short—that equally few realize how enormously the costs have escalated.

The story is told in a publication of the Morgan Guaranty Trust Company of New York. In 1945—a mere 20 years ago—federal, state and local government spending on welfare activities came to $6 billion. In the fiscal year that ended in June, 1964, it was $47 billion—almost eight times as much. And the current bill is much higher.

So far as the individual is concerned, social security tax collections show what has happened. The maximum payment in 1949 was $30. Now it is $174. Next year it will rise to $277.20 and further increases are scheduled thereafter. And there is good reason for believing that the future increases will be greater than the current schedules—government programs almost always cost more than the optimistic estimates.

The bank's publication, in discussing the welfare programs, says: ". . . the spectacular growth has been—and will continue to be—in outlays for social insurance plans, which provide cash support to designated classes of people as a matter of right irrespective of need".

That phrase—"irrespective of need"—is a vital one. Take, for instance, the new medicare law. The poor, the well to do, and the very rich will all be entitled to the same tax-supported services so long as they are drawing social security benefits.

About all one can say is—what's coming next?—Industrial News Review.

Civil Disobedience...

One concept which is wholly inconsistent with democratic processes is the totalitarian idea that the end justifies the means. In a free society sustained by respect for procedural as well as substantive rights, the "end", however noble, can never excuse unlawful "means".

A current move in this country advocating unlawful means has been labeled civil disobedience. This doctrine is based on the startling theory that if one does not agree with a law and believes it to be morally unjust, he may disregard it to achieve a particular objective.

I think society, by and large, is unaware of the long-term implications of this creed, primarily because those who seek immediate and temporary solutions have obscured the future by a smokescreen of slogans and high-sounding cliches. No matter what the goal, the fact remains that a peaceful, healthy, orderly society cannot exist, now or ever, if each individual may determine which laws he is going to obey and which he is not.

The basic question is respect for law and due process and whether dispassionate justice is to be rendered.

To my mind, there are two frightening aspects to civil disobedience. One, sowing contempt for law and order and promoting pride in lawbreaking among the Nation's youth can only result in an acceleration of our serious crime problem. In some quarters, it already appears that the social stigma formerly attached to lawbreakers is being replaced by sympathy for their actions and an irrational hostility to law enforcement.

Secondly, where is the line to be drawn against the snowball effect of civil disobedience? Willfully disobeying misdemeanor statutes today and committing felonies tomorrow is a logical regression from a government of law to an anarchic society.

There is no question but that the right of dissent and the right to petition for redress of grievances are absolutely essential to the security of a free people. But the very life of liberty requires that these rights be asserted in a lawful manner. Civil disobedience and the unwillingness of many to resolve their differences by established legal means will surely lead to the destruction of the institutions which protect their freedoms.

It is folly to hold that a utopia of individual rights will rise from the destruction of respect for law.

Commissioners

considered three locations, the one identified in the original report at the plant site along the left bank of the Little Youghiogheny river between Trout Run and the Smouse road; the location about 2,500 feet downstream from the property purchased by the Sanitary commission, on the left bank of the Little Yough, known as the Hoye property; and the location some 5,800 feet south of the above, at the top of the watershed known as the Crellin Straight, adjacent to route 39.

The report indicated the first could not qualify because of its position, and that the cost of pumps and a force main from the outfall to the lagoon site would unbalance any other consideration involved.

It said the Hoye property offered minor problems of access but had some advantages, but that it was not large enough. It put the construction cost of a lagoon as being $291,000; cost of extending existing 24-inch intercepter sewer the required 2,200 feet, $57,500, and the cost of the property at $6,300.

The Crellin Straight site was considered adaptable but its height was some 100 feet above the present Oakland outfall, necessitating installation of high horsepower equipment, greatly increased power bills.

The report concluded that in the best interest of citizens the commissioners would construct the conventional treatment works using the activated sludge method. The Engineers said they had nothing against sewage lagoons and that they have an application where conditions and economics warrant the same.

A tabulation showed estimated project costs for the activated sludge plant, the lagoons on Hoye property and lagoons on Crellin Straight. Construction varied from $359,000 to $291,100 to $298,300; pumping stations and interceptors, $251,000, $288,500, $323,500, for a sub-total of $610,000, $579,600, $621,800.

Ideal Fall Weather

Ideal autumn weather has covered the mountain top during the past week, with an inkling last week-end of what might be expected most any day now.

Most of the days have been fair with cool temperatures in the morning and warming trends during the day.

Last Thursday there was a sprinkling of snow with the temperature near freezing. A mark of 12 above was listed for Friday morning with the day being clear and cold. Saturday was frosty but not quite so cold. Skies were clear and there was a warming trend, along with wind. Sunday was cool and clear with temperature into the low 50's. Monday began around the freezing mark, mostly clear, windy and cold with mercury getting up to 44. Tuesday reached the 50's, and on Wednesday the mercury rose to 64. Both days were clear and breezy.

Temperature was in the 50's this morning but skies were cloudy.

Luke Council Is Seeking Action

Recent accidents which have occurred at the foot of Backbone mountain, including the one just last Saturday, have spurred the City council of Luke to speak out.

The council feels that the road situation should be reviewed by officials of the State Roads commission to determine what is neccessary to eliminate this hazard. A letter had been sent to various state officials requesting them to examine what has happened there.

Suggestions offered include more truck stops, runaway embankments, more signs on the steep grade.

Finan Clarifies Witness Oaths

Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan declared yesterday that the traditional Maryland oath for trial witnesses using the phrase "In the presence of Almightly God", does not violate any decision by the Maryland Court of Appeals or the U. S.. Supreme Court.

But he said this was not true of the phrase "So help you God."

Finan said the oath can be an invaluable "instrument" for obtaining truth from those "whose belief makes them susceptible to its sanctions".

He issued the opinion on witness oaths in an effort to clarify some of the confusion which followed in state courts after a recent decision by the Court of Appeals.

The decision held that a Buddhist was entitled to a new trial because the jurors which indicted him and tried him had affirmed their belief in God when they were sworn in.

He suggested that the traditional oath be continued for all witnesses who don't object, that there be a standard affirmation for witnesses who indicate they do not wish to swear an oath, and a further modified affirmation for witnesses who object to the first two procedures.

VETERANS DAY
THURSDAY, NOV. 11th

This year, Veterans Day should have for all Americans, a deeper significance than usual. When many irresponsible groups and individuals show utter disregard for our country and for our armed forces, and display complete disrespect for law and order, and our governmental authorities we, at THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK believe this Veterans Day, November 11, 1965, to be an appropriate time to place special emphasis upon the need for reaffirming our belief in Democracy, our nation and our freedom.

We, therefore, urge all citizens, public officials, business houses and professional offices to join with us in an expression of complete confidence in our government, our soldiers, sailors, marines and air force, in the job they are trying to do for all Americans—to prevent the spread of Communism.

PAUSE WITH US AT 11 O'CLOCK NEXT THURSDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 11, 1965, IN HONOR OF OUR VETERANS OF PAST WARS AND IN RESPECTFUL AND PRAYERFUL MEDITATION FOR OUR HERITAGE.

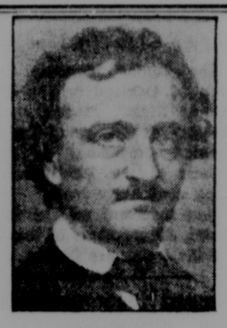
To Be Published

The most intimate links we have with the men and women who made American history are the handwritten letters they penned. With this issue, The Republican begins an illustrated feature entitled "Letters From Famous Americans", which reproduces letters from such famous Americans as George Washington, Abaham Lincoln, Davy Crockett, Alexander Graham Bell, and others. They will be published as space permits.

The feature is supplied as an educational service by Marietta (O.) College from its Charles G. Slack Collection of letters written by over 1300 American historical figures.

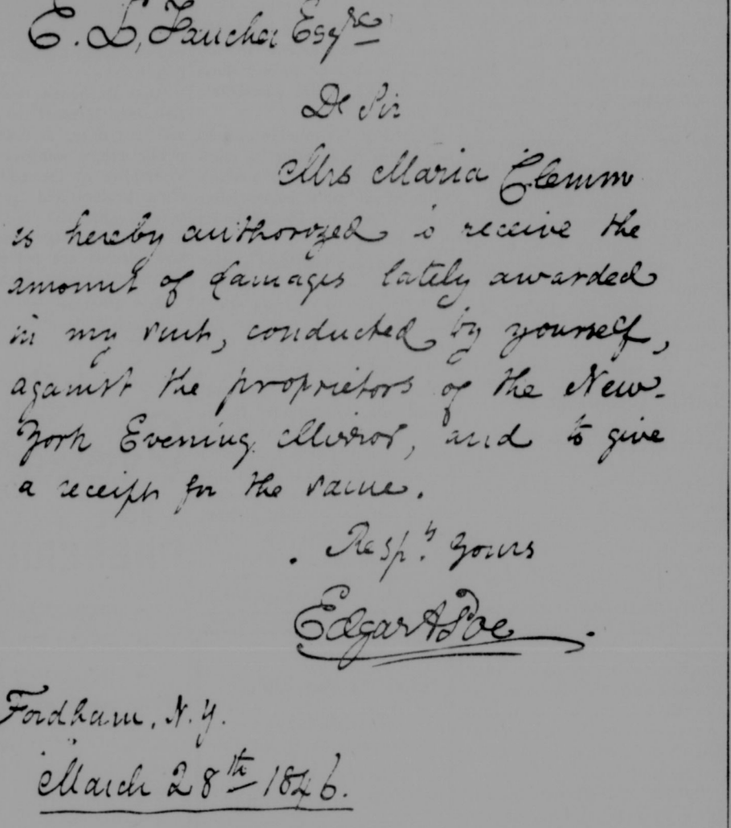
Marietta a small liberal arts and science college in Southeastern Ohio, acquired the collection from alumnus Charles G. Slack, an 1881 graduate.



Considered one of the most complete private collections in the United States, the letters represent a cross section of Americana that includes presidents, statesmen, generals, investors, authors, explorers, actors, philanthropists, artists and others.

All but one signer of the Declaration of Independence and every delegate to the Stamp Act Congress and the First Constitutional Congress are represented. A set of 90 authors' signatures includes nearly every American literary author of note. Recent additions include letters from Col. John Glenn, President John F. Kennedy and Albetr Schweitzer.

The college provides the feature to publications throughout the United States to stimulate interest in American history.



School children often find the letters relevant to studies and some adults have clipped the feature, framed the panels, and thus produced an interesting and conversational wall grouping.

One of the college's aims is to stimulate further reading at home and in local libraries about those who made American history.

Letters From Famous Americans

Edgar Allen Poe, American poet, short-story writer and critic, wrote this letter to Atty. E. L. Fancher in 1847 but misdated it 1846, scholars believe. He refers to the $225 awarded him in a libel suit against the New York Evening Mirror for an article by Dr. Thomas Dunn English, attacking Poe's morals and sanity. While working for the Mirror in 1845, Poe first published "The Raven," the work that established his fame as a poet. He was born Jan. 19, 1809 and died Oct. 7, 1849.

Beyond 14(b)—A New Era

By Truman Sensing
executive vice president
Southern States Industrial Council

In considering the defeat handed the Johnson administration in the struggle over Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act, it is worthwhile bearing in mind that the conservative victory may be much greater than the most people realize. In fact, the Senate's refusal to bow to the combined will of the White House and the union bosses may be a turning point in congressional submission.

Th talk now is that the union bosses will insist on the Johnson administration resurrecting the repeal of the right-to-work provision next year, but the unions may think better of such a move. The Senate debate over Section 14(b), which permits state right-to-work laws, provided surprising insight into the attitude of the country toward the power of the unions.

The surprise was that there is no grassroots pressure whatsoever for adding one whit to the power already held by labor unions. On the contrary, there seems to be a very broad agreement that unions should not be allowed to dominate the job-getting and job-holding process in the nation. If the leadership of the AFL-CIO insists on another effort at repeal of 14(b), it may find itself involved in a complete reconsidernation of American labor law at a time when the temper of the country is not especially favorable to unionization.

What the union bosses must realize, if they expect to retain any substantial respect of the public at large, is that they must devote their efforts to gaining members on merit, not by force. The American people have not yet been browbeaten to the point where they will willingly submit to compulsion. The labor bosses can only expect efforts to gain members through compulsion to backfire on them and produce results opposite to what they desire.

For several years, a number of social commentators in the United States have suggested that the union movement in America is on the skids. They have pointed to the inability of the unions to win converts among white-collar employes of business and industry.

Unquestionably, the union movement has been hurt by revelations concerning hoodlum involvment. The highly publicized activities of James R. Hoffa of the Teamsters have done as much as anything to inform the American people as to what can go on in a union—how the union members themselves have no rights and become captives of autocratic union leaders. Thus a new generation of Americans apparently is disinclined to have their lives mixed up with the sort of funny business associated with many unions.

Another significant factor is the spread of education in the last generation. Americans who have gone through school since the 1940s are better informed than many of their elders. It is very difficult to sell to them the idea that "management" is the enemy of people holding jobs in business.

Private business is not interested in holding people down; it is active in job-training or job-improvement programs. A number of large companies give employes a chance to buy stock. The whole emphasis of American business today is on expanding opportunities and giving employes an accurate understanding of the stake they have in free enterprise. That the average blue-collar or white-collar working man or woman has such a stake is proved by the enormous increase in the size of the American middle-class—the biggest such class in the history of the world.

Perhaps the best way to describe the developing situation is to say that the unions may wither away through employe disinterest. Their only salvation is to concentrate on helping management improve productivity. But they have firmly rejected this bold new orientation. Instead, they try, through repeal of 14(b) and similar moves, to fasten an iron collar on working people. The union leaders don't seem to realize that they are the great reactionaries of our time.

Seek Christmas Gifts For Mental Health Patients

Members of the Garrett County Mental Health association are planning to remember the county patients in Springfield State hospital especially at Christmas.

Letters have been sent to the churches of the area asking their cooperation in getting people interested in the project.

Mrs. E. I. Baumgartner, president, said there were sixty-six patients from this county in the state hospital. She said the Rev. Lawrence Sherwood, and the Rev. W. Shelby Walthall had listed the project in their Sunday bulletins. She said also that the Ruth Enlow library and Ernest Gregg had agreed to receive gifts there.

A deadline of November 8 has been set so that it would not interfere with Thanksgiving and Christmas. A folder available from the Mental Health association gives suggestions on how to help and provides a list of gift suggestions for both men and women. She emphasized that every cent of any cash donation for the purchase of a Christmas gift would be spent only for patients' gifts.

by Martha I. Glotfelty

On October 11th, Governor Tawes called a special session of the Maryland Legislature to re-apportion the Md. Senate in accordance with orders from the courts, which had said both houses must be changed on the basis of population.

The same procedures and formalities are required for a special session as for a regular one. The election of a Speaker Pro-Tem, is the first order of business then presides, while a permanent Speaker is elected by the entire House. The Senate must do likewise.

I understand about $25,000 is spent the first day the Legislature meets. This large amount covers the mileage and travel for the members. Also, the Speaker's staff, reading clerks, secretaries, pages and staff from legislative reference have to be functioning. The following days cost about $7,000 each. All together we were in session nine working days. An order appropriating $75,000 for the special session was introduced and passed.

Since the close of our last regular session, three House members have died, two of them women. Delegate Johnson from Cecil County, 89 years old and the oldest member, died. He had told me of serving at one time with the late A. D. Naylor when he had been in the House many years ago.

Because of these deaths, newly appointed members were required to take their oath of office. One Democrat member was denied his seat, because he had served a prison term. The majority leader of the House requested that his seat be denied him until further investigations were made.

One resolution was introduced and passed which may have substantial importance to our Colleges and Universities. Each of us received through the mail, police records on a Civil Rights leader who was to speak to a group on the campus of the University of Maryland. These reports quoted him as having a record of perversion, draft dodging and being a member of subversive groups. Quite a heated debate arose on whether or not to adopt the resolution, which criticized the University authorities for allowing him to come. Some changes were made in the wording of the resolution by the Judiciary Committee and it was passed. The final version admonished our Colleges and Universities to be more careful in the future about inviting or even allowing persons of dubious character to speak on their campuses or use their tax supported facilities.

Since the bills to be considered had to come from the Senate, members of the House did little more the first week than answer roll call, pass some resolutions and listen to some hearings.

Some folks have said that the decisions regarding re-apportioning will so drastically change the pattern of our State and its legislative procedures that things we have held dear and important will never be quite the same. Events of the future will prove whether or not this is true.

Next week, I shall tell of some of the dramatic moments of our last four days in Annapolis when the voting actually began.

Albaugh Files For Governor on GOP

William A. Albaugh filed Tuesday for Republican nomination for governor of Maryland, on the Republican ticket, and said he would use the campaign to point up what he considers an illgeal disfranchisement of District of Columbia voters.

Albaugh, 43, of Mt. Rainier, has twice been denied hearings by the U. S. Supreme Court on his claim that District voters never legally lost the right they held prior to 1800 to vote in Maryland congressional elections.

Albaugh is distributing handbills offering a $1,000 reward to "the first person who can find the act of Congress, repealing his right in the former Maryland territory".

He said if he can muster 25 percent or more of the vote in a statewide primary he believes Congress will give him a hearing. He posted a $290 filing fee with the secretary of state. He has made two previous statewide primary races, as a Democrat for Congressman-at-large in 1962, and as a Republican for U. S. Senate in 1964.

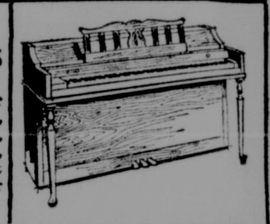
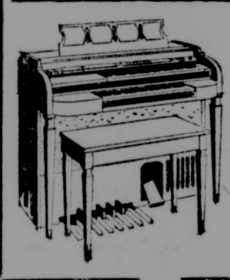
Winter Schedule For Trains Announced

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad announced changes in its passenger train schedules to coincide with the return to Standard time throughout the east, effective Sunday morning, October 31.

Actually there is very little difference in the actual time.





Westbound: train No. 1, National Limited, which has been running at 10:47 p. m. at Oakland on Standard time since the last Sunday in September, will be changed to 11:05 p. m., beginning Sunday. Train No. 11, the Metropolitan, shows no change, the time being 12:52 p. m. daily.

Eastbound, No. 2, National Limited will run at 2:37 a. m., starting Sunday. It has been running at 2:42 daily since September 26. Train No. 12, the Metropolitan, shows no change, being listed at 5:34 p. m., the same as during October.

The timetable, illustrated with four-color photographs, emphasizes the service innovations with which C&O-B&O have pioneered in their campaign to attract passengers back to the rails.

Bowhunters Find Hunting Favorable

Although it's too early in the season to give conclusive statistics, it appears many of Maryland's bowhunters are finding conditions to their liking during the archery season, which began September 14 and will terminate December 24, the Department of Game and Inland Fish reported.

This year, there appears to be more deer, mast and forage conditions are good, and more sportsmen are adding archery to their hunting techniques.

As of October 25, bowhunters had taken 103 deer and the season is not quite half over. Most of the animals have been taken in the central and upper Eastern Shore regions.

Kent county leads with a kill of nine doe and seven bucks; followed by Washington county with eight doe and six bucks.

Archers are allowed one deer, of either sex, during the open season. However, only bucks may be taken during the firearm season beginning November 26 and ending December 4.

Colette Agnes Daiute, New York city, was named Miss Teen Age America at Dallas, Texas on October 30.

Homeowners' Helpful Hardware Hints

How To Thaw A Frozen Pipe

Many a home fire has been started by a handyman who tried to thaw a frozen pipe with a blow-torch. Such drastic action is both dangerous and unnecessary. There are several ways you can do the job quickly, safely and at little cost!

Electric Iron—Of all your household electric appliances, an iron will give you the greatest concentrated heat, and therefore is the best for thawing a pipe. Lash it to the pipe at the faucet end of the frozen section, moving it away from the faucet as thawing progresses. Be patient, and don't let the hot iron touch any of the woodwork.

Heating Cable—If you want to do a scientific job of pipe thawing, you can buy an inexpensive heating cable, wrap it around the frozen pipe, and plug it in. It will do the job quickly.

Hair Dryer—A warm air hair dryer will do the thawing job slowly but safely. Direct the air blast parallel to the suspected freezing. Effective heat will travel five or six feet.

Heat Lamp—An infrared heat lamp is an effective thawing device, but don't use it too close to wood unless you stay near to watch it.

Soldering Iron—A soldering iron is less effective than a flatiron in delivering concentrated heat for pipe thawing, but often you can use the slender tool in a tight area where a flatiron won't fit. It may require hours to burn a path through the ice.

Boiling Water—If you must thaw a frozen pipe without the aid of any electrical heating device, wrap several feet of the pipe with heavy rags and pour on boiling water.

Southern Juniors Win Over Huskies

Coach Bill Watson's Southern Junior High gridders closed the season with a 4-1 record by defeating Northern High juniors Tuesday night at Oakland by the score of 23 to 0.

Northern had beaten Southern earlier in the season by the score of 12-6. These were the only points scored against Southern in five games.

Rich Browning returned a punt 55 yards for Southern's initial TD and Rocky Williams passed to Bob Finch for the point.

Williams passed 10 yards to Finch for the second six-pointer and Williams ran the point.

After a safety made the score 16-0, Williams intercepted a pass and sprinted 50 yards to paydirt. A pass, Williams to Finch, produced the extra point.

Southern gained 172 yards on the ground and 45 in the air. Northern had a minus 32 yards rushing and passing.

Bond Sales Listed

The county's citizens have invested $198,258 in Series E and H Savings bonds from January through September, 1965, it was announced by George K. Littman, volunteer savings bonds chairman for Garrett county.

In order to exceed the yearly quota of $243,000 the county will need a monthly average of $14,915 during the last quarter of the year.

These stepped up sales would put the county and Maryland over the top for the year, it was said.

4-H Clubs Plan Family "Pow Wow"

The Monte Vista senior and junior 4-H clubs will present a family "pow-wow" program Thursday evening, November 11, at 7:30, at the Center street school. At a meeting of the junior club last month forty-six members attended, along with three leaders. Rhonda Rodeheaver, president, presided. Reports were given on various activities.

The club program and goals were presented by Kim Liller and Karen Crone, and approved. Big and little sisters were selected. New projects were distributed to twenty older members. New members initiated were Sheril Corbin, Debbie DeBerry, Clair Englander, Emily Kitzmiller, Ranee Kitzmiller, LuJean Liller, Judy Lee, Janet Landon, Susan Plank, Robin Rodeheaver, Beverly Remley, Denise Shrout, Starla Swartzentruber, Elizabeth Stover, Cindy Stem, Martha Shirer, Sheryl Trickett, Pam Trickett, Donette Welling, Debbie Wolfe, Judy Ingram, Cheryl Moon, Barbara Mance, Elizabeth Hinebaugh, Amy Kittle, Theresa Pritts and Martha Stem.

Gives Class Demonstration

B. O. Aiken, president of the Garrett County Farm Bureau, gave a taffy pulling demonstration last Thursday afternoon before the 7-B group of home economics students at Northern High school.

Mr. Aiken showed how to make pulled mints. He was aided by Carolyn VanSickle, a granddaughter, who had tipped off the class about his ability in this endeavor.

Banquet-Initiation Held

The Girls' Athletic Association of Southern held its annual banquet, October 28 in the cafetorium. The meeting lasted 2 hours, starting at 6:30 p. m. and ending at 8:30 p. m.

The high-light of the banquet was the formal initiation service when all new members were received into the club. Also, newly elected officers were officially sworn in.

To Attend Dinner

Mrs. Elizabeth Randol, Mrs. Mildred Meyer, and Mrs. Carolyn Updyke, members of the Home Economics staff at Southern, will travel to a dinner at Morgantown, W. Va. The dinner is sponsored by the Monongahela Power Company. Principal Kenneth Johns, will accompany the teachers.

Band Plans Activities

The senior high band is again planning to show movies in the cafetorium at Southern. The first in a series of "Saturday Night at the Movie" will begin November 20, with the movie starting at 7:30 p. m.

After the end of the football season the band will start working on the musical arrangements for its fall concert to be held during the month of December.

First Term Ends

The first grading term of the school year officially ended on November 3rd. All students will receive their report cards on November 10th.

Mails Brochure

A new three-color brochure, citing the advantages of doing business in the Monongahela and Ohio valleys, is being sent to more than 10,500 industries by the Area Development Department of Monongahela Power company.

"The mailing is nationwide," according to J. C. Millin, who heads the investor-owned utility's area development staff.

The theme of the brochure, "Over 100 Plants Located or Expanded in the Land of Mon-Power in the Past Two Years," is carried on the front cover. The trademarks of 16 nationally-known firms who are operating in Monongahela's territory are reproduced on the brochure's back cover.

The brochure emphasizes several "profit factors" boasted by the two valleys, including availability of markets, materials, manpower, money and an abundance of electricity generated at mine-mouth power stations. It further underlines the region's "Livability" features found in its small and medium-size cities and towns.

Grandma baked pies today and we had a good laugh together over the story she used to tell me as a little girl of a lady who baked pies and marked them to tell them apart. Half she marked T M for 'Tis Mince, the others T M for 'Tisn't Mince.

It's such fun having Grandma live in our house. Her stories of the old days, her understanding humor, and her joy in living spark our lives. She needs no label. That she's a Christian glows in everything she does. No matter what the circumstances, she meets people and situations with love and goodness. Full credit is hers, that none of the problems that we feared when she came to live with us have developed.

Yes, I'd say Grandma has rubbed off on all of us. We all go to church now and we're much happier because of it. We've learned from Grandma that happiness comes from doing good and loving God.

Why don't you go to Church and take your family with you?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

WHEREAS, every unopposed act of aggression takes away some security from every person in the world, and

WHEREAS, the veterans of our Nation's Armed Forces fought to preserve liberty and freedom in past wars, and

WHEREAS, our Armed Forces are now engaged in a fight to halt aggression and preserve freedom in Vietnam and elsewhere around the world,

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Russell L. Smith, Mayor of Oakland, Maryland, do call upon the people of our community to observe Thursday, November 11, 1965, as Veterans Day, commemorating the service of our war veterans and showing our continued dedication to the cause of world peace and the establishment of a world community in which each nation can follow its own just course without fear of its neighbor. Furthermore I call upon our citizens to assist our Armed Forces in repairing the ravages of war in Vietnam by donating a dollar, if possible, through CARE to provide direct aid to the South Vietnamese people.

A Good Mother

Lesson for November 7, 1965

Background Scripture: I Samuel 1:1 through 2:26.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 37:1-11.

THE IDEAL mother does not exist, for no creature is perfect and women are no exception. An ideal mother would be one against whom no criticism could fairly be brought at any time or for any action in her life. Not the first mother of the race, not even Mary of Nazareth, could be rated perfect. But while no perfect mothers are to be found, good mothers are not hard to find.

Dr. Foreman

To be sure, just being a mother, merely bearing children, does not thereby immediately and necessarily make a woman a good mother. But that is another story. What we have in the story of Hannah is the story of a good mother, a much better than average mother. She lived long ago, and she had five other children besides the famous one; but her chief claim on our notice is how she lived out—though never outlived—her motherhood of her one famous son Samuel.

Her son was welcome

A mother's relation to her son begins, of course, before he is born. Indeed it begins perhaps years before, as was the case with Hannah. She wanted a son long before she had one. She wept bitterly as time went by and no son was born to her, though her husband's other wife (this was when polygamy was respectable) had any number of them. Now it makes a great deal of difference with a child whether his arrival in the family is looked forward to and hoped for and prayed for, or whether his birth is a sort of interruption in his mother's busy life. Is the baby to come as a blessing or a burden? The wanted child has a tremendous advantage, which only a mother can give him. To be sure, it is far better if the mother is not the only person in the family who will welcome the newcomer. In the story of Hannah the reader will notice the deep sympathy throughout between Hannah and her husband Elkanah. Even when she sends her little son away, her husband understands and approves. So we may be sure that little Samuel's father welcomed him even as his mother did, if not so intensely. Happy the child whose whole family rejoice when he is born!

Her son was cared for

"From each according to his ability; to each according to his need." The communists have stolen this motto from Christians and other religious people; but it cannot be enforced on a large scale, as any one can see. Where it really works is in the family. Every good family operates on this principle. When his mother took little Samuel his robe every year, she did not do a little arithmetic to find whether he had contributed to the family enough work to pay for the robe. On the contrary, like every good mother she provided for her child's need without sending him a bill.

Lent to the Lord

A mother never ceases to be a mother. But "mother-love can become smother-love." What is the great "bottleneck" of the Christian ministry? Why is it there are so few missionary volunteers? The answer is mothers. Mothers who suppose a man must choose between God and his mother; mothers who think that if their dear sons go into the ministry or into some "God-forsaken" heathen land, they are turning their back on parents and kindred. Hannah did not think so. At any rate, she was ready, even eager, for her son to begin "serving the Lord" in the way she understood best, at the Shiloh shrine. (He was destined to serve God in larger ways of which she could hardly have dreamed.) But she did not call it "giving up" the child. She called it lending. Hers he still was through all his years. A child lent to the Lord will be given back, with interest!
